BREST LITOVSK BURNED BY THE RUSSIAN ARMY BEFORE THE RETREAT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

ROTTERDAM, via London, Sept. 6.—"Brest Litovsk, which was a city of 53,000 inhabitants, exists no more," says the correspondent of the Rotterdam-Sche Courant, who entered the Russian fortress with the Austro-Hungary advance guard which captured it.

"The nearer we approached the town, the clearer it was shown the Russians had done all they said they would do. The whole town was one of fire. There was not one street saved.

"We were unable to find a living soul in the flaming city except a father and mother with their children in an open space. The father said he had paid a Cossack sixty roubles to be allowed to remain. When the city was empty of inhabitants the Russians ordered the houses destroyed. Brest Litovsk vanished like the little villages on the road leading to it."

COMMEMORATE THE MARNE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Soldiers' graves on the battlefield at Meux and environs were visited today by crowds of Parisians observing the anniversary of the battle of the Marne. Although the demonstration was unofficial, members of the patriotic and civic societies placed floral wreaths on the graves.

Many of those who visited the scene of last year's conflict were in deep mourning. Officers and soldiers home on their four days' leave paid homage to the memory of their fallen comrades.

A solemn high mass was celebrated in the morning in the Meux cathedral by Monsignors Marbeau and Chesnelong, while a patriotic address was delivered by Monsignor Gibbier.

MOBILE (Ala.) Sept. 5.—The schooner John G. Whitden was wrecked with the loss of eight of her crew near Tarpon Springs by the West Indian hurricane that struck the Florida coast on Saturday. John Ross, the only survivor, clung to the wreckage until picked up by a lighthouse keeper at Port St. Joe.

MORE RUSSIANS TAKEN IN BATTLE NEAR GRODNO.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

BERLIN (via London) Sept. 5.—The official statement issued today follows:

"In the western theater: The situation is unchanged.

"In the eastern theater: Army group of Field Marshall von Hindenburg—The fighting between Friedrichstadt and Kovno on the Niemen is unchanged. East of Grodno the enemy crossed behind the River Kotrap, a tributary of the Niemen, south of Grodno. The number of prisoners taken in the battles around Grodno has increased to over 3600. The enemy was again defeated south of Olita, southeast of Wolkowysk by troops under Gen. Von Gallwitz and 500 prisoners were captured.

"Army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria—Our troops gained their way out of the marsh district at and southeast of Nowydwor and north of Pruzana. Farther north progress was made, over 400 prisoners and three machine guns being captured.

"Army group of Field Marshall Von Mackensen—The bridgehead at Brucma Kaftuska was evacuated by the enemy under pressure of our attack. In the region of Drchicsyn and south of that point the enemy again offered resistance yesterday.

"Southeastern theater—The army of Gen. Von Bothmer stormed a row of advanced positions on the western bank of the Sereth."

CZAR'S HALT GERMAN INVASION OF RUSSIA.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Either the driving power of the Austro-German offensive against Russia is nearly exhausted or the German generals have decided that their armies have followed the Russian Emperor's do-as-we-do as far as is considered safe and are preparing to dig themselves in for the winter. This is the opinion expressed by military writers here. Certainly very little progress is now being made and at many points the Germans and Austrians are contenting themselves with repulsing the counter-attacks of the Russians. From the Gulf of Riga to Grodno, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's armies are at a standstill, having apparently made no attempt to cross the Dvina after carrying the bridgeheads at Lennewada and Friedrichstadt.

EMBARGO OF EXPORTS FOR BULGARIA REGARDED AS SETTLED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—(2:40 a.m.) A Reuter dispatch from Bucharest filed [illegible] says:

"The difficulties between Rumania and Austro-Hungary regarding Rumanian exports to Austria and the transportation of German goods to Turkey through Rumania, have been settled.

"Rumania and Germany will provide for the free exports from Rumania, which in turn will permit the transit through its territory of Bulgarian goods except those which are to be used for military purposes. Rumanian commissioners with the Ministers of Finance, Commerce and Public Works, will supervise exports and imports in transit. They already have stopped freight cars loaded with [illegible] destined for Germany.

SHOVES NEW YORK FROM THE TOP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—New York lost its place to Chicago last year as the leading American city in cost of building operations. Statistics made public today by the United States Geological Survey show Chicago's 1914 building operations to have cost $82,261,710, while New York's total was $74,080,341. New York's decrease compared with 1913 was $32,074,466.

San Francisco showed the greatest increase of any city with $7,140,299 more than in 1913; Brooklyn, N. Y., was second with $7,109,801 increase.

During the year there was an apparent general decrease of building operations throughout the country although ten cities showed increases over 1913.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—"It's a pretty park," said the French artillery officer. "We've done a lot for it since the owner left. I hope he'll appreciate it when he comes back."

The car traversed a winding drive through woods between banks. At first the chalets stood their full height above ground, suggesting tea gardens in England. Further on, they sank into the earth until at the top of the ascent only their solid brown roofs showed. Torn branches, drooping across the driveway with here and there a scorched patch of undergrowth, explained the reason of their modesty.

The chateau that commanded these glories of forest and park sat boldly on a terrace. There was nothing wrong with it except, if one looked closely, a few scratches or dents on its white stone walls or a neatly drilled hole under a flight of steps. One such hole ended in an unexploded shell.

HEARS BOOM OF A GERMAN CANNON.

"Yes," said the officer, "they arrive here occasionally." Something bellowed across the folds of the wooded hills. Something grunted in reply, something passed overhead querulously, but not without dignity. Two clear fresh barks joined the chorus and a man moved lazily in the direction of the guns.

"Well, suppose we come and look at things a little," said the commanding officer on observation post.

There was a specimen tree, a tree worthy of such a park, the sort of tree visitors are always taken to admire. A ladder ran up it to a platform. What little wind there was swayed the tall top and the ladder creaked like a ship's gangway. A telephone bell tinkled fifty feet overhead. Two invisible guns spoke fervently for half a minute and broke off like terriers choked on a leash. We climbed until the topmost platform swayed dizzily beneath us. Here one found a rustic shelter, always of the tea garden pattern, a table, a map and a little window wreathed with living branches that gave one the first view of the devil and all his works. It was a stretch of open country with a few sticks, like old toothbrushes, which had once been trees 'round a farm. The rest was yellow grass, barren to all appearances as the veldt.

GRASS YELLOW FROM GERMAN GAS.

"The grass is yellow because they have used gas here," said an officer. "Their trenches are—you can see for yourself." The guns in the woods began again. They seemed to have no relation to the regularly spaced bursts of smoke along a little smear in the desert earth, 2000 yards away, no connection at all with the strong voices overhead, coming and going. It was as impersonal as the drive of the sea along a breakwater. Thus it went, a pause, a gathering of sound like the race of an incoming wave, then the high flung heads of breakers spouting white up the face of a groyne. Suddenly a seventh wave broke and spread the shape of its foam like a plume overtopping all the others.

"That's one of our torpilleurs, what you call trench sweepers," said the observer.

Among the whispering leaves some one crossed the platform to consult the map with its ranges. A blistering outbreak of white smoke rose a little beyond the large plume. It was as though the tide had struck a reef out yonder. Then a new voice of tremendous volume lifted itself. Out of a lull that followed somebody laughed. Evidently the voice was known.

"That is not for us," a gunner said. "They are being waked up from—" he named a distant French position, "and so the torpilleur is attending to them there." We go on with our usual work.

"Look! Another torpilleur. The barbarian!"

Again a big plume rose and again the lighter shells broke at their appointed distance beyond it. The smoke died away on that stretch of trench as the foam of a swell dies in the angle of a harbor wall, and broke out afresh half a mile lower down. In its apparent laziness, in its awful deliberation and its quick spasms of wrath it was more like the work of waves than of men and our high platform's gentle sway and glide was exactly the motion of a ship drifting with us toward that shore.

"The usual work, only the usual work," the officer explained. "Sometimes it is here, sometimes above or below us. I have been here since May."

A little sunshine flooded the stricken landscape and made its chemical yellow look more foul. A detachment of men moved out on a road which ran toward the French trenches and then vanished at the foot of a little rise. Other men appeared moving towards us with that concentration of purpose and bearing shown in both armies when dinner is at hand. They looked like people who had been digging hard.

"The same work, always the same work," the officers said, "and you could walk from here to the sea or Switzerland in that ditch and you'll find the same work going on everywhere."

"It isn't war, it's better than that," said another. "It's the eating up of a people. They come and they fill the trenches, and they

GOOD CATCH OF WHALES.

Four Hundred Estimated as the Season's Pack off Gray's Harbor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ABERDEEN (Wash.) Sept. 5.—A catch of 400 whales off Gray's Harbor, Wash., more than has ever been taken here before in a single season, is assured by Manager James F. The proportion of sperm whales taken has been large and catches are being made daily. Four whalers are engaged and the plant is kept in steady operation.

Remaining Boats of F Group Rendered Hors de Combat When U. S. Supply Ship Crashes into Them in the Harbor—Fifteen Skeletons Taken from Derelict F-4.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

HONOLULU, Sept. 5.—The three submarines of the F group remaining since the loss of the ill-fated F-4 were put out of commission today when the United States steamer Supply crashed into the flotilla while docking here. The vessels damaged were the F-1, F-2 and F-3.

Investigation showed the F-1 to be leaking in the after fuel tank and to have sustained damage to the diving steering gear. The F-3 will have to be drydocked for repairs before she is fit for service again.

The F type of submarine was made the subject of a strict investigation after the loss of F-4 and the findings of the Board of Inquiry recently made public pointed out such serious weaknesses common to all vessels of the F type that naval officers here have been discussing the advisability of taking all the F boats out of service.

The work of clearing the hull of F-4, which was recently raised and drydocked, has been suspended until Tuesday. Fifteen skeletons have been taken from the derelict's interior to date, nine of them without skulls.

TWO MEN ARRESTED IN SAN JOSE AS BLACKHANDERS.

District Attorney Believes Their Capture will Clear up Three Dynamite Outrages and the Sending of Many Threatening Letters Through the Mails.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—Two Italians were arrested here today by W. J. Dreischmeyer of the District Attorney's office, who is convinced he has evidence to convict the two men of being the leaders of a gang of "blackhanders" responsible for the writing of threatening letters, also for three dynamitings in San Francisco, one in this county and one house burning in San Jose.

The two suspected men are Tony Difrance, a barber, and Joseph Vetrano, manager of the Sicilia Club of this city. The arrests are the result of three years' investigation. The matter started in 1912 when A. Orlando, a wealthy orchardist of Berryessa, got a letter demanding $2000. In June, 1914, another letter was sent to Frank Russo of this city, incidental to which the house of Vincenzio Maniscalco, No. 1321 Columbia street, San Francisco, was blown up.

A string of letter writing was then discovered and on March 15, 1915, the front of the house of A. Trapani, president of the Western Fish Company, San Francisco, was blown up with dynamite. Dreischmeyer is convinced that the two men have been writing letters to people in Oakland and Pittsburgh and it is believed that the house of I. Trapani, No. 488 South Seventh street, this city, was burned by the same gang, July 29, 1915. Salvatore Scialabbi, owner of a shoe store on Alamedan avenue, and Frank Baroni, No. 722 Thirteenth street, also got letters. The detective does not think the Sicilia Club as a whole is involved in the charges.

GERMANS TORPEDO LINER, BUT PASSENGERS ESCAPE.

Captain and Crew of Hesperian Bring Crippled Vessel Into Port.

Message from American Consul at Queenstown Declares Ship Carried One Gun Mounted and Plainly Visible at the Stern — Wounded Canadians Were Aboard Bound for Montreal.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 5.—The Allan Line issued the following notice this afternoon:

"All the passengers and crew of the Hesperian were safely landed today at Queenstown."

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—The Allan Line management today received cablegrams from England informing them that the Hesperian, which was torpedoed, was proceeding to Queenstown under convoy.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Allan steamship Hesperian was torpedoed at 8:20 o'clock last night off the south coast of Ireland, 100 miles southwest of Fastnet. Approximately 350 passengers were on board, one or two of them Americans.

The steamer did not sink and is reported (6 p.m.) under convoy to Queenstown, to which port many of the passengers and crew were taken by rescue steamers.

Passengers landed at Queenstown assert that the attack was made without warning. The American Consul at Queenstown telegraphed the Embassy here that there were one or two Americans aboard, adding that none was lost.

No submarine was seen and probably it was too dark to observe the wake of a torpedo, but all the passengers and members of the crew who arrived at Queenstown in the rescue steamers today agree that the attack was made by a German under-sea boat, basing their opinion on the force of the shock and the great volume of water thrown into the air. This dropped back on the deck, drenching the passengers who were taking an after-dinner promenade, feeling quite safe in the belief that they had passed the danger zone.

The force of the explosion was tremendous. Of the passengers who landed at Queenstown many were scantily clad and about twenty were injured. There were no American passengers aboard, so far as the American Consul could learn tonight, but two members of the crew were American citizens and they were both saved.

CANADIANS RETURNING.

About thirty Canadian soldiers, who were wounded in battle in Flanders, were going home to recuperate. Most of the other passengers were Canadians returning from a visit to England or English people on their way to Canada to settle.

The torpedo struck the Hesperian in the forward engine-room and the ship immediately began to settle by the head. Capt. Main ordered the passengers and crew into the boats, but with his officers remained on the bridge, although at that time he must have felt sure that his ship would go down.

The discipline was perfect, but one of the boats, the fall of which became jammed, capsized and those in her were thrown into the water. In the darkness, confusion naturally prevailed, but all were picked up, and, with other passengers and the crew, were transferred to the rescue steamers, which arrived in answer to wireless calls for assistance. The Hesperian was about 150 miles to the westward when struck.

Diplomacy.

TORPEDOING OF LINER RAISES GRAVE QUESTION.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 5.—The Federal administration is nervously alive to the grave possibilities involved in the torpedoing of the Allan liner Hesperian by a German submarine.

The President and Secretary of State are asking these questions tonight:

1.—Were there any Americans on board the ship?

2.—Was the Hesperian torpedoed without warning?

3.—Was the Hesperian attacked while trying to escape?

If there were Americans on board and the ship was attacked without preliminary notice and particularly without offensive action on the part of the Hesperian officers and crew, then Germany will have deliberately violated the formal pledge given to this government on August 31 by her Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff.

Here is the pledge given in writing by the Ambassador:

"Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of non-combatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance."

AS TO CIRCUMSTANCES.

In the judgment of officials, none of these circumstances reported regarding the presence of wounded Canadian troops on board or of a gun being mounted astern lessen in any way the offense of the submarine commander. It is extremely doubtful in view of the notes exchanged by the United States and Germany, that the latter will mention these circumstances except perhaps in extenuation. It could not cite them in order to claim exemption from an apology, disavowal and reparation for such minor injuries as may have been inflicted upon the Hesperian's American passengers.

So far as the Hesperian's gun is concerned, the State Department has consistently held that such an armament, the position of which indicated that it was purely for defense, did not make the ship so armed a vessel of war. The point has not so far led to definite action in the present war, but in the American note to Germany of June 9, this government referring to Germany's excuses for the sinking of the Lusitania, alleged to be armed, said:

"It was its (the United States') duty to see to it that the Lusitania was not armed for offensive action." No reference was made to defensive guns astern except to imply that the guns were not aboard.

Early in the war one British merchantman, the Adriatic and another vessel, which docked at Philadelphia, carried guns astern. Ger-

TWO MORE MEXICANS SHOT BY AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) Sept. 5.—Two Mexican bandits were shot today by American soldiers returning the bandits' fire across the Rio Grande at Cavazos Crossing. At the same time the gravity of the situation was relieved somewhat by the co-operation of Carranza military authorities who removed Carranza troops from the river bank at Cavazos Crossing.

Maj. Hay, chief of staff for Maj.-Gen. Frederick Funston, arrived today from San Antonio and was followed by several troop trains, the beginning of a troop movement which will put the weight of 4000 regulars in the lower Rio Grande Valley to help maintain peace.

One Carranza officer and one civilian, known in Matamoros, Mex., as a Carranza supporter, were killed in yesterday's fighting at Cavazos Crossing, about fifty miles west of here, between Mexicans and American soldiers and Texas Rangers.

Capt. Frank R. McCoy, Third United States Cavalry, in command of the troops at the crossing fight, reported also that there probably were other casualties among the Mexicans yesterday. These casualties were at least a dozen Mexicans, seen to fall during the fighting.

The total American casualties yesterday and today were one slightly wounded and one horse injured.

The American Consul, Jesse H. Johnson, at Matamoros, came here today on behalf of Gen. E. P. Nafarrate, commanding Carranza troops there, to secure permission for his men to recover the body of a Carranza soldier lying on the river bank near Reynosa, which is almost opposite Hidalgo, the nearest town to the fighting yesterday. This soldier, a Carranza cavalryman, Nafarrate told Johnson, went to the river with his horse, whereupon persons on the American side shot him.

Col. Robert L. Bullard, commanding United States troops here, sent instructions to the troops at Hidalgo to see that Mexicans were not harmed when they went after the body.

Vice-Admiral Jellicoe Declares Methods for Countering Kaiser's Undersea Attacks Have Grown Beyond All Expectations and King George's Navy is Now Stronger than at Any Previous Time.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(Delayed in transmission.)—For the first time the veil of secrecy over the British naval operations has been lifted. During the past week a correspondent visited the grand fleet and the great naval bases. At one naval base he saw dry docks capable of docking the largest dreadnaughts which had been built since the war began.

Maps were shown the correspondent, marking points where German submarines had been sighted and on which the results of the attacks were classified under "captured," supposed sunk," and sunk." When bubbles are observed rising for a long time at the same spot in smooth water it is taken for granted that a submarine's career has been ended.

When an officer was asked, "How do you get them?" His answer was, "Sometimes by ramming, sometimes by gunfire, sometimes by explosions and other ways we will not tell of."

All of the officers aboard the battleships and armored cruisers are envious of those engaged in submarine hunts, which are regarded as great sport. The professional opinion was expressed that the reasons the Germans are declared to be ready to forego submarine attacks on liners is the want of submarines and the personnel to carry on their campaign.

VAST BRITISH FLEET.

The admiral commanding at an important naval base told the correspondent that England had 2800 trawlers, mine sweepers and other auxiliaries, outside the regular service on duty in the work of blockading from the British Channel to Iceland, and in keeping the North Sea clear

As the torpedo-boat destroyer, on which the correspondent was a passenger, after a cruise at sea and following the coast, turned the headland into the harbor, where the grand fleet lay at anchor, he saw a target being towed in the customary manner for firing practice by some of the cruisers. "We keep at it all the time," an officer explained.

The practice of the cruisers finished, they took their place in fleet formation among the immense field of gray shapes at anchor in precise order, which as the torpedo-boat destroyer drew near became line after line of dreadnaughts.

In the tint melting into the sea even the Queen Elizabeth, back from the Dardanelles, looked small for her tonnage and gun power unless compared with the Inflexible, the flagship of the Falkland Islands' battle, or the vessels of the light cruiser squadron, which just had come in from "sweeping" the North Sea, as scouting is called.

DECKS ARE STRIPPED.

Every deck was stripped for action, steam was up in every ship and as the destroyer threaded her way turrets were seen turning and guns being elevated and lowered in the course of drills. Seaplanes were sailing over the fleet.

In their places in the battle cruiser squadron, which is known in the navy as the "cat squadron," were the Lion and the Tiger, which sank the German armored cruiser Bluecher in the North Sea battle.

"This seems a sufficient denial of the German report that the Tiger is at the bottom of the sea," says an official. Looking strange among the homogeneous types of the ten gun ships which belonged to the British navy, was a Turkish twelve-inch gun dreadnaught, taken over at the outset of the war.

As the torpedo-boat destroyer approached the flagship of the commander-in-chief, an officer pointed out Vice-Admiral Sir John Jellicoe as one of two officers promenading the quarter-deck, carrying a telescope under his arm. From the quarter-deck he can keep his eye on all the gray monsters which form the fighting part of his command, while others of his host of ships are abroad on different erranda.

JELLICOE'S PERSONALITY.

Quick of movement and of speech, tanned by the years of exposure consequent on constant duty and with only a broad band of gold lace differentiating from the other officers, Vice-Admiral Jellicoe received his guests at the gangway. The admiral, at 57 years, is the senior of all the list, which includes vice-admirals at the age of 44. He is never without that telescope under his arm when he is on deck and officers say there is nothing that he does not see.

Vice-Admiral Jellicoe escorted his guests through the ship, showing them the men at drill. He was most interested in calling attention to the special machine practice of the gun spotters firing, where the result of each shot is displayed.

"This is the best we have until the Germans come out and give us a chance at the real thing," said the vice-admiral. Stepping into a small room, where telegraph keys clicked and a compact wireless apparatus was hidden behind armor, the correspondent say one instrument which brings to Sir John word of any submarine having been sighted or of any movement in all the seas around the British Isles and carries the commander-in-chief's orders far and near.

The bluejackets were invariably sturdy men of mature years who have been kept drilling on the same ship since the war began. Their health is better than in time of peace, as they are kept aboard and given sufficient exercise and good food.

TO CONSERVE MEN.

The aim is to conserve the men always up to the maximum of efficiency, officers explained, and not to overtrain them to staleness or permit of any slackness. Whether in the turrets, on the bridge or below decks there was a significant absence of even the most minute things which would not serve a purpose in battle. Only on the commander-in-chief's cabin, with numerous sea maps on the wall, did books and pictures suggest other than naked utility for war.

Sir John Jellicoe and all his officers spoke in the same strain about the situation. If the German fleet had any chance of success, they said, it was at the outset of the war. Every month, the British fleet had grown stronger and was better organized to meet any possible emergency. Though the submarine had played a more important part than many anticipated, the methods for countering their attacks and destroying them had developed beyond expectations.

Submarines waited outside the harbors, they said, whenever the fleet or any part of it went forth, but they had succeeded in hitting one vessel, a light cruiser. The grand fleet itself had learned how to care for itself.

The hardest part of the war for the navy, the officers declared, was in the early days, when the fleet was continually at sea looking for a battle. Now it was secure and ready. It could steam to action instantly if the patrols, which continually swept the North Sea, reported any signs of the German fleet.

Raises Grave Question.

many complained and the owners removed the guns before the ships cleared on their outward voyage. The fact that the ships having entered armed were allowed to clear even minus their guns, establishes that the United States does not construe defensive guns as fixing the warlike status of a vessel. Otherwise the ships would have been interned for the duration of the hostilities.

Section 5283 of the Revised Statutes of the United States authorizes the clearance of armed vessels from our ports, provided that bond be given and that the vessel shall not be employed to cruise or commit hostilities against any state with which the government is at peace.

VON BERNSTORFF'S NOTE.

It is further pointed out that the recent change in the German attitude toward the submarine war seems to involve an acquiescence in this view of the United States. Count von Bernstorff's note of September 1 did not qualify in any way the "liners" that were not to be attacked.

While he quoted only the one sentence from the forthcoming note of the German Foreign Office, it is believed even if the full text as drafted carried a qualification that might permit an attack on the Hesperian, the qualification would be omitted rather than put Germany in the position of quibbling and suggesting that the qualification had been inserted later in plea for the latest incident.

If the Hesperian were warned and the passengers and crew given a chance to get into the boats and escape, then Germany will have lived up to her pledge, a precedent will have been established and at least this serious phase of the German submarine campaign will have disappeared. Then the administration will be in a position to take up the next step in its programme as follows:

Recognition by Germany that the principle applied in the case of liners applies also to cargo boats.

Germany still reserves the right to torpedo cargo boats without warning as she did in the cases of the Gulflight and the Nebraskan and the President and Secretary Lansing realize that this government cannot permit the policy to continue without grave danger to the relations of the two countries. Mr. Lansing takes the view that it is far more important to protect Americans serving as members of a crew than the casual passenger. In the one case a man has to ship in order to earn his livelihood; in the other a variety of reasons may have impelled the voyage.

DON'T EXPECT DISAVOWAL.

In view of the generally accepted fact that the submarine which sank the Arabic was itself sunk, the administration does not expect a disavowal from the German government. In his brief note to the Secretary of State, the German Ambassador explained that the new policy of his government was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred. In itself this has been taken as a disavowal. In certain circles, here, however, it has been asserted that the statement is proof that the instructions claimed to have been issued to the submarine commanders were merely further "scraps of paper."

If the Hesperian were destroyed without warning, Germany may claim that the new policy failed to reach the submarine commander in time because he was at sea and could not be reached. In that case the American government will call attention to the fact that the same claim was made with reference to the Arabic, and that it cannot go on accepting excuses.

In the case of the Hesperian as in the case of the Arabic, Germany cannot offer as a defense that she was serving as an ammunition carrier. Both these ships were leaving England for America.

HEAVY RAINS FLOOD ITALY.

ROME, Sept. 5, (via Paris.)—Torrential rains have fallen throughout Italy for several days, turning some of the rivers into violent floods, with resulting disasters.

Bari has been a heavy sufferer. Here houses were swept away and a number of people have been drowned. In Naples several quarters of the city are under water.

The Vesuvian villages of Portici, Resini, San Giovanni, Leduccio, San Giorgio, Cremano, Barra and Ponticelli are partly covered by a great quantity of mud and ashes washed down from the slopes of the volcano. In this section a man driving a horse and cart was caught in the flood and carried away.

It is impossible for trains from Brindisi to reach Naples as the railroad bridge has been carried away.

SAY HESPERIAN CARRIED A GUN.

Washington Surprised, but no Comment is Made.

Officials Decide to Wait for Complete Report.

Germany's Action, However, is Very Bewildering.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — Official Washington received news today of the torpedoing of the Allan liner Hesperian by a German submarine with unconcealed surprise, though there was none of the grave anxiety that followed the sinking of the Arabic.

While comment was withheld at both the White House and the State Department pending detailed reports on the attack, it was learned that high officials regarded it as inconceivable that, after the assurance given by the German government last week, a German submarine commander had, without warning, launched a torpedo at a peaceful passenger vessel.

AMERICANS IN CREW.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing heard of the incident first early today through Associated Press dispatches. Later, cable reports from Ambassador Page at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown announced the torpedoing of the Hesperian. Two Americans were said to have been among the members of the crew.

The reports as made public by the State Department made no mention of whether the vessel was warned or attempted to escape, but it is known that other advices indicated that while the British Admiralty believed there had been no warning it would not announce it as a fact.

WAS ARMED.

Some significance was attached to Consul Frost's statement that the Hesperian carried mounted and visible on her stern a 4.7-inch rifle. While international law permits merchantment to have guns for defensive purposes particularly when they are of small caliber and mounted aft, it was pointed out that if the Allan liner acted at all suspiciously after being approached the presence of this gun probably would figure prominently in the submarine commander's explanation of the torpedoing.

Unawares.

SUBMARINE IS SEEN BY THE WATCH ON DECK.

Those Aboard are Thrown from Chairs by Impact of Torpedo and Later All are Taken off by Rescue Steamers as Hesperian Begins to Settle.

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 5.—Rescued passengers and members of the crew of the Allan line steamer Hesperian arrived here today and told of the torpedoing of the liner Saturday evening by a German submarine off the south coast of Ireland.

The passengers were unanimous in declaring that the Hesperian was attacked in the early night without warning. The only person aboard the ship who actually saw the underwater boat was a man on watch, who got a glimpse of it in the distance and reported the fact to Capt. Main.

The passengers declare that the steamer was down by the head when they last saw her, but that she was making her way slowly to Queenstown under her own steam.

Ronald Whiteway of London, who, with his wife, was a passenger on the Hesperian, said:

"We were sitting on the upper deck when, about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening we felt a violent impact which almost knocked us out of our chairs.

"In less time than I can tell of it, a huge volume of water rose almost as high as the masts and, breaking, drenched us to the skin. We had thought we were out of the danger zone and were discussing the possibility of a pleasant voyage.

"The life boats were quickly lowered and rowed away from the steamer, on which the captain and officers and some of the crew remained. After the explosion the Hesperian settled down by the head. Rescue steamers were soon on the scene and took the passengers on board."

GREECE TO STOP ALL CONTRABAND.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS WITHOUT TAKING ACTION ON DEMANDS OF THE ALLIES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ATHENS (via Paris) Sept. 5.—After passing a stringent law against contraband, Congress adjourned until October 15 at the close of an all-night session. Premier Venizelos has made no statement regarding his foreign policy.

The pressure of the allies upon Greece to meet the suggestions of the quadruple entente regarding territorial concessions to Bulgaria, apparently has slackened for the present at least. Interested diplomats declare it is now up to Greece to act.

Two government employees were arrested last night, charged with revealing to belligerent agents the contents of messages from opposing belligerents.

tons gross, was outward bound from Liverpool for Montreal.

FORCE OF TORPEDO.

The torpedo struck the Hesperian forward of the engine-room, tearing away the forward part, so that the water rushed into the forward compartments. The wireless operator instantly sent out a call for aid, while Capt. Main ordered the boats over the sides. Three of them are said to have been upset in launching and twenty persons who were injured have been landed at Queenstown.

When it was seen that the Hesperian was likely to remain afloat for some time, Capt. Main insisted upon returning to his ship to await the arrival of Admiralty tugs, which he hoped would be able to take her safely to Queenstown. Twenty of his men went back with him.

The Hesperian was 8124 tons net. She sailed from Montreal August 17 for Liverpool, where she was reported to have arrived August 27.

The Allan Line, owners of the Hesperian, has been operated for about three years by the Canadian Pacific Railroad, ships of the line running between Great Britain and Canadian ports.

The Hesperian was built at Glasgow in 1908. She was 485 feet long with a beam of 60 feet and a depth of hold of 30 feet.

REPORT OF CONSUL.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—A cablegram from American Consul Frost at Queenstown to the State Department tonight announcing the torpedoing of the Allan liner Hesperian, with a loss of probably eight or ten lives, said the liner carried mounted and visible on her stern, a 4.7-inch rifle.

The Consul's message, dated 1 o'clock this afternoon, follows:

"The Allan liner Hesperian torpedoed by German submarine seventy miles southwest of Fastnet at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening. One or two Americans on board, none lost. Loss of life about eight. Vessel has not sunk. Admiralty boats landed passengers and troops at 8:30 this morning. Have returned to bring Hesperian in here (Queenstown.) Due about 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. There were about forty-five Canadian troops on board, unorganized and mainly invalided. Also one 4.7 gun mounted and visible on stern. Vessel bound for Montreal."

TURKS DESTROY A SUBMARINE.

COAST GUARD SHIP SHELLS AND SINKS SEA TERROR OFF ARMUDLI.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville) Sept. 5.—The Overseas News Agency makes the following announcement today:

"A headquarters report issued at Constantinople has announced that the Turkish coast guard ship Bahrsfid had shelled and sunk an enemy submarine southwest of Armudli. It was impossible to save the crew."

Armudli is on the Asia Minor coast of the Sea of Marmora, at the entrance to the Gulf of Ismid.

An Athens dispatch to the London Star Saturday states that a British submarine, after passing through the Gulf of Ismid, landed a party at Gebize to dynamite the railroad bridge. After planting the bombs the party was said to have returned to the submarine.

DUMBA SAYS ARCHIBALD WAS VERY STUPID MA

Austrian Ambassador Cannot Understand How American was Caught.

Papers Found on the Correspondent Told in Detail How to Cripple the Munition Plants in the United States by a Series of Strikes — These Documents, Dumba Declares, are Entirely Proper.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LENOX (Mass.) Sept. 5.—Dr. Constantine Theodore Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, admitted today that he gave James F. J. Archibald, an American newspaper correspondent, a letter for delivery to Foreign Minister Burien in Vienna in which he proposes certain measures to be taken to hamper the manufacture of munitions for the allies in America.

Dr. Dumba did not seem disturbed over the detention of Archibald at Falmouth and the confiscation of the letter and other official documents which the German and Austro-Hungarian embassies in this country had intrusted to him for delivery to home officials of their respective governments. He defended as entirely legitimate the measure which he proposed in his letter, as calculated to restrict the output of munitions for the allies.

According to dispatches cabled to this country, the letter written by Dr. Dumba, which was found in Archibald's cabin on the steamship Rotterdam, represented that "We can disorganize and hold up for months, if not entirely prevent, the manufacture of munitions in Bethlehem and the Middle West, which, in the opinion of the German military attache, is of great importance and amply outweighs the expenditure of the money invested."

TO CALL STRIKES.

This object was to be accomplished by means of strikes among the subjects of Austria-Hungary employed in the munition plants.

Dr. Dumba will leave Lenox tomorrow morning for Washington to see Secretary of State Lahsing and explain the letter. To newspaper correspondents he said in a jocose way:

"I can't understand how Archibald could have been so stupid."

Dr. Dumba seeks the interview with Secretary Lansing with the idea of preventing the acceptance as genuine of any garbled copy of his letter. The letter, it is said, has been photographed and a copy sent to the State Department.

The dispatches which Archibald carried were delivered to him in New York at a dinner at which Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador; Dr. Dumba and Archibald were present. It seemed to the Ambassadors to be a good opportunity for communicating bulky dispatches to their government. Full copies of all the documents Archibald carried remain in the hands of the Ambassadors.

SAYS LETTERS PROPER.

Dr. Dumba denied there was anything in the dispatches Archibald carried which was not entirely [illegible] to communicate to his government. There was a memorandum of a number of Hungarians and other subjects of the empire employed in various steel works and some other information, all perfectly proper to be declared, for the Ambassador to communicate to his government.

"There was nothing in the dispatches which Archibald carried cannot be satisfactorily explained," said Dr. Dumba. "The paper regarding embarrassing steel works is nothing more than a very ordinary perfectly proper method is [illegible] to bring before men of our [illegible] employed in the big steel works [illegible] facts that they were engaged in enterprises unfriendly to their [illegible] land, and that the imperial government would hold these [illegible] munition plants where [illegible] being filled for the allies, [illegible] guilty of a serious crime against country, something that would be [illegible] ishable by penal servitude, [illegible] they return to their own [illegible] country.

"There are thousands of [illegible] men in the big steel industries [illegible] of Bohemia, Moravia, Galicia, [illegible] tia, Croatia, Slavonia and [illegible] ple of the races from Austria-[illegible] gary," he went on, "who are [illegible] cated and who do not understand [illegible] they are engaged in work against [illegible] own country.

PAPERS SUBSIDIZED.

"In order to bring this before [illegible] I have subsidized many [illegible] published in the languages of [illegible] lects of the divisions [illegible] tempting in this way to bring [illegible] felonious occupation to their [illegible] tion. But this has been difficult; [illegible] some of the great steel plants of [illegible] sylvania these uneducated [illegible] country are nothing more or less [illegible] slaves. They are even being [illegible] twelve hours a day and [illegible] stockades. It is difficult to get at [illegible] workers, except enmasse and a [illegible] ful walkout of these workers [illegible] would be of the greatest advantage [illegible] my government, as well as in the [illegible] nity to themselves.

"It is my duty, as the representative of Austria-Hungary to make [illegible] these facts to the imperial government and in so doing I am performing a service for which I was sent to this country. The dispatches or papers carried by Archibald contained nothing more than a proposal that [illegible] tempt to call out the workmen in our own country from these [illegible] munition works and provide for them other employment. To do so [illegible] would be necessary and a labor employment bureau would have to be organized. This is one of the things I shall bring before the Secretary of Labor and Commerce in Washington this week. This seems to me to be [illegible]

TORREON (Mex.) Sept. 4 (via [illegible] Sept. 5.)—When I left the United States ten days ago, there were [illegible] reports that Gen. Villa had violated or was about to [illegible] the statement made by him to Gen. Scott, in their conferences on the border, respecting the protection [illegible] property in Mexico. I had come today to bring these reports to Gen. Villa's attention and in response to my inquiry, as to whether the reports circulating in the United States were correct, he said:

"Gen. Scott is a soldier, so am I. We are not politicians, we are not diplomats. I, we are not diplomats. As one recently informed me that a gentleman once said a diplomat is a man who is hired to lie for his country. I repeat therefore that Gen. Scott and I are no diplomats. At our conference on the border, we were soldiers and talked as soldiers. The statement that I made to him regarding the protection of foreign [illegible] in Mexico, was warranted by nothing except my word of honor. Since I returned from Juarez to Torreon, I was overwhelmed with work.

VILLA ASTOUNDED.

"When I arrived at Durausgo on the [illegible] I received a telegram from Gen. [illegible] informing me of the reports [illegible] you have mentioned. I was astounded and incensed and asked Col. [illegible] what Gen. Scott meant. He said he did not know. I tried to find out what had happened but could get no information. Then and there I telegraphed Gen. Scott, that I knew nothing of any information that may have been made of the intentions expressed [illegible] to him on the border, and that there had been any such infraction [illegible] without my knowledge or consent.

[illegible] than requested him to send to [illegible] at once a representative of his [illegible] in the matter. TAMPICO OIL WELLS CLOSE Americans Have Lost Two Million Dollars There Since the Carranza-Villa Revolution Began.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 5.—A message, dated August 31, received here today from Gordon Willard, an American oil operator at Tampico, Mex., said all oil wells in that section except the Aguila have been closed down. The operators of the Huasteca oil fields, American-owned, closed down with the announcement they had lost $2,000,000 since the Carranza-Villa revolution began and that they have exhausted every resource to continue operations. Thousands of men are out of employment.

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) Sept. 5.—The mystery of the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, a wealthy physician, and the wounding of his secretary, Miss Emily Burger, last Tuesday night, may be cleared by the finding of two men today.

These men, the police say, were fishing in Echo Lake on Tuesday night not far from the scene of the shooting. They told the police they heard shots and later saw two men standing beside a motorcycle along the road. The fishermen expressed the opinion that they were negroes. They will tomorrow confront George F. Healis, C. Victor Brown and Henry Shellman, the three negroes who are charged with murder in connection with Dr. Mohr's death.

PEACE FRIENDS ATTACK JINGOES.

National Convention Opens Sessions in Chicago.

Dr. Vollmer Says an Unholy Trinity Cries for War.

He Also Thinks it Wrong to "Let Wilson do It."

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—The first session of the national convention of the Friends of Peace, which opened here today, was given over largely to the women delegates as a sentimental acknowledgment of the part women must play in the peace movement, but a number of men speakers launched vigorous attacks on what they called the "jingo press" manufacturers who are shipping munitions to belligerents. These attacks were greeted by applause.

A ripple of applause also greeted the reading of a bulletin announcing that the Allan liner Hesperian had been torpedoed by a German submarine, but immediately a storm of hisses drowned out the applause. The bulletin read by Henry Weissman of Chicago, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, contained the erroneous statement that 600 lives had been lost. Later another bulletin stating no lives had been lost was read and the delegates broke into applause that lasted several minutes.

WEISSMAN SKEPTICAL.

Mr. Weissman, after reading the bulletin, said the action of the submarine confirmed an opinion of his that reports declaring Germany had acceded to the demands of the United States regarding submarine warfare, had been published solely to keep people from attending the convention of the Friends of Peace and that the "jingo press" had loaned its efforts to the movement with that end in view.

Rev. D. C. Berkemeier of Mount Vernon, Ky., was the first of these speakers. He charged that the influential papers of the United States are trying their best to incite the nation to war.

Rev. Berkemeier said the "plain people" of Europe, whether Russian, German or French, did not want war.

Rev. P. Vollmer of Dayton, O., said there was prevalent a sentiment to "let President Wilson do it," whenever the conduct of our foreign negotiations was brought up.

"That's wrong, and it is un-American," he said. "We must let our servants, who handle the reins of our government for us, know what we want. If we want peace we must keep a watch on them."

UNHOLY TRINITY.

Rev. Vollmer ended his address with the charge that there is an "unholy trinity" in the United States that is trying to rush the country into war.

"It is composed of the money and war munitions trust, the jingo press in many instances controlled by the munitions trust, and that type of rowdy politician that clamors for the avenging of the Lusitania and the Arabic," he said.

AMERICANS READY FOR INVASION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — All United States troops on the Mexican border were under orders tonight to be in readiness to meet any emergency. War Department officials said extraordinary vigilance had been ordered as a result of repeated raids in American territory by Mexican brigands and soldiers, and renewed reports of preparation for an organized invasion from across the Rio Grande in the States of Coahuila and Nuevo Leon.

As long as the Mexican raiders continue to appear only in small bands, it is understood that there will be no following of them into their own territory. No announcement on the subject has been made, but officials indicate that the American commanders would not hesitate to pursue the enemy until they were completely routed should anything resembling an organized invasion of the United States be encountered.

SALTILLO FALLS TO CARRANZA.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 5. — Saltillo, capital of the State of Coahuila, was occupied today by Gen. Obregon. Followers of Villa resisted the Carranza forces at Angostura, an outlying point, and are reported to have suffered heavy losses.

Slavs Halt Invaders.

of Vilna, the fall of which has been predicted for some days, the Germans are faced by very strong Russian forces, who by their offensive make it dangerous for the Germans to push their way westward, north or south of them.

GERMANS ARE MASSED.

The Germans, on the other hand, are massed between Grodno and Kobrin on the Brest-Pinsk railway, but their immediate object is not obvious, unless they are looking for a good defensive position on which to hold the Russians throughout the winter.

Further south the Russians are offering fresh resistance as they are firmly established in a fortified area of which Rovno and Dubno are centers; while in Galicia they still hold the line of the Sereth River.

With the rainy season a few weeks off, the opposing armies, especially in the marshy region of the center, cannot hope to carry on the operations much longer and some reports state that the Germans and Austrians are already moving troops to the Servian, Rumanian and western fronts.

In the western zone, the heavy artillery of the allies is still bombarding the German lines, doing all the damage possible and trying to break the morale of the German troops, but thus far there is no indication of a general offensive.

TURK ATTACK FAILS.

Paris reports that the Turks have delivered an unsuccessful night attack against the British positions near the Anzac region, but beyond that no news has been received of the operations in the near east.

There has been a renewal of the reports from Athens of dissensions between the Turks and Germans at Constantinople and of depression among the Turks as the result of heavy losses in Gallipoli. No evidence of this, however, is to be found among the Turkish troops, who are reported to be fighting with all their old stubbornness.

Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the British Admiralty, in a letter to the press, gives official recognition to the belief here that the German promises to America not to sink any more passenger steamers without warning were brought about by the realization that the submarine warfare against merchantmen had proved a failure. He again intimated that many German submarines had been accounted for and adds that British mercantile tonnage is now greater than before the war, despite the damage done by the submarines.

Cloudburst Visits Cincinnati; While Other Sections Report Rain with Rising Temperatures.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 5.—Rain was general over the East Central States today. In the vicinity of Cincinnati the storm assumed the proportions of a cloudburst, 2.32 inches of rain having fallen in twenty-four hours. In Chicago a fine drizzle fell most of the afternoon. The maximum temperature in Chicago today was 68 with a minimum of 66. In the East the weather was fair with temperatures ranging about the 80-deg. mark. Other temperatures:

SAY SUBMARINE IS LOSING OUT.

ENGLAND CLAIMS TO HAVE SOLVED UNDERSEA MENACE.

Now Uncle Sam, Who Intended to Build Many of These Boats, is Hesitating, as Late Events Indicate They are not Such a Terror as Generally Believed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 5.—That recent information to the effect that Great Britain has been able to destroy half a hundred German submarines since the war began will have an important effect upon the administration naval programme at the next session of Congress was admitted in high official circles today.

In a letter to a friend in the United States, it was learned today, Sir John French, in command of the British forces on the western front, recently stated that Great Britain has found a way to deal with the submarine menace. He pointed out that fifty submarines have been captured or destroyed since the war began.

This fact has had great weight with Secretary Daniels and other officials of the Navy Department. They are coming to the conclusion that so far as real results are concerned the submarines have been a failure in a military way.

UNCLE SAM HESITATES.

It has been intended to spend many millions of dollars on submarines. The Navy Department's programme provided for this. Now, however, it is believed that more money will be paid for the construction of destroyers and other war vessels for defensive purposes.

The English government, it is understood, has been using nets as well as destroyers to dispose of the submarines. The success of these methods is shown by the fact that official reports credited Germany with the possession of only forty-six submarines at the beginning of the war. All of these, doubtless, have been replaced and more added, but it is a fact that the original fleet of submarines has been virtually wiped out.

AUTO THIEF SENTENCED.

Theodore Thiel is Given Seven Years in San Quentin for His Coast Operations.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Theodore Thiel, so called $100,000 automobile thief, pleaded guilty in the Superior Court here yesterday to a charge of grand larceny and was sentenced to seven years at San Quentin Penitentiary.

Thiel was accused of operating in most of the larger cities on the Pacific Coast. Several months ago he jumped $4000 bail bonds and fled to El Paso, Tex., where he was re-arrested.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Very often the patient feels best and brightest at night. Rest seems to bring no refreshment, the nervous system fails to recuperate. This distressing condition is caused by worry more often than by any other one thing. Overwork and worry invite the disorder.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed towards building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50. Begin the treatment at once before your condition becomes chronic.

Two useful books, "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

DENY HESPERIAN CARRIED A GUN.

OFFICIALS OF ALLAN LINE DOUBT STATEMENT FROM QUEENSTOWN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—Officials of the Allan line here tonight doubt the statement of American Consul Frost at Queenstown, who, in a dispatch to Washington, said that the Hesperian carried a 4.7-inch gun.

"So far as we know," said one of the officials of the company, "the Hesperian did not carry a gun."

Cables received here by the Allan line stated that the Hesperian, badly down by the head, was proceeding to Queenstown by her own steam. Two British destroyers, one message said, had taken off seventy-four passengers and all but the captain and twenty of the crew.

The torpedo, according to the dispatch, hit the Hesperian in the bow, close to Nos. 1 and 2 compartments.

DVINA BRIDGES ARE DESTROYED.

Germans Force Russians to the Right Bank.

Teuton Seaplanes are Driven off Near Riga.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5 (via London, Sept. 6, 1:50 a.m.)—The Germans, having set fire to the bridges over the Dvina in the region of Friedrichstadt and with reinforcements started a movement to force a crossing, the Russians, according to an official communication issued today, have crossed to the right bank of the stream.

The communication says:

"At the entrance to the Gulf of Riga enemy scouts and seaplanes appeared several times on September 3 and 4 above Vigen Strait, throwing bombs on our torpedo boats. They were driven off on each occasion by the gun fire of our ships.

"On the left bank of the Dvina the Germans brought up reinforcements and directed their main efforts to forcing a passage of the river in the region of Friedrichstadt. Owing to the inequality of the respective forces of our troops who had crossed to the left bank near Linden, we were obliged on the 3rd after a stubborn fight to recross to the right bank.

BURN BRIDGES.

"According to detailed reports of the fighting near Friedrichstadt on the same date the withdrawal of our troops was due to the setting afire of the bridges over the Dvina by the enemy's artillery.

"In the region of Riga and Jacobstadt the Germans have confined themselves to impeding our advance.

"Toward Vilna we hold the enemy in his old position. In the region of Orany, on the third our troops drove the Germans from the village of Smalniki, capturing over 200 prisoners, including some officers.

"On the lower Meretchanka we sustained on the 3rd, in different circumstances, an onslaught of the enemy whose advance threatened to cut off our retreat in the Grodno region.

"On the front of the Niemen above Grodno to the River Jaslolda, near Berezs-Kartuskia, our troops successfully repulsed in several sectors on the night of the third and the following day, many enemy attacks. The enemy, nevertheless, succeeded in pressing us in the direction of Volkovysk.

IN GALICIA.

"Between the rivers Goryn and Styr the enemy, considerably reinforced, toward the evening of the 4th continued to develop his offensive on the Dubno-Rovno road. On the right bank of the Styr to the north of Dubno fighting has commenced.

"In Galicia, on the Sereth River, the enemy made a determined advance September 1 in the region of Tarnopol and Tlouste and in the region of the mouth of the Sereth, and on both banks of the Dneister. Near Tlouste stubborn attacks by the enemy although reinforced, were repulsed by our artillery. In our counter-attacks we took about 300 prisoners, including officers. The fighting continues."

MILESTONES OF SUFFRAGE.

Progression Towards the Goal is Evident from Interviews and Acts of Legislatures.

[Boston Transcript:] The Legislature of Nevada has just passed a bill giving a mother an equal right in the estate of a child with the father. Formerly the father received the larger share.

Judge Flannigan of Menominee, Mich., has put himself on record as favoring women jurors in cases involving women and girls.

Judge Ben Lindsay recently empanelled a jury of women in the Juvenile Court of Denver to help him give a just decision in a case wherein a girl and seven boys were concerned. This is the first time women have been called as jurors in a criminal case in Colorado.

Gov. Trammell of Florida has just signed a charter giving women the right to vote at municipal elections in Fellesmere. This is the first suffrage grant ever given to the women of Florida.

The Legislature of Connecticut, which has just finished its sitting, killed every bill aimed to improve the condition of women. It refused to take the first step toward submitting a suffrage amendment to voters. It refused to give women the right to vote on the liquor business question. It turned down the plea for $20,000 to establish a reformatory for women. It refused to pass a bill establishing a State farm for drunkards, to protect unfortunate wives and children. It refused even to debate raising the age of consent or a bill aimed to curb commercialized vice. And last of all, it refused in any way to help destitute widowed mothers or their children.

The Georgia Legislature has granted permission for a table of suffrage literature to be placed in the hall between the House and the Senate and to put suffrage maps on the walls.

The Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs, at its last convention not only passed a resolution indorsing woman suffrage, but decided to take an active part in the campaign to win the ballot for Iowa in 1916.

Kipling Hears Guns.

dia, they die, and they send more and these die. We do the same, of course, but look."

He pointed to the large, deliberate smoke heads renewing themselves along the yellowed beach.

"That is the frontier of civilization. They have all civilization against them—those brutes yonder. Its not the local victories of the old wars that we're after; its the barbarians, all the barbarians. Now you've seen the whole thing in little; come and look at our children."

We left that tall tree whose fruits are death, ripened and distributed at the tingle of small bells. The observer returned to his maps and calculations, the telephone boy stiffened up beside his exchange. As the amateurs went out of his life some one called down through the branches to ask who was attending to Belial, let us say, for I could not catch the gun's name. It seemed to belong to that terrible new voice which had lifted itself for the second or third time. It appeared from the reply that if Belial talked too long he would be dealt with from another point miles away.

The troops we came down to see were at rest in a chain of caves which had begun life as quarries and had been fitted up by the army for its own uses. There were underground corridors, ante-chambers, rotundas and ventilating shafts with a bewildering play of cross lights, so that wherever you looked you saw Goyas's pictures of men at arms. Every soldier has some of the old maid in him and rejoices in all the little gadgets and devices of his own invention. Death and wounding come by nature, but to lie dry, sleep soft and keep yourself clean by forethought and contrivance is art, and in all things the Frenchman is gloriously an artist.

FRIENDLY WITH MEN.

Moreover the French officers seem as mothers, keen on their men, as their men are brothers, fond of them. May be the possessive form of address, "Mon Geral, Mon Captaine," helps the idea which our men cloak in other and curter phrases, and those soldiers, like ours, had been welded for months in one furnace, as an officer said, "half our orders now need not be given. Experience makes us think together."

I believe, too, that if a French private has an idea—and they are full of ideas—it reaches his commanding officers quicker than it does with us. The sentimental hounds. The overwhelming impression was the brilliant health and vitality of these men and the quality of their breeding. They bore themselves with swing and rampant delight in life, while their voices, as they talked in the side caverns among the stands of arms, were the controlled voices of civilization. Yet, as the lights pierced the gloom, they looked like bandits dividing the spoils. One picture, though far from war, stays with me. A perfectly built, dark-skinned young giant had peeled himself out of his blue coat and brought it down with a swish upon the shoulder of a half stripped comrade who was kneeling at his feet, busy with some footgear. They stood against a background of semiluminous blue haze, through which glimmered a pile of coppery straw, half covered by a red blanket. By a divine accident of light and post it was St. Martin giving his cloak to the beggar. There were scores of pictures in these galleries, notably a rock-hewn chapel where the red of the cross on the rough canvas altar cloth glowed like ruby.

TOUCH OF NATURE.

Further inside the caves we found a row of little rock-cut kennas, each inhabited by one wise, silent dog. There duties begin at night with the sentinels and listening posts. "And believe me," said a proud instructor, "my fellow here knows the difference between the noise of our shells and the Boches' shells."

When we came out into the open again there were good opportunities for this study. Voices and wings met and passed in the air and perhaps one strong young tree had not been bending quite so far across the picturesque park drive when we first went that way.

"Oh, yes," said an officer, "shells have to fall somewhere, and," he added, with fine toleration, "it is, after all, against us that the Boche directs them, but come, you, and look at my dug-out. It's the most superior of all possible dug-outs. No, come and look at our mess, it's the Ritz of these parts." And they joyously told how they had got or procured the various fittings and the elegancies while hands stretched out of the gloom to shake, and men nodded welcome and greeting all through that cheery brotherhood in the woods and in the field.

The voices and the wings were still busy after lunch when the car slipped past the teahouses in the drive and come into a country, where women and children worked among the crops. There were large raw shell holes by the wayside or in the midst of fields and often a cottage or a villa had been smashed as a bonnet box is smashed by an umbrella. That must be part of Belial's work, when it bellows so truculently among the hills to the north. We were looking for a town that lived under the shell fire. The regular road to it was reported unhealthy—not that the women and children seemed to care. We took byways of which certain exposed heights and corners were lightly blinded by wind brakes of dried tree tops.

SHELL HOLES ARE THICK.

Here the shell holes are rather thick on the ground, but the women and the children and the old men went on with their work with the cattle and the crops, and where a house had been broken by shells, the rubbish was collected in a neat pile, and where a room or two still remained usable, it was inhabited and the tattered window curtains fluttered as proudly as any flag.

Time was when I used to denounce young France because it tried to kill itself beneath my car wheels, and the fat old woman, who crowded roads without warning, and the especially deaf old men, who slept in carts on the wrong side of the road. Now I could take off my hat to every single soul of them. But one cannot traverse a whole land bareheaded.

The nearer we came to our town, the fewer were the people, until at last we halted in a well-built suburb of paved streets, where there was no life at all—a wrecked town. The stillness was as terrible as the spread of the quick, busy weeds between the paving stones. The air smelled of pounded mortar and crushed stone. The sound of a footfall echoed like the drop of a pebble in a well. At first the horror of wrecked apartment houses and big shops laid open, makes one waste energy in anger. It is not seemly that rooms should be torn out of the sides of buildings as one tears the soft heart out of English bread; that villa roofs should lie across iron gates of private garages or that drawing-room doors should flap alone and disconnected between the emptiness of twisted girders. The eye wearies of the repeated pattern that burst shells make on stone walls, as the mouth sickens of the taste of mortar and charred timber.

SHELLED NEARLY LEVEL.

One quarter of the place had been shelled nearly level. The facades of the houses stood doorless, roofless, and windowless, like stage scenery. This was near the cathedral which is always a favorite lark for the heathen. They had gashed and stripped the sides of the cathedral itself, so that the birds flew in and out at will. They had smashed holes in the roof, knocked huge cantles out of the buttresses and pitted and starred the paved square outside. They were at work too, that very afternoon, though I do not think the cathedral was their objective.

For the moment we walked to and fro in the silence of the streets and beneath the whirring wings overhead. Presently a young woman, keeping to the wall, crossed a corner. An old woman opened a shutter. How it jarred and spoke to her. The silence closed again, but it seemed to me that I heard a sound of singing, the sore of chant one hears in nightmare cities—of voices crying from underground in the cathedral.

"Nonsense," said an officer, "Who should be singing here?"

We circled the cathedral again and saw what pavement stones can do against their own city when shells jerk them upward. But there was singing after all, on the other side of a little door in the flank of the cathedral. We looked in, doubting, saw at least a hundred folk, mostly women, who knelt before the altar of an unwrecked chapel. We withdrew quietly from that holy ground and it was not only the eyes of the French officers that filled with tears. Then there came an old, old thing with a prayer-book in her hand, pattering across the square, evidently late for service.

VOCATIONS OF WOMEN.

"And who are these women," I asked.

"Some are caretakers, people who have still little shops here—there is one quarter where you can buy things. There are many old people, too who will not go away. They are of the place, you see."

"And, this bombardment happens often?" I said.

"It always happens. Would you like to look at the railway station? Of course it has not been so bombarded as the cathedral."

We went through the gross nakedness of streets without people until we reached the railway station, which was fairly knocked about, but as my friends said, nothing like as much as the cathedral. Then we had to cross the end of a long street down which the "bloche" could see clearly. As one glanced up a street one perceived how the weeds to which men's war is the truce of God, had come back and were well established the whole length of it, watched by the long perspective of open, empty windows.

FORMER ANGELENO ENTERS THE RING.

ANNOUNCES HIMELF CANDIDATE FOR SANTA MONICA OFFICE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 5.—The first candidate to enter the ring for the municipal contest in December is Ed R. Smith, pioneer Los Angeles policeman, constable and fireman, who has come out for Commissioner of Public Works.

Other candidates are waiting to see what the Supreme Court will do with the case now being appealed to it, to determine whether a Mayor and seven Councilmen or three commissioners are to be elected.

Smith is acting upon the supposition that the Supreme Court will declare that the charter amendments are constitutional and that Santa Monica is to have the commission form of government and the preferential ballot.

The police net, as it was spread last night on Main street near Mill, caught a stunning-looking young woman from Los Angeles who gave her name as Miss H. Boyde. The raid also landed five Japanese men who are to answer to the charge of calling on her. The sextet will have their hour in the police court at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

After passing the night in the City Jail, the Boyd woman was released upon the deposit of a cash bail of $250 which was provided by Private Detective Gillis, whose breast was adorned with a Los Angeles special police badge.

Charley Komi, a member of the fisher family above the Long Wharf, thinks he has at last succeeded in solving the problem of propagating salt water frogs, and if his industry developes into the success it promises, he declares he will be in possession of a genuine gold mine. The Los Angeles demand for frog legs is always greater than the supply.

He says this is because in the artificial propagation of fresh water frogs it is almost impossible to secure the proper food in sufficient quantities to make the venture a success. With the salt water variety it will be a different story, for the sea shore contains countless thousands of sand crabs and others small insect and animal that appeal to the appetites and may be readily captured by the frogs.

VENICE NEWS NOTES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Sept. 5.—In order to determine whether George Rowe of No. 512 1-2 South Main street, Los Angeles, came to his death through drowning or apoplexy, the Coroner will conduct an inquest and autopsy tomorrow. Rowe's body was found by divers at the bottom of the bathhouse plunge late last night. He had been dead perhaps four hours. Efforts were made to resuscitate him but without avail. The young man's nose was bruised as if he had dived into shallow water and struck the concrete bottom the plunge with his face.

Thomas Harrison of No. 3917 West Adams street, Los Angeles, is under arrest here charged with driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. Harveson's automobile collided with another machine and was overturned and Harveson and Fred Warren, his companion, on the joy ride, sustained painful although not serious injuries.

Torpedoing Torpedoes.

[Pearson's:] In their attacks on defenseless merchantmen and passenger boats the German submarines often fire a torpedo that misses its mark.

Naturally if this occurs, and the torpedo fails to explode, it must by degrees use up all the force that drives it forward and come to a standstill.

It was always a difficulty with the earlier forms of torpedo that when they stopped the large amount of air in the air-chamber caused them to rise to the surface and float about there.

To prevent any chance of this happening now most makes are fitted with a sinking device. This consists of a valve fixed on the back part of the torpedo. If the weapon does not hit after traveling a certain distance, the valve is automatically opened, which lets water into the air chamber, and causes the torpedo to fill and sink.

MANUAL ARTS TRACT.

160 CHOICE RESIDENCE LOTS.

838-826 Union Oil Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Having completed the paving of the streets in its Manual Arts Tract, situated in the square formed by Vermont avenue, Normandie, Vermont and Vermont avenues, now offers 160 very choice restricted residence lots for sale in that tract at very low prices and on easy terms. If you desire a home or as investment you should buy in this tract before buying anywhere. Manual Arts Tract lies between Normandie avenue grammar school and Manual Arts High School, and is in easy walking distance of the University of Southern California and Exposition Park.
This tract has every advantage that a choice residence subdivision should possess, schools, churches, freedom from bad water, garden soil, sewers, water, gas, electric, curbs, parking, curbs, gutters, paved streets and reasonable restrictions.
The tract office is at 42nd place and Vermont avenue car. The Vermont avenue car will show you the tract, and the gentlemen in charge will show you the tract or call Mr. Bray at the tract office; using Vermont 1798; or call at Mr. WEBB at the company's office, 838 Union Oil Bldg.; Main 369 or A1368, and Mr. Webb will show you the tract.

legitimate and entirely satisfactory means of preventing the making and shipping of war materials to our enemies.

BLAMED TO IGNORANCE.

"My letter which Mr. Archibald carried does not contradict anything that Count von Bernstorff has said, for his people and the great bulk of those who make up our Austro-Hungarian races are entirely different types. The greater part of German workmen of all ranks are educated. They can read and discuss matters and can be easily reached. Not so with the many races and the great ignorant mass of our

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Wisconsin Meeting.

The Wisconsin State Society will meet in The Times assembly-rooms at 8 o'clock this evening. There will be music and dancing and refreshments will be served.

Jovian League Schedule.

James F. Rogan, chairman of the Programme Committee of the Jovian Electric League, has announced a long list of prominent men who will speak at meetings of the league during the coming season. The first regular meeting of the league this season will be held the 29th inst.

Knights Templar Picnic.

Members of the Golden West Commandery, Knights Templar, will meet in the Pacific Electric station, Sixth and Main streets, at 9 o'clock the morning of the 11th inst., to start out on a mysterious field day entertainment. No information regarding the destination of the party has been given out, although those in charge have promised a day full of entertainment and fun.

At the Crittenton Home.

The members of Westlake Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, have been invited by the board of managers and the auxiliary of the Florence Crittenton Home, to hold their regular all-day meeting, at the home, Avenue 33 and Griffin avenue, tomorrow. Lunch will be served at 12:30 o'clock in the dining-room of the home. Each one attending is requested to bring either a pair of baby stockings or an infant's undervest.

Big Stock Raiser Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gay of Kauai, an islan dof the Hawaiian group, arrived at the Clark late last night for a one-day visit here before starting home by way of San Francisco. Mr. Gay is a wealthy stock raiser on the Hawaiian island, owning several thousand head of cattle. He and Mrs. Gay have been seeing the expositions in San Diego and San Francisco, taking a vacation from Mr. Gay's arduous duties while overseeing his large ranch. Mr. and Mrs. Gay will leave for the north today.

Addresses by World Traveler.

Rev. Louis Agassiz Gould of Temple Baptist Church, who has recently completed a trip around the world, will address the Baptist Ministers' Conference in Berean Hall, Temple Auditorium, this morning at 10:30 o'clock on the subject, "Hitting the Missionary Trail Around the World." Mr. Gould is one of the most interesting missionary speakers in Los Angeles. The address has been given before in Temple Baptist Church and in churches of several of the leading cities of the Pacific Coast. The meeting is open to the public. At a cafeteria lunch after the conference, Mr. Gould will give an address on "The Central China Mission," at which mission he spent several months. Mr. Gould is opposed to the proposed closing of the mission.

REDONDO BEACH EXPENSES.

Estimated Tax Rate Higher Than Last Year Because of Recently Authorized Expenditures.

REDONDO BEACH, Sept. 5.—It is estimated that $71,000 will be required for the forthcoming year to run the city of Redondo Beach. This estimate has been prepared by the City Trustees, who will meet tomorrow to fix the rate of city taxation. As compared to last year's tax rate, the taxpayers here will have to pay 45 cents more on the dollar during the coming year.

Last year the rate was $1.20 on $100 of assessed valuation, while this year the rate will be $1.65. The increase is due principally to an addition of 15 cents on $100 recently authorized by the voters and 20 cents for the municipal pier. Other items to be considered are 13 cents for sewer bonds, 8 cents for the library, 6 cents for City Hall expenses, 92 cents for the general fund and 15 cents for advertising and music.

It is estimated that $17,000 of the $71,000 will be raised by licenses and fees, leaving $54,000 that will have to be raised by the taxpayers to run the city government.

Work on the municipal pleasure and fishing pier will be begun as soon as possible, but the contractors have until September 15 to begin. Owing to the fact that the firm is an eastern one, it may take them longer to get their equipment here than a California concern.

GOULD'S PARTY AT SAN DIEGO.

COME WEST TO SEE FAIR AND OTHER SITES ON THE COAST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Edwin J. Gould, accompanied by his family and several friends, arrived here today in his private car, Dixie, to pass several days viewing the first port of call and is registered at the Hotel del Coronado. With Mr. Gould are his wife, his two sons, Mrs. Dwight Harris and Radcliff Swinnerton, all of New York City.

The Goulds plan to view the Panama-California Exposition thoroughly and may even take a peep at Tia Juana and its sights.

Other well-known persons who are at the Hotel del Coronado are: Mrs. Carter Harrison, wife of the former Mayor of Chicago; their daughter and Miss Helen McCarthy, also of the Windy City.

EAT MORE FRUIT.

Live Out of the Orchard and You will Require Less Medicine and will Have More Energy.

[New York American:] Everybody should eat more fresh fruit during the summer, not only because it is so cheap and plentiful, but because it contains valuable medicinal qualities which help to ward off all sorts of hot-weather ills.

Blackberries, for instance, contain a great deal of iron. On this account they sometimes have a very perceptible effect in making pale children rosy when they eat freely of them.

Black currants have a great household reputation as a remedy for colds and coughs. A couple of teaspoonfuls of black currant jam are put into a tumblerful of hot water, with a pinch of salt, and drink hot at bedtime.

Nature offers us few better tonics than pineapple, the juice of which contains the natural ferments of healthy digestion to a high degree. A famous specialist on stomach troubles is said to have declared: "If you have one foot in the grave and are a nervous wreck from dyspepsia, drink clear pineapple juice."

Grapes are a wholesome and delightful food. They are in the class of demulcents and are highly beneficial to those suffering from various illnesses. Apples are correctives, and are very useful in overcoming nausea from seasickness and other causes. They are also very cooling and act as stomach sedatives.

Red and white currants, like melons, apples, oranges, limes, lemons and gooseberries, are also cooling and therefore most acceptable hot-weather foods.

Both raisins and figs, split open, make good poultices for boils. A split raisin, placed over the gum, often gives relief to the toothache sufferer. Figs are also valuable as a laxative.

Self-consciousness.

[Indianapolis News:] It was a warm Easter Sunday in the South. The red-headed young hopeful of the family donned his first long trousers. He was wrapped in assurance and pride as he left the parental portal and started to Sunday-school and church. But, alas! What he suffered after he got there. Taunts from a few of his boy friends seemed to grow into the howls of a mob. Eyes of a few passersby multiplied into thousands, and took on the stare of wild men, and he reached home in time for dinner flushed and perspiring, bumptiousness all gone, with the cry of "Mother, mother, everybody's lookin' at me, everybody's lookin' at me."

WHY INDESTRUCTO
INDESTRUCTO trunks are made by pressing five plys of first grade lumber in a jointless arched corner box in great hydraulic presses.
Before the INDESTRUCTO makers developed this process, all trunks were built with square edges nailed together like a box.
Whether you are a mechanical expert or not, you will surely realize how much stronger an arch corner without a joint is than the square nailed corner.
This is the basic INDESTRUCTO principle. This is why our trunks are so much stronger than any other trunks. This is why they stand up under the abuse to which all trunks are subjected. This is why we can guarantee five years' service for every INDESTRUCTO trunk sold. This is the biggest reason why you will get best value for your money by buying an INDESTRUCTO.

HARRY CHANDLER,
Assistant General Manager The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3rd day of September, 1915.

[Seal] T. I. CHAPIN.
Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies in its issue. Neither does it falsely nor dishonestly pretend to circulate nor inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper published in Los Angeles.

WATER WITH MEALS.

Theory is Changing and Logic Points to the Use of More Liquid in Connection with the Food.

[Baltimore American:] Water is a prime necessity of life. A man weighing 150 pounds has in his body about 100 pounds of water, and water, either in its simplest form or in some chemical combination, forms five-sixths of all the food we eat.

Science has long known how impossible it is for digestion, or any other vital process, to take place in our bodies without water, and yet there has always been a wide difference of opinion as to just how much water we ought to drink and when. Many physicians, while encouraging the drinking of liberal quantities of water, have declared that it was very harmful to take it at mealtime. To try to follow out such a theory as this is a great hardship to most people, for it is when they sit down to their meals that they feel the most thirsty and find it most convenient to drink the water their bodies require.

Dr. Elbridge G. Cutler, a well-known New England physician, is one of a number of modern scientists, who do not agree with this theory. Dr. Cutler, as a result of much laboratory research and the observation of his own condition and that of numerous patients, believes that it is advisable for persons in ordinary health to drink from two to four, or even more glasses of water with their meals. This practice, he says, not only does no harm, but may in certain cases bring about a decided improvement in health, provided that water is never taken until whatever food is in the mouth has first been thoroughly masticated and swallowed.

Dr. Cutler reasons that the gastric juice, bile, pancreatic juice and intestinal juices necessary for digestion are supplied in the form of fluids derived from the secreting cells of the various glands. These cells obtain their supply from the liquid portions of the blood, which in turn is supplied by the absorption of water.

It would seem to be more natural for the blood to seek its supply of water through the intestines at the time of digestion, and this can be brought about only by drinking water with your meals.

The One They Appreciated.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] "That last thing you sent in was good," said the editor; "we all enjoyed reading it very much."

"Well, in that case," said the youthful poet, "I take back what I said in the letter I wrote to you yesterday about my determination never to send you any of my work again."

The editor slowly shook his head. "Don't do that," he murmured; "why, that letter is what I referred to!"

When Cruelty Isn't Cruelty.

[Cleveland Plain - Dealer:] The magistrate of the department of Seine-et-Oise has given a decision in a claim of cruelty to a horse, which is remarkable as a legal subtlety. The law provides that the offense is punishable only when committed in public. If the sore is covered by the collar, he holds, the offense is not committed in public. If it is not covered by the collar, there is no cruelty. In either event, the case must be discharged.

A. P. VETERAN PASSES AWAY.

Charles A. Boynton Dies at Washington Home.

Friend of Presidents and of Cabinet Members.

Had been in Active Service Quarter of Century.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Charles A. Boynton, one of the veterans of the Associated Press and one of the best-known American newspaper men of the last twenty-five years, died here early today, at his home, aged 79.

He had not been in active service since 1909, but until recently had been in fair health. A few weeks ago he was taken ill. He will be buried here Tuesday.

Charles Augustus Boynton was a newspaper man all the mature days of his life, the last forty years of which were spent in the service of the Associated Press. He stood among the best-known newspaper men of the last twenty-five years and had been a factor in one of the greatest developments of American journalism—the extended co-operative distribution of news by leased wires.

EARLY EXPERIENCE.

In 1870 he became New York correspondent of the Western Associated Press, which was one of the contributing parts to the Associated Press of today. Reconstruction days were on, the country was growing in the new enthusiasm following the Civil War, submarine cables and development of the telegraph had made it possible for the American newspapers to record the world's events day by day.

The co-operative system of news gathering and distribution by which the little country journal is enabled to share the world's news with the great metropolitan newspaper, which is the foundation rock of the Associated Press, was the fruit of Mr. Boynton's day and he had a part in its growth.

Mr. Boynton went to Washington first as correspondent of The Western Associated Press and later when the leased news wires had spread extensively throughout the South he became the first superintendent of the Southern division of the Associated Press, a post which he filled until June, 1909, when he retired from active service but in an advisory capacity continued his connection with the organization.

KNEW PRESIDENTS.

During his years of work in Washington Mr. Boynton won the personal friendship of several Presidents and a score of Cabinet members. News of the highest importance to the American people found its way to the public by the agency he represented. During the Spanish-American War and the Portsmouth Peace Conference and during many noteworthy sessions of Congress and political campaigns the greater number of American newspaper readers received their intelligence from the national capital through dispatches which bore the imprint of his work.

Of a school which puts facts above all else in a news dispatch and shuns attempts at "fine writing," Mr. Boynton, himself, had the faculty of brevity of expression, directness of thought and firmness of purpose, which won for him the admiration of really great men of affairs with whom he had daily dealings. By his colleagues he was beloved as a sympathetic and kind friend, charitable almost to a fault. He had no regard for shirkers, and ingenious persons who from time to time sought to further their own personal interest through the medium of wires under his control had cause to remember his penetration.

BORN IN BAY STATE.

Mr. Boynton was born in West Stockbridge, Mass., September 20, 1836, the son of the Rev. Charles B. Boynton and Maria Van Buskirk Boynton. At 7 years of age he moved with his father and mother to Cincinnati, where his father published The Christian Nation. His brother, the late Gen. Harry V. Boynton, worked with him assisting his father. After being educated at Woodward College in Cincinnati and Knox College in Illinois, Charles Boynton went into the banking business, remaining but a short time, and then entered the service of the Western Associated Press in 1870 and never left the news profession afterward.

He is survived by a widow, Maretta Hudson Boynton, a son Charles Hudson Boynton, a New York broker, and a daughter, Miss Meta Boynton of Washington.

John Barleycorn, Bad Chauffeur.

EUROPE'S EMPTY CRADLES.

One of the Deplorable Results of the War Will be Its Effect on Future Generations.

[Indianapolis News:] Accordi[ng] Prof. Irving Fisher, the Yale economist, the cost of war in [hu]man lives is little compared with the [lo]ss in the emptied cradles of the future generations. In an article published in New York he calls attention to the theory that the stature of the average Frenchman today may be accounted for by the fact that Napoleon had a penchant for tall soldiers, and that in Napoleonic campaigns the best and tall men of France were killed, leaving the shorter men to follow the race. He also points out the way in which methods of recruiting tend to reduce the vitality of the race. Recruiting officers and medical examiners have the power to choose from among the applicants those best suited to the needs of the army, and the most fit are always chosen, leaving the defectives to become the fathers of the race.

According to Prof. Fisher, those left behind not only become the fathers of a weaker race, but have fewer children. He says that it can be found by a reference to the statistics that strong men—the men who lived to an advanced age—are generally the fathers of many children. He believes that in the distinction of the million or more men who have already lost their lives in the European struggle the race has suffered a serious setback which will affect it for many years to come, and as more men are recruited and killed off, the reserve left at home becomes weaker, so that the welfare of the countries is reduced directly in proportion to the duration of the war.

This theory is interesting partly because it agrees with the theory advanced by David Starr Jordan, in which he bases his arguments for international peace. Like Dr. Jordan, Prof. Fisher also believes that the backwardness of the Southern States during the fifty years following the Civil War may be attributed to the killing off of the flower of the manhood—the planters, who were the war in the beginning and were the last to surrender. Prof. Fisher also believes that if the United States stays out of the war, its position as a world power will be greatly strengthened through the conservation of manhood during a period of carnage elsewhere.

BOYS THAT WIN.

The Poor Boy Cannot Distance Energies, and Therefore Has Ambition for Learning.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] That boys do best at the university, Dr. Jordan, and the statement cause no surprise to those who have given the subject any serious consideration. The youth with a fortune but his native talents who attends a university education by the facts gives evidence of an aptitude for learning, and though the ability to learn is not always the ability to become a great scholar, desire to learn for more than money in the case of knowledge.

To be poor is not necessarily to be brilliant, and to be rich is not necessarily to be mentally deficient, but taking youthful human nature as a whole, the poor scholar will do better than the rich scholar, because the one learning means every more than to the other.

But apart from the fact that the poor boy without means has an incentive to study, there is the simple reason that he cannot participate to any great extent in the distracting social activities which are all too prevalent in so many universities.

The poor scholar cannot spend his energies in those festivities which prove so fatal to the youth whose parents make him an absurdly large allowance.

There is no moral in this for rich or for poor parents. Their son or daughter has all the blessings of nature in the matter of an education. But there is a moral for the heads of poor families and that is that when a boy is sent to the university he should not be put on the democratic basis of having no more money to spend than the average for him. Many rich students have hence the truth of Dr. Jordan's statement that, "It takes courage and nerve for a rich man's son to succeed in anything at the university. It takes a man of money just man's boy to be a student, usually." That may be true, that courage and nerve is sometimes attested, but they are the virtues of a minority.

Members of Posse which Slew Gen. Orozco Here.

"Soldiers Should Leave and Let Cowboys do It."

"The Texas cowboys and not the United States soldiers are taking care of the situation along the Mexican border," declared Marcus Snyder, a member of the posse which slew Gen. Pascual Orozco and four other Mexicans recently. Mr. Snyder arrived yesterday at the Alexandria, accompanied by Henry Avery, also a member of the posse which overtook the raiders.

The ranchers and Frank Langan, proprietor of the Sheldon Hotel in El Paso, are in Los Angeles on a pleasure trip. Mr. Snyder, Mr. Avery and the three brothers own about 10,000 head of cattle.

"Texas could defeat Mexico and straighten out the situation if the national government would give us a chance to do it," Mr. Snyder continued. "It is the Texas cowboy and not the United States soldier that the Mexicans fear. The soldiers are not effective. They are mounted on large horses and neither the men or their mounts are familiar with the country.

"The soldiers blow their bugles or in some other way make their presence known to the marauders. The cowboys, mounted on native ponies, know the country perfectly and are able to render valuable service.

"The soldiers do not fire on Mexicans unless they have instructions to do so, for fear of international complications. The cowboys do not stand on ceremony. When the cattle men

KILL BRIGANDS SAME AS FLIES.

Members of Posse which Slew Gen. Orozco Here.

"Soldiers Should Leave and Let Cowboys do It."

"The Texas cowboys and not the United States soldiers are taking care of the situation along the Mexican border," declared Marcus Snyder, a member of the posse which slew Gen. Manuel Orozco and four other Mexicans recently. Mr. Snyder arrived yesterday at the Alexandria, accompanied by Henry Avery, also a member of the posse which overtook the bandits.

The ranchers and Frank Langan, proprietor of the Sheldon Hotel in El Paso, are in Los Angeles on a pleasure trip. Mr. Snyder, Mr. Avery and the two brothers own about 10,000 head of cattle.

"Texans could defeat Mexico and straighten out the situation if the national government would give us a chance to do it," Mr. Snyder continued. "It is the Texas cowboy and not the United States soldier that the Mexicans fear. The soldiers are not cowboys. They are mounted on large horses and neither the men or their horses are familiar with the country.

"The soldiers blow their bugles or in some other way make their presence known to the marauders. The cowboys, mounted on native ponies, know the country perfectly and are able to render valuable service.

"The soldiers do not fire on Mexicans unless they have instructions to do so for fear of international complications. The cowboys do not stand on ceremony. When the cattle men discover Mexicans on this side of the boundary line under suspicious circumstances, they kill them without waiting for red tape. Hundreds of Mexicans have been killed along the border this summer. Comparatively few of these instances are made public.

"The raiding has been especially severe during the last few months. Were it not for the cowboys and their six-shooters, the conditions along the border would be much worse than they are.

"The way we dealt with Orozco and his band is typical of the methods used by the cowboys along the border. The Mexicans had stolen horses, hobbled them and gone into camp. We crept up on them at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and killed all five of them before they had an opportunity to fire at us.

"There were six men in our party. Both Mr. Avery and myself fired in the volley which slew the Mexicans.

Victim and Setting of an Odd Mystery.

Oherwise known as Frank Doll, supposed to have been murdered three years ago. Above is his residence, near where the body is believed to be buried.

DUEL WITH BURGLAR.

Night Watchman in Wilshire District Surprises Lock-driller and Swaps Lead with Him in Vain.

Jack Hosick, night watchman in the Wilshire district, who was shot several months ago by highwaymen, had a running battle with a burglar when he surprised the man in the act of boring through a lock early yesterday morning.

When Hosick stopped and flashed his lamp on the burglar the latter fired. Hosick returned the lead, and in a quick exchange from the artillery of each side no hits were registered. The burglar vaulted a fence and escaped through an alley.

The brush occurred at Tenth and Magnolia streets. The burglar with bit and brace was boring a hole to the inner lock of the front door on the home of Miss Cora Silver, No. 981 Magnolia street. Night Watchman Hosick could give no description of the burglar.

FINE CAR STOLEN.

Mrs. Anita Baldwin, one of the heirs of the "Lucky" Baldwin estate, reported to the police last night her sixty-horse power European motor car had been stolen from where it stood in Ninth street between Hill street and Broadway while she was at the theater.

CONTRABANDS ARRIVE.

Twenty-four Chinamen and one insane Mexican arrived at the County Jail last night from El Paso, where they were arrested while trying to cross the border. They are in charge of Immigration Officer Nardoni and Brazie, and will be deported at an early date.

Investigation.

VERNON PUZZLE TO GRAND JURY.

Murder Mystery Darkens as First Clew Fails.

Five-hundred-dollar Reward Offered for Body.

Marshal Confident He Knows Where It's Buried.

Announcement that the District Attorney's office will lay the case before the grand jury and a formal offer by the wife (or widow) of $500 reward for the recovery of her husband's body, dead or alive, were the most important developments yesterday connected with the investigation of the mysterious disappearance of Frank Cwikowski, also known as Frank Doll, who is believed to have been murdered nearly three years ago in the vicinity of his home, No. 2101 Audrey street, Vernon.

Detectives working on the case encountered an enigma in Otto Kanke, a well-known character of Vernon, who has made many statements since the supposed murder, in which he declared he knew enough about the crime to warrant an arrest. It was largely upon such declarations by the man that renewed efforts were taken last week to solve the mystery, but when Kanke was taken to Central Police Station yesterday he repudiated much of his former stories.

"I was just kidding," he is reported to have said. "I admit having told some people that I knew who killed the old man, in fact that I saw the murder committed, but I want to take it back." The police wanted to hold the man for further interrogation, but decided that his denial precluded such action for the present.

City Marshal Fred Harris of Vernon said yesterday Kanke has been bringing up the murder story every few weeks since the Pole disappeared. "I am not sure that Kanke does not know the truth of the crime," the marshal said, "but he contradicts himself so often that it is difficult to determine what to believe."

Marshal Harris is satisfied that Cwikowski was murdered, but he scoffs the suggestion that his body was buried in Vernon avenue. "When I first started the investigation I took a pick and shovel and unearthed all that part of Vernon avenue where it seemed possible that the body could have been buried," he said. "It was the theory at that time that the old man had been killed and his body thrown into a ditch, which had been dug by some street workers.

"Convinced that the theory was incorrect I started to work on another angle. I feel sure that the body is buried, but not in a street. Sometime ago I laid my information before the District Attorney and was told to dig where I thought the body was buried, but I did not want to assume the responsibility.

"Unless lime has thoroughly disintegrated the bones, I am confident they can be found right now and I can lead the proper authorities to the spot I have in mind."

Marshal Harris and Deputy Sheriff Wright have worked on the case almost without ceasing ever since the report was made of the disappearance of the Pole. They are not of the opinion that it was a bitter enemy of the family who did the job and suspect but one person. He has been under surveillance for two years and the officers say has acted strangely, but they have never been able to secure enough evidence to warrant his arrest.

The widow of Cwikowski and her son, Martin, declared yesterday they are confident the murderer will be located sooner or later. They have employed a private detective to run down the criminal and are willing to spend all the money that is necessary to find him.

The victim carried $1000 insurance on his life and the widow declared she will willingly give half that amount for the recovery of his body. If the body is not found, it is said the insurance company will not pay the policy.

Quietly Married in San Francisco.

Mrs. James Bliss Dudley,

Formerly Miss Leslie Stose of this city, announcement of whose marriage to the former Los Angeles automobile man was received here yesterday.

Unexpected.

ORANGE-BLOSSOM CROWN FOR CHECKERED CAREER.

A NEW and happy chapter was written into the picturesque and checkered career of Capt. James Bliss Dudley, U.S.A., retired, with the receipt here yesterday of cards announcing his marriage in San Francisco to Miss Leslie Stose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis C. Stose of No. 2658 Romeo street, this city. The ceremony, which was performed at the Palace Hotel, was as quiet as it was sudden and unexpected, no engagement having been announced.

From the time he entered the army at the outbreak of the Spanish War until the present Capt. Dudley's life has been filled with more or less spectacular incidents, in most of which luck went against him. He served with credit through the Cuban campaign and at the close of the war came to Los Angeles to embark in the automobile business. Later on he became president of the Mephisto Oil Company and still later was in the moving-picture business at Long Beach. He is now back in the motor industry in San Francisco.

Capt. Dudley's domestic life under a former marriage was an unhappy one and various incidents of an unpleasant nature culminated in a suit for divorce in which his wife was the plaintiff on statutory grounds. An interlocutory decree was given her May 4, 1912.

Capt. Dudley was the driver of a machine which ran down and killed Woodman J. Thomas at Seventh and Broadway on the night of February 24, 1910. He was arraigned on a manslaughter charge and pleaded guilty. Judge Davis sentenced him to serve three years in the penitentiary but this was subsequently reduced by Judge Willis, who placed him on probation.

On May 3, 1912, he was indicted by a Federal grand jury at Chicago on a charge of having used the mails to defraud in connection with the affairs of the Mephisto Oil Company. The properties of this concern were located in the Devil's Den district, of Kern county, and were widely advertised as being of great productive value. The complaining witness was Frank J. Geller of Chicago, and there were many others who made representations to the United States District Attorney against the company.

Capt. Dudley was arrested at Long

BRAIN TWISTED BY OLD WOUND?

Remarkable Defense may be Made for Pastor's Son.

Cornell's Escapades All but Bankrupt His Family.

"Confinement Probably Best Thing," Says Mother.

To the effects of a fall on the pavement during a boyish scuffle twelve years ago Rev. C. E. Cornell, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, attributes the otherwise inexplicable criminal tendencies of his 25-year-old son, Maynard Cornell, who is in the County Jail again on a forgery charge after having been in trouble an almost endless number of times before.

If the Cornell family, which resides at No. 1115 Magnolia avenue, should undertake to again rescue their black sheep from the law's toils they will seek to have an expert examination made of the boy's brain with the idea of proving that he is not responsible for the acts which have netted him several hundred dollars and all but bankrupted his relatives. It is not certain that such a defense will be undertaken, as Mrs. Cornell intimated yesterday that they are near the end of their resources and are, moreover, inclining to the opinion that Maynard should be placed under legal restraint. He was on probation at the time of his most recent arrest, having been given his liberty by Judge Willis several months ago on his earnest promise to reform.

"The situation is terrible, and it has been so for years," said Mrs. Cornell yesterday, as the tears streamed down her cheeks. "I have actually been afraid to answer the door bell when it rang, for fear that there would be a messenger with bad news about our boy.

"From the time he first began his schooling he has had the reputation among his teachers of being very bright, and of learning his lessons with the utmost ease. He has a loving disposition, and has always been very affectionate with me and his father. He went through the grammar school and then had two years in high school.

"When he was about 13 years old, in coming from school one day the boys got into a general mix-up. Maynard was tripped and fell, his head striking the pavement. For quite a while he was dazed, but finally was able to come on home, yet for a long time thereafter he complained about his head.

"It was within a comparatively

FIFTEEN PERSONS HURT IN MANY AUTO SMASHES.

Two Cars go Over High Embankments, Three Figure in Collisions, Old Man is Run Down and Other Minor Mishaps Make Busy Day for Doctors — Two Victims may Die as a Result of Their Injuries.

DESPITE warnings and precautions that are being taken by officials the regular Sunday toll of accidents kept the hospitals and physicians of Los Angeles and vicinity busy yesterday. Slight miscalculations on the part of some drivers, and, it was said, a little too much liquor in other drivers, resulted in more or less serious injuries to fifteen persons, two of which may prove fatal because of the advanced ages of the victims.

The casualty list is as follows:

Frank A. Rademacker, Sr., 83 years old, No. 814 East Vernon avenue. Three ribs broken, possible internal injuries. May die.

Mrs. Frank Rademacker, Jr., 30 years old, No. 814 East Vernon avenue. Two ribs broken, severely bruised.

Mrs. Emil Schultz, No. 647 West Forty-first place. Strained back.

W. R. Osborn, No. 3797 Denker street. Lacerated left arm and severe bruises.

Mrs. W. R. Osborn. Broken right shoulder, right foot broken, left hand badly cut.

A. R. Austin, United States Hotel. Right knee badly lacerated.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leuthsure, No. 3797 Denker street. Face lacerated, bruised about body.

REAR-END COLLISION.

FIGURES LIFE TOO CHEAPLY.

Despondent Optician Tries to Die by a Dime's Worth of Gas; Fails.

C. S. Goodwin, an optician, figured his life too cheaply yesterday, in a literal sense. He held a conference with a gas meter in his room and decided 10 cents worth of gas would be enough to take his life.

He overestimated the gas and underestimated his life, for when the 10 cents worth had flowed over him, it was not enough to make him unconscious, and yet was enough to make him so numb that he couldn't get up to put another coin in the meter and release more of the fatal drift.

Neighbors living over him at No. 809 West Fourth street, smelled the escaping gas and notified the police. Detectives Erven and Glenn reached the room, battered in the door and hurried the old man, whose age is estimated at 76, to the Receiving Hospital. Surgeons found the 10 cents worth of gas had done little harm to the old man, but he refused to talk, and was sent to the County Hospital. He is unmarried, and ran a small eye-testing business in his little room.

Music Thru a Real Diamond

The wonderful Diamond Stylus Reproducer is the secret by which Mr. Edison has made of the phonograph a real musical instrument. It brings out all those overtones and fine shades of sound that give volume, purity and richness to the tone. Creates at last what all music lovers have been waiting for—a tone that can really be called true-to-life, human and natural.

No Needles to Change

The Diamond Stylus Reproducer eliminates the bothersome process of changing needles, which wear out and destroy valuable records. This finely polished Diamond Stylus simply floats over the sound grooves of the New Edison records, reducing wear to a minimum. Call and hear the New Edison. Learn why it is looked upon everywhere as the beginning of a new era in music. Its tone will be a revelation to you. We will be glad to play any one of the great library of Edison Records for you without any obligation.

GUARDSMEN OFF TO ENCAMPMENT

Seventh Regiment Entrains for Point Richmond.

Practical Lessons from the European Conflict.

With the precision of veterans, troops of the Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., entrained yesterday afternoon at Hauson avenue and Figueroa street in a special train which will take them to Point Richmond, where they will be met by a government boat and transported to their camp of instruction at Camp Winfield Scott on the Presidio reservation.

Equipped in heavy marching order, with blanket roll, extra clothing and a full field of equipment of entrenching tools carried by each man in addition to rifle, bayonet, canteen and haversack, the troops left the armory at noon and marched to the train. A short drill and special instructions by company officers was given at the local armory in the morning, following the loading of the company field luggage, which was sent on ahead under a special escort.

This morning, camp will be pitched, a field hospital set up and a short drill by the regimental gun company will precede camp inspection by Col. W. G. Schreiber, commanding officer, and his staff. Following the inspection and the performing of minor camp duties the troops will be left to their own resources for the remainder of the day.

STIFF PROGRAMME.

Routine work will be taken up tomorrow. First call at 5:30 a.m. followed by reveille and "setting up" exercises before breakfast will usher in one of the most strenuous camps ever attended by the regiment if the programme outlined by the commanding officer is carried out. Bayonet exercise for twenty minutes before breakfast, then mess call at 6:30 will be followed by an hour and a half company drill and instruction in infantry formation, manual of arms, foot movements, squad, section and platoon movements. Commencing at 9 o'clock, battalion drill will be held for one hour and a half, then regimental drill, in which all companies, including the machine gun detachment, will execute regimental maneuvers under the command of Col. Schreiber.

Following the regimental drill, a daily review and parade will be held. Guard mount will be held immediately after parade.

PRACTICAL WAR SCHOOL.

A special feature of the encampment will be a series of talks of instruction based upon lessons taught by the European war. All the officers and many of the non-commissioned officers of the regiment have given a great deal of study to the tactical problems and changed methods of warfare which have featured the great conflict. An application of the new warfare will be worked out by the troops on as large a scale as possible.

All companies of the regiment are under strength, due largely to the unwillingness of employers to permit the men to leave their work. The men receive no pay from the State for the time put in; indeed the appropriation from that source is so small that the majority of the men will draw upon their own resources for a portion of their camp expenses. An allowance of 35 cents per man per day is made for rations.

Troops participating in the encampment are Companies A, B, C and F, the machine gun company and hospital corps from Los Angeles, Co. D from Pomona, E from Santa Monica, G from Redlands, H from Long Beach, I from Pasadena, K from San Bernardino, L from Santa Ana and M from Riverside. The regimental band from Pomona is also present.

The troops will break camp next Saturday and arrive in Los Angeles Sunday morning at about 9 o'clock. The troop train was run in two sections, one going by way of Santa Ana and Riverside, and the other by way of Pasadena and Pomona. At San Bernardino the sections met to make the remainder of the trip as one train. There are about 500 ment and officers in the encampment.

SPECIAL PARK CONCERT.

A special band concert and programme of entertainment will be given at Hollenbeck Park today in celebration of Labor Day. The concert will begin promptly at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

LODGE PEOPLE OFF TO FAIR.

Hundreds of persons left yesterday for San Diego to celebrate Fraternal Brotherhood Day at the exposition today. Three uniformed escort teams from Los Angeles, one from Pasadena and one from Riverside, accompanied by others of the order and a number of supreme officers, went down by train, while many, not only from Los Angeles but all parts of Southern California, made the trip by automobile.

Under the management of Mrs. Marie L. Goran and F. E. Randall, a number of events of interest have been planned for the visitors by San Diego Lodge, the host, beginning with a class initiation Saturday night.

With Charles W. Dempster, supreme secretary, as chairman of the day, there will be a parade of Fraternal Brotherhood escort teams and decorated automobiles today, followed by an address of welcome at the exposition grounds by President G. A. Davidson, with response by Mrs. Emma R. Neidig, Supreme President of the Fraternal Brotherhood. Later the escort teams will take part in a competitive drill for the Supreme President's trophy cup. A noon-day lunch will be served in Pepper Grove, with music by Hawaiian singers. During the afternoon, there will be a competitive drill between the all-ladies team of Pasadena Lodge, T.F.B., and the Royal Neighbors, as well as the winning teams of The Fraternal Brotherhood and the Modern Woodmen.

The festivities will close with a banquet at the Cristobal Cafe and grand ball on the Isthmus, a special train leaving at midnight to bring the excursionists back to this city.

Sixteenth Annual.

POSTAL CLERKS CONVENE TODAY.

Important Legislation will be Planned at Session.

Hundreds of Delegates Pour in from Other States.

Much Entertainment Planned for Four-day Stay.

With more than 400 delegates scattered at various hotels throughout the city and all plans laid for the largest convention in the history of the organization, the first day of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks' sixteenth annual convention opens this morning at 10 o'clock at the Alexandria.

Special trains and cars bearing delegates from every State have been arriving since Friday. Numerous delegates from the north arrived by boat yesterday morning. Yesterday afternoon two special train parties from New York and Chicago brought the number present to the 400 mark. It is expected that several more will arrive this morning and by noon more than 500 will be on hand.

Several matters of special importance are scheduled to come up for discussion, in addition to the election of national officers. Chief among these subjects is the Hamil bill, providing for the retirement of aged postoffice clerks and other civil service employees on a pension approximately one-half the salary rate.

HEARTILY SUPPORTED.

The members of the association are almost unanimously in favor of the passage of the bill and delegates have been instructed to indorse it and lend active support to any plan that may be drawn at the convention which will tend to make the matter a national issue. The bill provides a sliding scale of pensions, depending largely upon the length of time in service before retirement.

Another piece of legislation much desired by the clerks is a readjustment of salaries based upon the present scale of living. They affirm that as the cost of living has increased materially since the salary rate was determined, a new adjustment is necessary and they expect to present resolutions to that effect at the convention and see if the desired legislation cannot be secured.

Today's session will open with an address of welcome by Mayor Sebastian. J. G. Thompson, president of the local branch of the association, who will preside, will make a brief address. Vice-President Mitchell of the Chamber of Commerce will speak upon "The Relation the Postal Service Bears to the Business World." Postmaster Brown and others will also make addresses.

AT CROWN CITY.

Shortly after lunch, the delegates and their families will be guests of the Pasadena branch of the association on a sight-seeing trip to Pasadena and vicinity. Special electric trains will take the delegates part of the way and the remainder of the trip will be made in automobiles. For the evening no special programme has been arranged, but it is expected a large number of the visitors will see the "Mission Play."

Among the national officers present is Frank T. Rogers of Chicago, who has been a familiar figure for some time in Washington, where he is most active in "lobbying" for the association. Vice-President E. J. Costello of Lawrence, Mass., who has also been active in the securing of legislation of interest to the postoffice clerks; William F. Gibbons, national secretary; Albert E. Lutkins, treasurer, and J. A. Whalen, chairman of the advisory board, are present and very enthusiastic in declaring the present convention seems destined to be the best in the history of the organization.

Brain Twisted?

short time after this that his peculiar conduct began. His father would miss small sums of money from his pocketbook, and finally we learned that the boy had been taking them. After leaving high school he got a position in a bank in Chicago, but there began a series of petty peculations that in the aggregate amounted to a considerable sum. It was discovered and if the boy had been normal surely the trouble that arose would have been the check that would have put him and kept him on the right road thereafter.

"We had no money to repay the bank, but one of my relatives had died just before that and had left to each of our children certain sums of money. The share of Maynard was used to square up his difficulties with the Chicago bank.

"Then he got other positions, but always it was the same story—trouble about money matters. His father and I have pleaded with him and prayed with him, and in each case he has seemed deeply penitent and has promised to keep straight, only to lapse again."

TROUBLE OVER TRANSFER.

Conductor's Nose Broken and Jaw Injured by Passenger Who Tries to Work Off an Old One.

Clint Blakeley, a street car conductor living at No. 1109 East Tenth street, was damaged yesterday in an argument over a transfer. He was collecting fares on a car at Third street and Vermont avenue when one of the passengers handed him a transfer.

Conductor Blakeley looked at the time punched and said to the passenger: "Not good."

"Why not?"

"Too old. You should have used this to go to breakfast instead of to dinner."

"Well, I just got it."

"Can't help it; no good."

"Why not, I say?"

"Time you forgot the time."

"Yes? Well here's one you won't forget," and he swung his leaden fist on Conductor Blakeley's nose, breaking it, and injuring the jawbone.

EXPENSIVE NAP.

Italian Dozes in a Restaurant and Loses Twenty Weeks' Wages—Companions Arrested.

Twenty minutes' sleep cost Amato Mozzocca twenty weeks' work yesterday. The costly and uncomfortable resting place for the snooze was a chair in a wine cafe in the Italian colony. While he was snoring his two friends, Francisco Cortez and Jose Quintero, are supposed to have gone through his pockets for $90, his havings after twenty weeks' labor on a farm near San Bernardino.

When Mozzocca awoke and inventoried himself, he set up a yell ample to disturb the cows in the rural districts. He ran to a policeman and talked Italian for twenty minutes, explaining all his trouble. When he calmed enough to enlist his lazy English, Patrolman Gilpin returned to the resort with him, and arrested Cortez and Quintero. They had most of the money in their pockets at the time.

Personal Ambition Suppressed.

[New York Times:] "Well, Maria," said Jiggles after the town election, "for whom did you vote this morning?" "I crossed off the names of all the candidates," returned Mrs. Jiggles, "and wrote out my principles on the back of my ballot. This is no time to consider individuals and their little personal ambitions."

RUSS REVERSES BLOW TO JEWS.

LEADER IS HERE TO PROMOTE INTEREST IN RELIEF.

Wisconsin University Professor Calls Sweep of German Arms Over Czar's Soil Greatest Disaster to Hebrews Since Middle Ages—Is Advance Agent of Great Congress.

The recent Russian reverses in the great war have created a critical situation among the Jews of the devastated districts, which is attracting the attention of the Jews of America. Prof. Horace M. Kallen of the University of Wisconsin is in Los Angeles to promote interest in a proposed congress of Jews. It is planned to have a Pacific Coast conference at San Francisco, precede the larger gathering.

"Nothing so disastrous has happened to the Jews since the middle ages as the recent adversities following in the wake of German victories over the Russians," Prof. Kallen said yesterday at the Alexandria. "About 400,000 Jews are destitute and are dying by the thousands.

"The recent Russian defeats took place in the districts in which the Jews have been segregated by the Russian government. The disasters of war have left the Jews in a most deplorable situation. A movement has been started in America to give temporary relief and, if possible, solve the problems of these people for all time.

"I find local interest in the proposed congress of Jews and also the preliminary conference, which is planned for San Francisco about Thanksgiving time. At these conferences it is the purpose to discuss fully all of the questions involved in the distress of the Russian Jews."

Prof. Kallen said that among the local Jews, who are especially interested in the movement are the following: Harry Fram, Samuel Goldstein, Samuel Behrendt, Attorney Harry Goldman and Maurice Coffman.

Money to Swell Sick Benefit and for Workingmen Raised at Merry Grape Festival.

A large amount of money was collected yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the Hungarian Workingman's Sick Benefit and Educational Federation, at the second annual Hungarian grape festival held in Schuetzen Park. Several hundred persons were present and all took part in the long programme.

The feature of the day's events was a grape-picking contest, with twenty-five pretty girls, dressed in the Hungarian national costume, as judges. Bowling, Hungarian and American games and dancing rounded out the day.

The "dance in boots and spurs" was given by M. Fargo. Others who took part in the fancy dancing are Mrs. Frank Vuth, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rondzik, Joe Sabot, Steve Bay, Steve Adam, George Sirmany, Mrs. Peter Kegilovich, Joe Nagg, Mrs. Steve Ference, Mrs. Louise Sinyere, Mrs. Frank Lotozko and the Misses Margaret Eber and Elizabeth Nyiri.

The federation, under whose auspices the festival was given, has more than 4000 members in Southern California. All money received yesterday will be used in benevolent work.

Pastor of First Methodist Observes Anniversary.

Tells Seven-year Record of Steady Advancement.

Timely Topics are Discussed in Many Pulpits.

Dr. Charles Edward Locke at the First Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday preached his seventh anniversary sermon, and took for his subject, "I Know Whom I Have Believed." Dr. Locke said in part:

"This beautiful Sabbath morning my heart is filled with happy memories, and with sincerest thanksgiving to our good Heavenly Father for the many providences which have brought me to the beginning of my eighth year as the pastor of this noble Church. It seems but yesterday since I stood before you that first Sabbath morning in September, 1908, and gave you my first message and received from you a most cordial welcome. The intervening years have passed like a summer solestice, and today I am conscious of increasing affection for you all and enlarging interest in all the happy labors of this great parish. There is not a single irksome task in all my multiplied duties. Whether receiving visits in my office, or making pastoral calls in the home, or in ministering to the sick, or comforting the sad, or exhorting the careless, or in delivering almost numberless addresses and lectures, there is not an occasion which does not afford me pleasure; and I never can tell you how indefinite is my joy in the preparation of my sermons and how above every other honor I appreciate the privilege of standing in this pulpit and giving unto you my humble messages.

"You have been increasingly thoughtful of your pastor in anticipating his every wish and in giving him every possible encouragement. I think I am the most highly favored methodist preacher in all the world. And my earnest prayer is that I may be in some extent worthy of all your passionate confidence and multiplied favors.

"The Church membership has steadily grown until with over 2500 members I suppose it is the largest church in any denomination on the Pacific coast, with an annual budget for incidences and current expenses of about $40,000. With the largest working Sunday-school in Methodism, three flourishing Epworth Leagues in town, and a large and enthusiastic mid-week service, and many special organizations for men, women, young people and children, the First Church is a hive of activity and a great center for enterprise for the worship of God and the service of humanity.

"I acknowledge the great honor of being the pastor of this notable church, and I sincerely thank you for your continued love and prayers, and to my Heavenly Father that in all kind providences the lines have fallen unto me in such pleasant places. I promise you the fullest devotion of my humble talents that the work of the church may go forward by leaps and bounds, with the rich benedictions of our Lord and Master.

"I know whom I have believed.' Christian experience is as uncertain as the shifting sand until we come to the rock 'I know.' Job says, 'I know that my Redeemer liveth;' and Paul says, 'We know that we have passed from death unto life;' and John also speaks in triumph, 'We know that we dwelleth in us by the spirit which He has given us;' and Paul has taught us to believe, 'We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.'

"God has demonstrated His power in creation. He keeps the planets in their orbits, and the suns on their eternal thrones.

"Through all the mutations of the years humanity has been able to keep humanity from disintegration and degeneracy. Nothing is so fascinating as the philosophy of history. At all epochs of time God has presided. The world is growing better. Average human life is steadily lengthening. Universal education is nearer; the brotherhood of man is widening; laws are better enforced, and the Decalogue is increasingly honored. Christian ideals were never so highly respected. Humanity is responding to the divine impulse. God can take care of the universe and history, and truth; of the heavens and the skies and the seas, of gravity and electricity and all things. Don't you think the can keep me? Oh, thou of little faith, wherefore dost thou doubt?' God will forgive us for our faltering if we ask Him.

FIRST UNITED BRETHREN,

WAS ENDOWED THE SOUL WITH WINGS THAT MAKE REJOICING ALWAYS POSSIBLE.

John Albert Eby of the First United Brethren Church preached today on "Always Rejoicing," taking his text from Phil. iv:4, "Rejoice in the Lord alway, again I say rejoice." He said in part:

"Instant and everlasting joy seem to us, of this earthly life, to be scarcely impossible, if not a hollow mockery. And now comes a man whose life was a most bitter struggle, full of sorrows, defeats and deprivations without number and finally blindness, and commands his followers through them all Christ-like everywhere and under all circumstances, to rejoice. Is such a command possible? Our religion seems too much to afford it, but to command a state of heart for all the followers of the Christ. The gospel of Jesus Christ claims to have for us a blessing. We are asking today what may be obtained. From the standpoint it seems a dream never to be realized.

"Joy is everywhere in divine nature, the acknowledgment of existence of sorrow, affliction and pain, but we are told that there is in human life, a higher world of truth and beauty, even we who live in the world of sense, a hidden joy which is perennial and which flows on through life undisturbed by all the storms of uncertain existence. How the human spirit longs for such a discovery! How we pant for such a stream! Behold this man Paul rejoicing in all his troubles and shouting in exultation in the very jaws of death. Behold the paradoxes of living and dying being killed, suffering, dead, yet thrilled with the joy of the Lord. Can such an experience be for any or all of us? This message to the church in Philippi fills us with hope of the final possession of a life.

"Are we disturbed with the con-

"We cannot find joy by turning stoics and refuse to be moved by these enemies of our joy. Neither is there perpetual joy in the gluttonous and bibulous life of the epicurean. Then where is the secret of the joy perpetual of which this great apostle writes?

"We discover here that the source of this life of constant joy has its fountain away above this present world life. This wonderful command did not come till the closing days of the life of Paul. The fires of self-reliance had burnt themselves out, no experience of a soul in a busy and wicked world had escaped this man and how in this message of love and appreciation he tells them that there is a life grounded in reason, lifted by the power of imagination, watered by faith and nourished by hope that is possible even here and now which gives to its possessors eternal, perpetual joy. The one tremendous and final accomplishment of Christianity is this: That your joy might be full.

"God has endowed the human soul with reason, hope, faith, imagination and other marvelous soul powers by which it is possible to so understand life as to rejoice always."

DEAN M'CORMACK.
ST. PAUL'S PRO-CATHEDRAL.
LIBERTY IS THE MOST CHERISHED POSSESSION OF THE HUMAN RACE AND MUST BE PRESERVED.

Dean William MacCormack preached at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral yesterday on the subject, "The Glorious Liberty of the Churches of God." He said in part:

"A visit to the great exposition at San Francisco suggests many thoughts and stirs up many emotions. Instinctively we find ourselves selecting this or that to which we give special thought because it would be impossible to make a careful study of the whole.

"Certain centers of the exposition are crowded. None more so than the space in the Pennsylvania Building, where hangs the Liberty Bell.

"Why is it that so many thousands day after day stand uncovered before his piece of hammered and dented brass with a great crack running down the middle of it, with much the same feelings as Moses had in the presence of the burning bush? Surely this must be the explanation that they recognize in this instrument the symbol of liberty, the most cherished possession of the human race. These feelings came to me as I stood in reverence at this sacred and hallowed spot:

"First; Other men labored and we are entered into their labors. This liberty that has become something of a second nature to us was purchased at a tremendous cost. Men gladly gave their lives to get it and they have given their lives to keep it. But do we value as we should this citizenship which we possess? Do not many fail in this regard? Who are so careless that they neglect even to perform the primary duties of citizenship, in the exercise of the franchise?

"Second; It is our duty to keep this heritage that has come to us, and to hand it on without spot or wrinkle or any such thing to those who shall come after. We must guard from everything that would hurt it. We must be willing to share its privileges with the whole race. These are not to be hoarded selfishly for ourselves. They were given to bless mankind wherever he may be found.

"Third; The crack in it is suggestive even if it is not symbolic. I am not one of those who feel that liberty is in danger. There are times when it may seem to be in eclipse but it is not permanently in danger. But if liberty be not cracked it is dented. Such acts of violence as the lynching of Leo Frank have made many to hang the head in shame. But these deeds against law and order dent the liberty wherein we rejoice."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.
PRESIDENT OF OBERLIN PREACHES THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON GIVEN RECENTLY TO STUDENTS.

Dr. Henry Churchill King, president of Oberlin College, delivered the last of his series of sermons at the First Congregational Church yesterday. In the morning he preached the baccalaureate sermon which he gave before the graduating class of Oberlin Theological Seminary last May. His subject was "Fear not Their Fear," from I Peter iii:14. He said in part:

"You are, in the first place, then, to be yourselves emancipated men and women—emancipated from fear—men and women whom your Lord has set free from the cowardly fear of natural ills—of poverty, of suffering, of old age, of failure, and of death; set free from the vain and foolish fears of rudderless and vacillating souls; set free from the futile and contraditory fears of oppressors of the good—the fears of the selfish, of the wilful and lawless, of those fighting against God; set free from the terrible and desolating fears of those without faith, without hope, without love, without foundations for peace and joy and permanence, 'without God in the world.' As you hate sordidness, as you hate emptiness, as you hate self-contradiction, as you hate desolation, so may you rejoice in emancipation from these fears. 'But even if ye should suffer for righteousness' sake, blessed are ye; and fear not their fear, neither be troubled.' 'For freedom did Christ set us free; stand fast, therefore, and be not entangled again in a yoke of bondage.'

"In the second place, you are to carry to other men a message of like emancipation from fears. It is thus your privilege first, to bring to men cowed by poverty and suffering and old age and failure and death, the message, in Christ, of a new spirit and a new point of view, that are not afraid of things, or of natural ills, and that contain the promise of a new civilization worthier of Christ, that shall finally eliminate these ills so far as they depend on human wrong. You are to magnify the life that has in itself the quality of eternity. It is your privilege, too, to bring to rudderless souls the glory of purposes that put backbone into all life—purposes the greatest that men can take on, purposes that give them share in the very triumph of God himself. It is yours also to bring to the oppressors of good, the vision of a good so great that they cannot wish to fight it, and that shall win them out of narrow, petty selfishness and self-will, into a love like Christ's own. It is yours finally to bring the healing touch of Christ's own life, and his sense of the certainty and nearness of the Father to desolate hearts without faith, without hope, without love. You have the most priceless thing in the world to give to men—witness to the world's transcendent personality in whom the Father laid bare his own heart.

"God grant you so large a measure of the spirit of Christ that you shall be, characteristically, men and women emancipated from fears, and men and women with an emancipating message."

REV. W. L. Y. DAVIS.
WEST ADAMS M. E. CHURCH.
MAN WHO DEMANDS REWARD FOR GOING TO CHURCH IS NOT SPIRITUALLY STRONG.

Rev. W. L. Y. Davis, pastor of West Adams Methodist Episcopal Church, preached yesterday morning on the subject "Greater Works than These." He said in part:

"Moses made frogs and flies and lice to destroy his enemies: Christ never performed a miracle to harm anybody. Samson used his supernatural strength to pull down the pillars and destroy his foes: Christ died for his enemies. Elisha used his miraculous power to smite the Syrian hosts with blindness: Jesus opened blinded eyes. Jesus delivered; never destroyed! He did greater works than His forebears. And in turn He said, 'Greater works than these shall ye do,' to his followers.

"Faith developed by miracle does not amount to much. Christ healed Peter's wife's mother of a fever: Where was Peter's wife's mother when Jesus had the fever on the cross? Mary and the Magdalene were there. Where were the ten lepers? Why did they not come and offer to be pall bearers—they would have been about the right number. Joseph and Nicodemus buried Him and they had not been healed. Where was the man born blind? Why did he not write some of the wonderful things that had happened to him? He could see to write. Matthew nor Luke nor John had had their eyes opened. Where was the man who was lame and lay at the gate of the temple? Why did he not set off upon missionary journeys instead of Paul. Paul still had the thorn in his limb! Where was Lazarus? Christ attended his funeral: Why was he not at the crucifixion? The people who have to be helped by miracle are not the remarkables of history. There are some things greater than miracle in the development of character!

"A miracle is not very complimentary. It shows God thinks we need a chaperone! A man who has to be given loaves and fishes every time he goes to church to keep him going is not of great spiritual force.

"It is not the lapse of faith that has caused the age of miracle to pass; rather the increase of faith has made miracle unnecessary.

"The blind man of Jericho was heard of just once, and that time when he called for help and got it. But God does not open many Fanny Crosby's eyes, because He wants them to do a greater work than His healing would be and sing through the ages: 'When I Shall See Him Face to Face!' 'God learned from the man let down through the roof that he will not likely ever create any stir again. So He does not take away the limp of His Byrons lest they may never leap astride of steeds of poesy for mountain travel! I know some of His Byrons may chafe about it and become misanthropic; but they just do not know that they have been picked to do greater works than these!"

DR. CAMPBELL.
FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.
OBSERVE THE UNIVERSAL LAW TEACHING HONEST EFFORT ALWAYS REWARDED.

Dr. Edward Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, preached yesterday on the subject, "Diligence in Service." He said in part:

"When Solomon said 'a man who is diligent in business shall stand before kings,' he directed our minds to obserse that universal law that prevails in which earnest effort and consecrated toil is always rewarded. It was the wise and enthusiastic prophet Saul of Tarsus who gave the command, 'be diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord,' who sowed the seeds of righteousness in the hearts of the heathen of Asia and Europe from which has sprung a mighty civilization that has extended itself to the ends of the earth.

"He, who stood before men and lived a perfect life and gave to the world an example of conscientious living such as the world has never seen before, said, 'I must be about my Father's business,' and he went forth toiling and laboring with a zeal that has won the admiration of all who seek to make the most of life's opportunities.

"Mr. Longfellow said the talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, without a thought of fame, and another has said, 'success in life consists in the proper and harmonious development of those faculties which God has given us.'

"We stand and look with amazement and wonder upon some great achievement, often times forgetting that before it could be presented to the world, there were many heart yearnings and many days and perhaps years of diligent toil. Sometimes a great poem or oration or some painting has attracted the attention of a nation, but such has not been given to the world without a great amount of toil and diligent effort.

"So must every great life that makes an impression upon men for righteousness and honesty and truth spring from a conscientious effort to perform honestly that service toward God and man that makes a life worthy and noble."

REV. R. F. THRAPP.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.
GOODNESS AND MERCY OF GOD SHOWN IN THE SHEPHERD PSALM OF DAVID.

At the First Christian Church yesterday, Rev. Russell F. Thrapp, the pastor, spoke on the "Shepherd Psalm." He said in part:

"There are many references in the Bible to the shepherd life. Jesus saw the people scattered and as 'sheep not having a shepherd.' He also gave to the world the beautiful parable of the lost sheep. The Psalmist explains, 'All we, like sheep, have gone astray.'

"Thinking of his shepherd life, and then of the leadership of Jehovah, he wrote this Psalm, beginning 'The Lord is my shepherd.'

"To appreciate this Psalm we must get rid of our American ideas of shepherding. The Texas herdsman and the Kansas ranchman, driving their sheep with whip and dogs, are utterly unlike the oriental shepherd. The oriental shepherd knew His sheep and loved each one. He individualized and dealt personally with every member of his flock. Jesus exclaimed, 'I am the Good Shepherd, and know My sheep and am known of Mine.' The shepherd, no doubt, knew some of his sheep by their defects. Here was one with a slit ear, another with a lame foot. How well the Good Shepherd may know some of us, for our defects are many! Jehovah, the Good Shepherd, individualizes and deals personally with His children. Every hair of the head is numbered. Men once thought of Him as a king seated upon a throne in the corner of the universe, having no interest in humanity. Today, we think of Him as imminent amid His creation, and interested in every single one of His creatures. He gives attention to the weeping child and to the dying statesman.

"The shepherd led his sheep to green pastures and beside still waters. Jehovah, our shepherd, guides us into pleasant paths and surrounds us with great blessings and feeds our souls with the bread of life. His leading is always accurate. We see this amid His material creation. He is the shepherd of the stars, and how accurate is His leading! Astronomers can reckon the exact moment of the appearance of a certain star many years before it shows itself, so accurate is the leading of the great Creator.

"The oriental shepherd, as the sheep in the evening passed into the fold, stood with oil and anointed the hurt places on the sheep. David refers to this when he says, 'Thou anointest my head with oil.' He refers here to the comfort, sympathy and healing, which comes from the chief Shepherd of all. At night, the sheep were safely folded. What a fold of protection is the home with its restraining influence, the church with its helpful influence, and heaven, at last, where nothing that is evil or that makes afraid can break in! 'Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.'"

CHURCH OF THE PEOPLE.
THERE IS NO LIMITATION TO SOUL OF MAN EXCEPT THOSE HE IMPOSES.

At the Church of the People, yesterday Rev. Reynold E. Blight spoke on the subject, "The Undeveloped Psychic Powers of Man." He said in part:

"The capacity of man is infinite. We have scarcely scratched the surface of human resources, mentally and spiritually. For uncounted generations man has defined himself in terms of negation, limitation and weakness; now he is beginning to think of himself in the terms of potentiality, possibility and divinity. There is no limit to the soul of man, save the limitation he imposes on himself.

"History shows that in emergencies the human spirit is capable of undreamed of achievements and only under the pressure of a great necessity do these powers manifest themselves. Why should a man be satisfied to remain the victim of environment, the slave of habit, the child of misfortune, the unhappy dupe of disease and weakness, when within him he holds the power that shall make him master of the universe? When a man knows the truth about himself and the world in which he lives he rises superior to fate and circumstance and bends the heavens to his bidding.

"This is no poetic dream but a grand reality that multitudes are realizing daily. They are finding that freedom in which the mind and soul expands, aspires and achieves. Know the truth and the truth shall make you free; and as we know the truth we know God, who is wisdom, life and love."

REV. J. M. BARNHART.
UNION-AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.
RULES LAID DOWN BY THE APOSTLES TWO THOUSAND YEARS AGO STILL APPLICABLE.

Rev. John M. Barnhart, pastor of Union-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, preached yesterday from the text: "If a man love Me he will keep My word; and My Father will love him, and we will come unto Him and make our abode with Him." He said in part:

"To have God abide in us is the greatest conceivable blessing. Obedience is the price which must be paid for this precious boon.

"We must keep His word, or commandments, not in the letter, but in the spirit, for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.

"Some people think it is old fashioned to go back 2000 years or more for rules or commands. They seem to think that what is new must be true; the old is false or outgrown.

"Like children who think that breaking away from parental teaching and control is freedom, these people reject authority and make fun of dogma and ancient standards of conduct, believing it shows superior intelligence if not virtue.

"Poor would the world be without the divinely-inspired Hebrew prophets and apostles; without the philosophers, ancient and modern; and above all without Him who spake as never man spake.

"It ought to be salutary to ask what are some of the rules which are thoroughly in harmony with the spirit of the word which must be kept.

"First we must do no harm. Vulgar or profane speech should never pollute the lips. We should never engage in any business, like the selling of liquor, which injures our fellowmen just for the profit we can make. We should avoid fighting and quarreling, and never return evil for evil. We should avoid anything which is not for the glory of God, as extravagant living, taking diversions which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus, reading books which do not have a high moral tone, taking usury, borrowing with no probability of paying.

"Second, we should do good of every possible kind to all classes of people. We should do our duty whether we feel like it or not; visit the sick and those in prison, accept persecution for the Lord's sake, be faithful to public and private worship, Bible study and abstinence.

"These are a few ancient rules for conduct which are neglected at the soul's peril. They are in harmony with the spirit and teaching of Christ and may not be improved.

"In the keeping of these rules is great reward, for God will make His abode in that soul.

"When you keep God's word then expect great things. Be not like the fellow who said, 'Blessed is he that expecteth nothing for he shall not be disappointed.'"

REV. A. R. PETTY.
TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH.
OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE COME TO MAN THROUGH INTERRUPTIONS THAT BESET ALL.

Rev. A. Ray Petty spoke yesterday at the Temple Baptist Church on the subject, "The Ministry of the Unexpected," saying in part:

"The telegraph, which has become such an important factor in our life, flashes a message across the continent because of interruptions to the electric current. A dot or a dash is made by the finger of the operator breaking the current at one end of the line. The same break of the current is recorded at the other end, and from the interruptions to the flow of the electric fluid through the wire, the message is transmitted with the rapidity of thought.

"When Jesus Christ came into the world to become the Son of Man, so that He might show the sons of men how to become Sons of God, he gave His real message to the world through the interruption to the current of His daily life. How many times as He was going to carry out some particular thing some interrupted Him, and the thing that He had planned to do remained undone, but the interruption with its opportunity for service is recorded and kept for us.

"And what was true of the life of Christ will be true of the life of every man and woman who really serves and helps their fellow-men. There is nothing quite so sure to come to us as interruptions.

"The life that can stop is the life of power. The word power presupposes the ability to stop. Any power that simply drives ahead and cannot be controlled is not power. It is ruin. A cyclone is not an illustration of power in the sense that we use the word.

"The life that can stop and use its interruptions as opportunities for service is the life of blessing.

"The life that can stop and turn its interruptions into blessings is the Christian life. Being a Christian means being like Christ. It means standing in His place. It means doing the thing that He would do, and nothing else can take the place of a life prompted by a love for Christ and devoted to doing His work among men and women.

"If your life has been mean and sordid, if you have crushed where you should have lifted, if you have been hard where you should have been kind, if you have pressed your claim where you should have yielded—I know that your actions have not been the actions of Christ, and your life of little power. Oh, the power of being able to stop—the blessing of our interruptions—the likeness to Christ, the richness and beauty of the life of the man who makes opportunities for service out of his interruptions!"

BOYLE HEIGHTS M. E. CHURCH.
RELIGION AND WORK GO TOGETHER AND FOR A MAN TO BE GOOD HE MUST NEEDS BE A WORKER.

Rev. W. E. Tilroe, D.D., pastor of Boyle Heights M. E. Church, preached yesterday on the subject, "Religion and Work." He said in part:

"Misunderstanding is the fate of life. One might say as truly that understanding is the fate of life. We can, none of us escape knowing something and knowing it right. But that is normal and expected. There is no call for sermons on the obvious. A sermon on misunderstandings now and then, however, is another matter. Men are small and can really take in the whole of nothing. Life is a large affair and complex as large. Prejudice and passion shoot athwart everything. Other people take a hand in matters and are not careful to tell us all they know. So for reasons unnumbered, misunderstanding, like poverty, is with us always. Angels misunderstood and kept not their first estate. Adam and Eve misunderstood and left the garden for the field. Jesus was misunderstood. Men have thought a thousand things about Him that were not so. The providences of God are misunderstood. All things work together for good, but they are few enough who take it as a working basis. It now and then, therefore, religion and work have come to cross purposes there is little strange about it. In these days when rich and poor, high and low, wise and foolish, are in the same rocking boat as rarely before, we shall find great opportunity for better thinking.

"The earliest thing to be said on this Labor Day occasion, is that the Bible evidently makes religion and work the best of friends. The original human beings, reported as being perfect for their purpose, and made in in image of God, were given a task. They were put into the Garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. Often and often the apostles, prophets, priests and kings of the chosen people were drawn from the ranks of toil. Jesus of Nazareth was a carpenter. Paul was a maker of tents. That he who would not work should not eat, was very Christian doctrine. People work in heaven. They serve God day and night in His temple. There is no sign anywhere in the Holy Book that religion and work are ever at contraries. The good man is a worker and the worker is by that much a good man. Wherever toil and prayers got in each other's way, somebody has blundered. Work is religious and religion is work.

"It is also true that the Bible makes religion and every other good thing the best of friends. It was a garden where man was put to work. Privilege, utility, wealth, wisdom, beauty, love and good will, every benediction the race enjoys, were represented there. Men are an endowed and capitalized proposition. David, the King, was the sweet singer of Israel. Luke and Paul, the missionaries, were cultivated scholars. Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea were wealthy. Roman centurions became good Christians. All industry is work. The lesson is that at bottom religion is never supposed to specialize. It is no more the friend of the laborer than the capitalist, of the democrat than the aristocrat, of the citizen than the ruler, of the poor than the rich, of the wise than the foolish, of the down and out than of the successful. Every sort of man may pitch his tent under its shadow. Should the church carry on the propaganda of any one class of men, it would be the calamity of that class. The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof.

"It is finally true that religion is pledged to the correction of all wrongs. The ignorance of the earth is steadily displaced by knowledge. The sin of the earth gives way to right. Oppression is supplanted by liberty. Slavery is buried. Intemperance is pursued to the bitter end. What is needed is patience and good will. The mills of the gods grind sure but slowly. Every kind of man has a right to his chance in life and religion is evermore his friend toward getting it."

REV. CHESTER FERRIS.
PARK CONGREGATIONAL.
LET MINISTERS AND CHURCHES RISE TO THEIR DUTY AND SERVE NATION IN ITS CRISIS.

Rev. Chester Ferris, pastor of Park Congregational Church, preached yesterday on the subject, "The Church and the Social Crisis." He said in part:

"Too long has the church halted with a half gospel, that is an individual gospel. Henry Ford has lifted up to view the success of a plan in which profits are shared with the wage earner. Such a high scale of wages would seem a dream, but its success as an investment, is clearly demonstrated. Never have his own profits in the firm been so large as since his system of profit sharing. He disclaims any thought of philanthropy; the method is adopted because it pays. Self interest is advanced as the motive. Now when he is asked his opinion of the churches, he speaks of them slightingly; they have little concern for practical affairs; they do little for the present well being of the people, he urges.

"Alas, were it not so true. Ministers and congregations a-plenty refuse to be interested in promoting a social gospel. The divine forgiveness and love, rescue a future salvation from heaven, they advance; and let us not forget the warning and comfort of such a message. But Christ came to bring more than that. He came to bring the Kingdom of God on earth. He came to establish a happy society here. If his message were declared, it would be good will in business and all social enterprise. Far and away beyond the motive declared by Henry Ford is the true Christian programme, "the profit of the many," by reason of love for one's neighbor as one's self.

"Too long the industrial world has been ruled by selfishness. Good will has been thought of as secondary. The policy of each for himself, has resulted in the swollen fortunes, poverty of the masses, class hatred, graft—terrible monsters of peril to the nation. If our country is to be saved from disaster, it can only be as good will is enthroned in the hearts of all workers and leaders. Does that seem utterly visionary? No, that vision walks the earth, and more and more comes to be realized. Here is the magnificent mission of the Church: to foment brotherhood. More important service for Jesus Christ and humanity there cannot be. Let ministers and churches rise to their compelling obligation and help to serve the nation in its social crisis."

A Pneumatic Elevator.

[Popular Mechanics:] To supersede the old-time Ferris wheel and giant seesaw for amusement purposes, an observation tower of very novel character has been constructed at one of Chicago's summer parks. The structure, which is built entirely of steel and plate glass, is twelve-sided in form, rises to a height of 214 feet, and is thirty feet in diameter. Fitted in this, like a carrier in a pneumatic tube, is an elevator capable of holding 125 persons. This is literally blown to the top of the shaft by air pressure. There are no cables to lift it, nor is there a pneumatic or hydraulic plunger to push it. The car is raised and lowered in the steel and glass tower in precisely the same way that an engine piston is driven in a cylinder by steam pressure.

MAGAZINE DEFEAT.

The Turks are being driven out of Europe—in the Literary Digest. Outside of the catastrophe that has befallen them in this periodical, the Turks seem to be in no immediate danger.

ORCHARDS NOT AUTOMATIC.

One thing our orchardists must learn and that is the proper care of their trees. Fruit growing is not magic. A majority of people who come to California and buy citrus groves seem to expect their orchards to cultivate themselves.

NO ESCAPE.

Dishonesty is the most expensive of all procrastination. In the end one always pays, and interest is oppressive. As it compounds upon some people they will find themselves chasing a creditor through twenty years of purgatory for a chance to settle. By that time they will understand that no soul can progress with the burden of evasion upon its frail wing.

BADLY MIXED.

Roosevelt, the doughty discoverer of lost rivers, is obsessed with the fear that America is about to be "Chinafied." Nobody else sees any signs of the progress. On the contrary, there seems every likelihood in the near future of China being Americanized.

PLAIN JUSTICE.

Tangles are the mistakes of ignorance. They vanish in the light of understanding. Any man who comprehends a situation in which he is legitimately involved can settle it by a sufficient expression of good will. If a few of us would cease to be lawyers for our own side and would try to see ourselves as judges of equity the world would lose its cause of quarrel.

HEWING TO THE LINE.

No man can ever be lost in the dark if he stand in the light of understanding, just as no man can go far wrong when actuated by a pure motive. The power of knowledge is regulated by honesty of intention. That is why the willful abuse of power and the selfish advantage of knowledge always end in evil overthrow.

APPLES AND THE MARKET.

More apples were shipped to Los Angeles last year from Watsonville than that rich apple district will send to the world's wide market this season. This is not a fact to bring any alarm to the apple growers, because many of them lost money last year where most of them will profit from their 1915 sales. While the fruit was abundant in 1914, the quality was inferior. This year the fruit is remarkably sound, so that between its excellence and the limited supply the growers will do well.

HAVE THE MARKET AND THE GOODS

Director-General Barrett of the Pan-American Union says the Western Hemisphere will hold the world's leadership in business through an increasing solidarity. He is right when he anticipates a steady growth in American values. With the South American countries encouraged to an increase in their agricultural endeavors and Americans working overtime to supply South America and all of the rest of the world with the products of their factories, the American dollar ought to maintain its position as the standard world value for a long time to come.

A SYMPATHETIC MORTGAGE.

The right of a shipper by water or rail to stop goods in transit where they have not been paid for is—where the consignee becomes insolvent—conceded by all commercial nations. In cases of stoppage in transit the carrier's charges are a first lien upon the goods. But the English courts have gone so far as to decide that the carrier was entitled to a first lien upon goods in transit, not merely for the carrier's charges on those particular goods, but for any moneys that might for any cause be due from the consignee to the carrier. In other words, the carrier was entitled to a sympathetic mortgage on everything that came into his hands.

SOMETHING TO FIGHT FOR.

We are astounded at the daily cost of the great war, and yet in a way it is not hard to understand how destruction carried on in so colossal and spectacular a fashion must eat into the treasuries of the earth. Far more astounding is the information that the tiny cattle tick costs the United States every year $90,000,000, a dead loss for which there in no possible compensation.

Really, there are so many expensive and necessary wars to wage against the common foes of the whole human race that the most incomprehensible thing of all is that we should expend so much energy in attempting to kill members of our own family. If we must fight, let us combine to fight relentlessly against ticks and mildew, fungus microbes and mealy bugs, considering their numbers and the damage they cause, "foemen worthy of our steel."

If the treasure spent on the war up to date could have been pooled before the war started and used by the whole of mankind against our most deadly enemies, most deadly because they are almost imperceptible, what a wonderful house cleaning this old planet would have had, to start the next year in clean and respectable quarters.

WHO OWNS THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS?

Before the end is reached in the fight labor-union agitators are conducting against the Chicago Board of Education the question will have been put squarely to the American people: "Who owns the public schools?" If walking delegates and ignorant labor bosses are allowed to dictate to school boards as to whom they shall or shall not employ in the vital work of public education, then the schools are not the property of the people, but they have passed into the hands of demagogues whose aim will be to destroy their efficiency.

Every extensive attempt to stamp out the open shop for American labor has been a failure, although a few cities and communities have temporarily submitted to the tyranny. But there is no city, no town, no village that will submit for a moment to a "closed" school for our children. That is what would result, however, from allowing the cockney anarchist, Gompers, to get a grip on any school board, and against such a disgrace we believe the educational authorities in Chicago will fight to a finish.

A federation of school teachers, formed for mutual exchange of views that each member may become more proficient and so fitted to command a higher salary, is a movement that deserves all praise and every encouragement. But a federation of teachers, formed along labor-union lines to compel higher salaries regardless of efficiency or fitness, organized to take away from school boards elected by the people the right of free choice, is a destructive blow aimed at the heart of American education.

The war against the Chicago school board may spread—it will spread if the agitators can work the evil—throughout the United States. So the squashing of such a campaign at the outset becomes a national necessity.

For there is nothing too despicable the Gompers gang will not attempt to break down the education system of the country. The success of agitators depends on the ignorance of the people. Let them once debase the standard of school teachers and lower the intelligence of the nation by reducing school boards to the level of labor-union temples, and America will be started on the swift toboggan to mob rule and Mexican peonage.

Since the public schools belong to the people it is the people's duty to see that no such intrigue is allowed to involve our highest institution in the meanest and dirtiest brand of politics. Already an effort has been made to poison the minds of the children and to line them up with the forces of disorder arrayed against the school board and the city authorities in Chicago. To so dastardly a campaign against the homes and the school life of the nation every true American has but one answer: We will never hand over the futures of our children to the creatures who advocate sabotage, the boycott, bludgeons and even dynamite as weapons against individual freedom.

THE CHANCE FOR PROGRESSIVES.

The Progressive party began life with the boast that it would rend both of the old parties in twain and place Roosevelt in power on a platform of perfect political purity. It did not do any rending so far as the Democratic party was concerned. The fifteen southern States and the five States of Colorado, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada and Oklahoma, which voted for Bryan in 1908, voted in 1912 for Wilson. The six States of California, Michigan, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Washington changed from Republican to Progressive. Only two States—Vermont and Utah—remained Republican, and in eighteen northern States which cast their electoral votes for the Republican candidate in 1908, the Democracy were enabled—in consequence of the Progressive bolt—to cast the electoral vote for Wilson.

Local elections in many of these States since 1912 unmistakably indicate that most of those who voted for Roosevelt have returned to the Republican fold. Those who remain and who insist on maintaining a Progressive organization may aid to keep the Democratic party in power locally, but that is the only result which they can possibly hope to accomplish. As for obtaining office for themselves, it is an utter impossibility, unless they can do so here and there in California under a pretense of nonpartisanship on an Eshlemanite-Ishmaelite, one-leg-on-both-sides-of-the-fence platform.

Shakespeare says, "Time was that when the brains were out the man would die and so be ended." The I-scent organs which clamor for the continued existence of the Progressive organization have not even the excuse of the man who was reported dead and who admitted that he was dead and was only walking around to save his funeral expenses.

The Times appeals candidly and earnestly to all honest Progressives and asks them in the name of reason and common sense why do they maintain their organization? Progressives did not in 1912 and do not now antagonize the main principles of the Republican party. They did not and do not propose to recall or repeal any of the measures of national preservation, of freedom, of finance, of reconstruction or of protection to American industry which Republican statesmen placed in the organic and statute laws and wove into the thought of the nation. They rent the Republican party in twain in 1912 for the puerile reason that a majority of its representatives, in national convention assembled, refused to accord to Theodore Roosevelt that third Presidential term which Washington refused and Grant failed to obtain. While opposing the renomination of President Taft they did not, because they could not, condemn a single one of the measures or public acts of his administration as President. Their excuse for bolting his nomination was the dissatisfaction with the methods of some of the "bosses" who supported him. Their real reason was a crazed, fanatical devotion to the personality of the bossiest boss that ever curled a whiplash about the flanks of his followers.

The Progressives ought to be satisfied by this time that there is no inducement for them to dwell any longer among the swine. Come home, brethren, to your Republican father's house. The roast veal is awaiting you.

If the park department can obtain the money to carry out its plans Griffith Park will make the Libyan desert look like 30 cents. The park will become a place like unto that described by a great revivalist, a place "where the lion roareth and the whangdoodle mourneth for its firstborn."

PRACTICAL PREPAREDNESS.

The military school at Plattsburg, on Lake Champlain, in the State of New York, was original in conception, unique in operation and furnished a model which could advantageously be followed in every State in the Union.

Nearly 1200 men, enough to form eight full companies at war strength, assembled at Plattsburg on August 10 and will remain until tomorrow. These were not college students in a military instruction camp; they were not lads from a military school; they were not picnickers having a high old time fishing and shooting in the daytime and playing draw poker at night; they were not Methodists or Baptists intent on saving their souls and crowding the anxious benches at camp meeting. They were business and professional men, prominent in public affairs and in private life. Among them were diplomats—including an ex-Ambassador—several ex-Governors, high city officials, financiers, lawyers, college professors, writers, physicians, engineers and merchants, as well as noted sportsmen and a generous sprinkling of humble clerks. They came mainly from the big cities of the East. Theirs was no mere play soldiering, no sporting trip or summer outing with military trappings. Social diversions were barred, and wives, sisters and sweethearts were noticeably absent. They came to work and to learn and they did both in dead earnest.

They were instructed in every branch of army service—infantry, cavalry, artillery, machine-gun battery, motor transportation, and signal, medical and sanitary corps. The day's routine, from the reveille call at 5:45 in the morning to 10 o'clock taps at night, was crowded with tasks.

The earnestness with which the men worked and the high standard of intelligence represented told heavily in the results achieved. The rate of progress was ten times more rapid than that usually attained by men in the field. These men were not graduated as officers from this brief schooling. It was not intended that they should be. Their four weeks' intensive course covered the work that occupies five or six months in the usual training of soldiers, and if called upon tomorrow they would be fit for service.

The Review of Reviews concludes an admirable and instructive article on the Plattsburg camp as follows:

"The plan prepared by the General Staff in 1912, and approved by the Secretary of War, calls for a force of 500,000 men, regulars and State militia, and in addition for the raising of 300,000 volunteers. Once such a plan is provided, the volunteers can be raised at need, and they will be forthcoming when the call is issued. Gen. Wood is assured of this, and has only the highest praise for the loyalty of the American volunteer, in spite of false impression to the contrary. It is not the volunteer or the volunteer spirit that Gen. Wood decries. The thing condemned is the volunteer system, that leaves everything to be done at the last moment.

"Our military plans should be prepared in advance, the system duly worked out. The regular army should be enlarged immediately, with sufficient men for garrisoning our outlying possessions and the coast defenses, besides a reasonable force as a mobile army within the country. The raising of the volunteers may be left until the crisis comes. But the thing that cannot be left until that particular moment is the providing of officers to train those volunteers. Officers must be developed in time of peace, so as to be ready to take the million or so of Mr. Bryan's 'between sunrise and sunset volunteers' and turn them from a disorganized, helpless mob into an effective machine. To leave the training of the officers to the last minute means the wanton sacrifice of the volunteers in the first shock of battle—'deliberate murder by the nation,' as a great soldier termed it."

AGAINST PREDATORY WEALTH.

The Interstate Commerce Commission proudly boasts that by its indefatigable meddlesome activities it has changed the net income of the express companies of the country from $1,250,000 in 1913 to a deficit of $1,130,000 in 1915 and has compelled the United States Express Company to go out of business altogether.

The companies reported that during the deficit year they handled 2,225,923 more shipments and that the decrease in gross revenue was more than $13,500,000.

The commission predicated its activities upon the hypothesis that the parcel post office would prove an adequate substitute for the express companies, and that it was the duty of the commission to compel the express companies either to go out of business or go broke. But finding that there are a number of functions which the parcel post cannot perform, the commission reversed its action and decided to allow the express companies to increase the rates on packages under 100 pounds by about 4 per cent. of former tariffs. This change will add $5,000,000 a year of additional revenues to the companies which have survived the onslaught of the commission and will enable them, by reducing the wages of their employees, to remain in business without serious loss. If it shall be found that it will also enable them to make a small profit the commission probably will again reduce their charges, for the members of the commission are apparently impressed with the conviction that it is their duty to prevent any predatory capitalist from adding in any way to his loathsome gains.

GREAT GOLD NUGGETS.

[London Chronicle:] Whilst we are searching for silver bullets, a miner at Atlin, British Columbia, has just unearthed a nugget of gold worth over £8000. Giant nuggets are not as common as stories concerning them, but occasionally the lucky man hits on gold in the lump, and the largest nugget on record, found at Lead City, Lawrence, county, S. D., U. S. A., some years ago weighed 5000 ounces and was valued at £18,000. There is gold in—or under—Wales. What if a miner should dig up such a nugget? The discovery would not top the value of Welsh coal.

National Editorial Service.

FOR THE NATIONAL DEFENSE.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]
BY ALEXANDER R. SMITH,
Former Superintendent New York Maritime Exchange.

THE statement was made public recently in a Washington dispatch that officials of the Navy Department are making a census of "American merchant vessels with a view to their use by the government in the event of war," and this even included available vessels on the Great Lakes. But little attention has been given the matter, and almost no editorial comment has resulted. And yet, the fact that such a census is being taken, and that merchant ships are necessary in the event of war, are matters of vast national significance.

The indifference shown by the press really constitutes a mirror reflecting an actual lack of appreciation of the significance of the transcendent reason why this country should have a merchant marine of its own. There are not keener people than those of the United States, no people whose scent for news is so acute, none better able to view the matter from every possible side and present its various aspects to their readers than the editorial writers of American newspapers.

Needing a merchant marine, as this country does, for purposes of national defense, nothing whatever should prevent the nation from having it. No sacrifice is too great to fortify the nation adequately to provide necessary defensive instrumentalities, nor in such a matter is expense deserving of consideration.

When, a century and a quarter ago, Thomas Jefferson said, speaking of a marine, that "as a branch of industry it is valuable, but as a resource of defense essential," he epitomized the whole subject in fifteen words. And yet, after the Spanish-American War, speaking of the nondescript fleet that conveyed American troops from Tampa to Santiago, the Naval war College said:

"Nothing but the safe arrival of the fleet at its destination justified its use for troop transportation."

Had the weather been stormy the fleet would have been dispersed, many of the ships would have sunk, and thousands of American soldiers and sailors would have gone to their death, because the Federal government had neglected to see that the nation possessed a strong, growing, profitable shipping, not for individual profit per se, but for the national defense. That neglect still continues.

In a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, dated January 12, 1915, Admiral Dewey, president of the General Board of the Navy, explained in detail the number and kind of merchant vessels the country would require if engaged in war. Secretary of the Navy Daniels wrote letters at the same time to Senators emphasizing this need. And in the same month Secretary of War Garrison explained to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo the military need of merchant ships for war purposes in a most striking manner.

For the national defense an American merchant marine is a vital national need. And, to a lesser extent, but nevertheless to an extent sufficient to justify its creation, the nation needs a merchant marine to find and to hold and to develop foreign markets for the ever-growing surplus products of the United States, the lack of which market will necessitate the reduction of production, loss of employment to thousands, if not millions, of skilled and unskilled industrial workers, and cause a serious check to our national development.

For purposes of national defense we must have an American merchant marine, and for economic reasons its need is equally urgent.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

THE MISSUS.

Be kind to the missus, who spends the long days in making your home worth the while; be free with encouragement, gratitude, praise, and hand her a corpulent smile. You go to your home from your job in the mart, and talk of the burdens you've borne, the cares that are racking your galvanized heart, the ills that are making you mourn. Sweet sympathy comes from the lips of your wife, and love is aglow on her face; the burdens and cares of her own weary life have nothing to do with the case. Suppose you forget your own troubles and woes, and think of the woes of the frau, whose cheeks long ago lost the bloom of the rose, while wrinkles increased on her brow. Suppose you remember the work she has done, the endless routine of the years, the toil from the rising to setting of sun, and always with work in arrears. Suppose you remember when she was a maid, and you were a love-smitten boy; you painted the future in opulent shade, and promised her comfort and joy. The missus will toil till she drops in her tracks, and goes to the rest up above, ignoring the pain and the strain and the tax, and all she's expecting is love.

WALT MASON.

Giant Armies of Old.

[New York World:] Ancient Thebes, it is said, could send 10,000 fighting men out of each of its hundred gates.

Ninus, the Assyrian king, in the twenty-second century B.C., led against the Bactrians 1,700,000 soldiers on foot and 200,000 mounted.

The old historians credit Xerxes with land and sea forces counting up to 2,641,000, with enough attaches, hangers-on, women, sutlers, etc., to make a host of more than 5,000,000.

Artaxerxes had at one time, before the battle of Cunaxa, an army nearly a million and a quarter strong.

Darius of Persia brought more than a million soldiers to Arbela.

Tamerlane is said to have met Bajazet's 1,400,000 with a force of 1,600,000.

Terah, King of Ethiopia, had a million soldiers to call to his standards.

Compared with the extended battle line of today in Europe, the array of forces at ancient Cannae was but a skirmish formation. There were 86,000 Romans and allies against 50,000 Carthaginians.

Hannibal is recorded as having destroyed 200,000 men during his campaign in Italy. Just before his time that country could send a million men into the field.

An Irish Gem.

[Chicago Herald:] Irish stories were the only ones the late "Andy" Rohan ever told. So he made up for the lack of international variety by making each "good and Irish." Here's one of them:

"My friend Carney had trouble with a little fellow named Feeney. One day he saw Feeney coming across the street after him and Carney crossed, met him half way and planted his big fist on Feeney's little jaw. 'What did ye hit a little divvil like him for?' I asked him. 'Go on,' said Carney. 'It was a kindness. If I'd let him say what he wanted to I'd a' had to kill 'im.'"

Oh, land of music and of dream,
Your songs are dead!
Oh, morning-rose, oh, twilight-gleam,
Forever fled!
Now, through your thunder-cloud
We see but frenzy's aftermath—

Your shamed and haunted ships [illegible]
Child-faces, floating silently
Under God's sky.

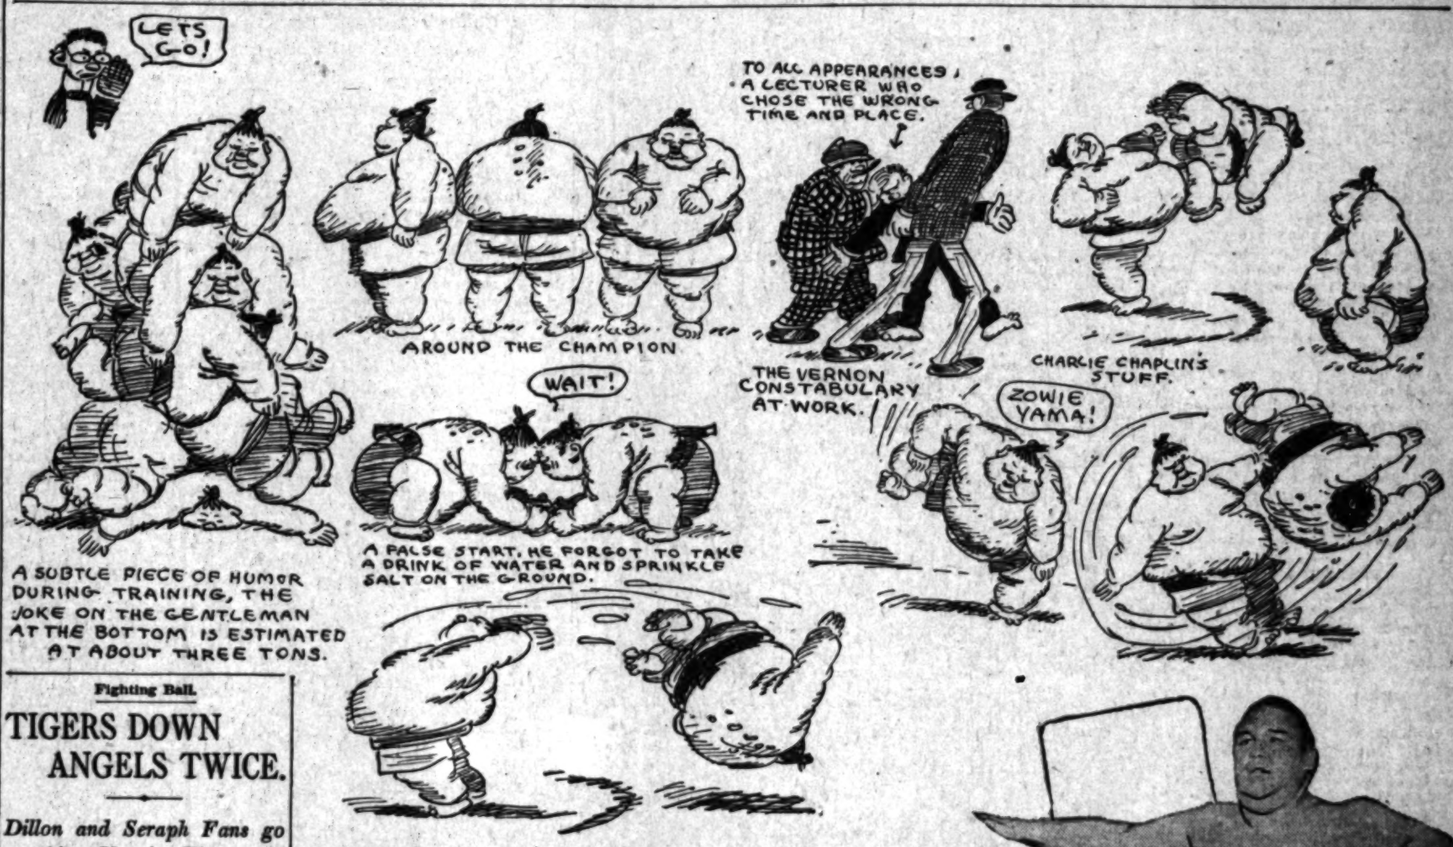
VERNON WINS FOUR GAMES TO THREE FOR CAPS.



Fighting Ball.

TIGERS DOWN ANGELS TWICE.

Dillon and Seraph Fans go After Umpire Finney.

Mitze Wins Morning Game on Two Home Runs.

Doc White Relieves Piercy in the Afternoon.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

They well-nigh wrecked the old Vernon yard with six home runs and other heavy artillery.

The second scrap went an extra round, ending in a snarl at the plate, with Dillon banished to the clubhouse, and a mob of red-eyed fans snapping at Ed Finney's well-known heels.

Thus did the Tigers torpedo a couple of large holes in the September pennant hopes of the Angels, and enhance their own interests accordingly.

A. M.—Vernon, 7; Los Angeles, 6.
P. M.—Vernon, 5; Los Angeles, 4.

Bill Piercy, the El Monte phenom, who had been reserved for the matinee, found himself surrounded on all sides by stolen bases and other trouble, until Doc White extricated him in the third and became personally responsible for the winning or losing of the game. The combat looked very much lost when Doc took hold, but when the Tigers came from behind and overcame a four-run lead, the old fox found himself in the winning column. Wilhoit doubled in the tenth and Berger drove him across with the winning run, after Mitze had tied it in the eighth. Honus was rambunctious all day. It was he who tied and won the morning game, using two home runs for the purpose.

Piercy seemed to forget much that he had learned about holding runners on, and they took certain liberties which Mitze was unable to prevent. There were four swipes during Bill's brief tenure in office, and he remained perfectly dormant while McMullen stole the plate in the first. Piercy also balked. Young pitchers and colts sometimes do this.

The Angels took advantage of Bill's inability to do two things at once—pitch and watch base runners—and piled up a four-run lead in three innings.

MUST TAKE UP ATHLETICS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 5.—The officials of the High School have at least heard the plea of the students of the school and this year will see the establishment of compulsory athletics for the boys. Every boy in the High School will have to labor in some line of athletics, either football, tennis, baseball or track, in order to make his credits.

This will be of great help to Coach Art Lutz. During the past two years the coaches at the High School have had trouble in getting some of the best athletes out for work. In many cases it was pure laziness; in others it was petty jealousies. It is believed that the boys will forget these things and all turn out for athletics when they know they have to.

The students believe that it will increase interest in all lines of sport and that the student body as a whole will support the games better.

A Little Fat.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—With one week more to go Packy McFarland is rapidly rounding into shape at Brighton Beach for his ten-round session with Mike Gibbons on September 11. Considering his long absence from the ring, McFarland appears to be in good condition. There is little doubt that he will be able to go ten rounds at a high rate of speed.

PERFECT ATHLETE.

Although weighing over 150 pounds, he still looks the perfect athlete. There is nothing of the overfed lightweight about him. At 147 pounds—the notch he must make for the bout—he will not be carrying any excess baggage. His growth is simply the result of a general broadening of his frame.

Still, there is no doubt that he would have been better off if he could have taken part in a few bouts before the big test next week. While his figure is shapely enough, his muscles are just beginning to show through the layer of fat that has accumulated during his long period of idleness. McFarland himself appears to be very optimistic regarding his chances. The memory of the days when nobody could touch him still sticks in his mind. He fears Gibbons not at all.

EASILY.

Mike Gibbons is taking his training very easily. The weight came off too fast during the first few days and he was in danger of going stale. So now he is underworking, intending to make a grand-stand finish of his training and to come down to weight in two days.

The chief physical advantages will be with Gibbons. In height and in reach Gibbons has the call. He is two inches taller than Packy and his reach is three inches longer. About the body, particularly the chest and waist, Packy is bigger than Mike. Their measurements are as follows:

Gibbons.		McFarland.
5ft. 9in.	height	5ft. 7in.

KILTIES TRIM MOTOR SOLDIERS IN OPENER.

WITH TEN points to spare, the Los Angeles Scottish defeated the Motor Reserve on the Glendale rifle range yesterday.

The markmanship of the "Kilties" was consistent throughout the match. The Scotchmen led all the way.

While the shooting of the Scottish was somewhat of a surprise, the Motor Reserve did not shoot up to form. In the practice match held after the inaugural dual shoot, the Motor Reserve shooters piled up some excellent scores and some of the poor work against the Scotchmen was attributed to nervousness.

HIGH SCORE.

Capt. McReynolds of the Scottish, who is also captain of the rifle team, slipped one over on the gasoline soldiers yesterday. The Scotchmen arrived at the range early in a fleet of Fords. The men were lined up and given about an hour of practice before the automobile gunners arrived.

Capt. McReynolds started the match with a total of twenty-three, the high score of the day. E. D. Neff, team captain for the Reserves, put a few ragged shots over before he got sighted and his score was twenty-two. But to show that he was really able to shoot, Neff put five straight bull's eyes through for exhibition purposes after his official score had been made.

B. L. Graves, manager of the local Ford branch, failed to shoot true to form, making but twenty-one when he was counted on for a twenty-five. Kampmeyer of the Firestone tire house, contributed to the deficiency with a twenty, when he was due for at least three more points, and Le Roy Jones of the Ensign Carburetor concern put in a thirteen.

MISSES.

Thrush of the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company also shot a thirteen and Firestone Smith further contributed to the team's unsuccess with a nine. Smith started off well with a hit then shot two holes in the wrong target which cost him the sum of ten points. Thrush also took the liberty of shooting on the Scottish target and lost a perfectly good chance at five points.

While the Reserves were hitting and missing, mostly missing, the "Kilties" were piling up a steady increase in the batting average column. Dr. Campbell fell one behind McReynolds, Dr. Thompson did as well. Boelme also made a twenty-one with Blair and McFarland finishing off with twenties, McKinnon, the second alternate, shot an eighteen score.

AH, AFTER.

After the match, the Scotchmen departed, leaving the range to the Reserves and members of the crack Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club team who had volunteered to act as instructors. Before leaving the range, Firestone Smith had put over a twenty-two, Kampmeyer had tied B. L. Graves's score of the morning and Thrush had raised his thirteen to twenty.

Lieut. Clark of the Maxwell agency, showed up late and after a few practice shots under the instruction of Bob Frazer scored a twenty-three, tying the high score of the match, made by Capt. McReynolds.

For their first match, both teams did well. The Reserves are going into the rifle work for real business purposes and some excellent riflemen will undoubtedly be developed within a short time.

The next shoot planned by the Motor Reserve is a match with the officers of the local National Guard organizations.

TWO JAPANESE WRESTLERS GET SORE AND THROW SALT.

JAPANESE wrestlers seldom lose their temper. When they do, it's worth going a thousand miles to see the excitement. And if a couple of champions really get sore at each other, the result is the funniest, most interesting and most blood-thirsty thing in the whole world.

Yesterday, the second day of the wrestling tournament, was featured by a wrathful exhibition on the part of two of the head-liners.

The trouble started in a very quiet way and ended with a terrible bang. Onishiyama and Hakushazan were indulging in an exhibition match, which was being specially staged for the edification of the crowd. Both men were in the ring and the umpire had given the signal to start the proceedings.

A SCRAP.

The preliminary stampings and hand shakings had been pulled off and the men were crouching and just about to spring. At the crucial moment, Hakushuzan, who was a very calm and collected guy, arose from his crouching posture and walked toward the water bucket.

Onishiyama, was so disgusted at this false start that he rushed at his opponent and planted a peppy kick where he thought it would do the most harm. The recipient of this favor turned around and knocked his fellow wrestler cold.

None of this was according to the rules of wrestling etiquette and the umpire bursted into the middle of the fracas and made the heroes cut it out. The second grapple was started and everyone thought the excitement was over. But it was just beginning.

Hakushazan walked to his corner of the ring and took a wrathful drink. Then, instead of taking a pinch of salt to throw into the ring, he took a handful and cast it in his opponent's face and eyes. From here on the action was fast and continuous.

They pounded each other as hard as they could. Then they tumbled out of the ring and into the grand stand. Finally some of the other wrestlers interfered and the battle royal was ended. It was certainly great stuff while it lasted.

Fourteen real bouts were scheduled yesterday and a great deal of practice work was run off.

The contests, as a rule, were much better than those on the first day. The men all seemed to be a little bit sore and this improved the matches about 100 per cent. Three or four times the umpire had to interfere and once it took the entire troupe to quell the riot.

THE CHAMP.

Umegatani, the champion wrestler of Japan, came out with his 400 odd pounds of avoirdupois and knocked a few of his hired help flat on their backs. The men consider it an honor to be thrown by the champion and they stand in line while this honor is conferred upon them.

Wakanoura, the local hope, was put out of the ring twice in succession. He tried to put up a noble tussle but that's about as far as it got. Wakanoura has not had the experience of the champions and he is slightly short on the weight proposition.

The complete results of yesterday's contests follow:

Tazimayama beat Sanukiyama, 2 throws out of 3, Satsuhuzan beat Onishiyma, 2 out of 3, Kinriu beat Wakanoura, 2 straight; Onishiyma beat Hakushazan, 2 out of 3; Chinzeizen beat Edosakura, 2 out of 3.

Del Monte Golf.

SCHMIDT HAS LOWEST SCORE.

Armstrong and Hayne are the Second Men.

Davis and Neville Improve Their Games.

Jevne Must go up Against Great Heinrich.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.
[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEL MONTE (Cal.) Sept. 5.—Heinrich Schmidt of San Francisco is the winner of the thirty-six hole qualifying round for the coast championship with 144, two consistent 72's, four consistent 36's. More German efficiency—scientific, deadly putting at almost every hole, an amazing ability to recover from disaster, just a bit of a boy in age and size, early to bed, early to rise, and malted milk. At the sixteenth he had a 4 and a 3 to make for a 53, and Armstrong, who was leading until then, with two admirable 73's, was 146. So Heiny took his leisurely ease and no risks, but attained that 3 at punch bowl and that 4 at the eighteenth nevertheless. He and Jack Jevne had all the gallery, and one of such dazzling and multitudinous dimensions that a Vardon or a Harold Hilton would have envied.

Jack Jevne, the southern man, improved his score by two strokes and got a 79. But Armstrong, who takes second place, is going very strong and is still first favorite with the southern contingent imperturbable and confident. Robin Hayne, the northern champion, is third with another 146, likewise two neat 73's wherefore we are witnessing some superlative golf these days.

HOLDING OWN.

Our southern men are holding their own most creditably. Everett Seaver made a 74 today, four strokes better than his first round, giving him 154. A. A. French is playing to standard, although he had a cruel 8 at the fourteenth, which discounted a brilliant 3 at the seventh and entailed a total 80 for the second round, making him 155. But that was sheer hard luck and was redeemed morally with a row of 4's afterwards.

Harry B. K. Davis, holder of the title, saw a return to grace (recovered with a return to knee breeches in place of trousers) and made a 74—total, 154. Dr. Eaves of the north also has 154.

George Cline of San Gabriel is giving that coy club a show. He improved his score a stroke to 78 and gets 155. Excellent on the short game, but less strong from the tees.

This ties Jack Neville's score of 155, that star favorite having improved his score by three strokes, a 76 for the second round. Sighs of infinite relief and hope from unnumerable beauteous maidens.

LIKEWISE.

Bill Campbell of Virginia is likewise justifying the gentleman who bought him for $80 in the pool. He improved his round by five strokes and shimmers near the head of the list with 167—and a very sunblistered countenance. Robin Skelley keeps Riverside in happy countenance with 153—and wins the best net prize with 142, thus blasting the hopes of Henry W. Taft, Presidential brother, and Edward B. Tuttle of Los Angeles, who had tied him for the best net in the first round. The Tuttian sigh is a massive thing. He lost three strokes to the first nine and never recovered them. But he will figure well up in the championship flight with 162.

Morris Phillips of Redlands lost a stroke today and will figure in the first flight with 159. Vincent Whitney of Burlingame had another 79, total 158. Roger Lapham dropped eight strokes and got a 77, total 162. Arthur Braly of Midwick is only three strokes behind brother-in-law, fierce rival, with 163. Awed respect obvious in Braly, Jr., age 11, who is the most observant and discriminating of golf fans.

NO BLUSHES.

Walker Salisbury and Conde Jones, Riverside and Midwick, respectively, will be in the first flight with 166. Which means that a good half of the championship flight will be southern and we can reserve our blushes. Hitherto, alas, the southern has distinguished itself rather in the department of bon vivant than golf, but the barometer is rising for us.

It is interesting to note that in a match play contest, Armstrong would have defeated Heiny Schmidt by 1 up in the thirty-six holes on their comparative scores.

CLIFF HERD HAS HARD TIME BEATING M'CORMICK.

THE second day's play of the first annual city tennis tournament held on the Exposition Park courts yesterday brought out some of the finest exhibitions of tennis ever seen in the city. The meeting of Cliff Herd and Ed McCormick in the third round of play proved to be the sensation of the day. Cliff Herd finally came off the victor, 12-10, 6-4.

Ed McCormick, former Los Angeles High star and runner-up in the national interscholastic singles in 1914, earned the right to meet Cliff Herd by his defeat of P. E. Jones in the second round of play.

SEE-SAW.

The first act was featured by the terrific serves of Cliff Herd and the smashing drives and brilliant returns of both players. Each player won his serve up to seven all, when Cliff Herd broke through McCormick's service. At this point every one conceded Herd the set, but McCormick came back and again tied the score by taking Herd's service. The games went with the service again until ten all, when Herd took McCormick's service and finally annexed the set by winning his own service. Cliff took the second set by again winning McCormick's and his own services after the score stood four all.

The only upset of the day came in the men's doubles when P. E. Jones and W. Jones trounced P. Hardeman and H. Weller, 6-1, 6-1.

RALPH WINS.

R. C. Noble won his way into the fourth round by his defeat of P. Hardeman after three hard sets of play, 5-7, 7-5, 6-0. In the meantime Harvey Snodgrass, the Manual Arts player to down Houston Peterson in the Long Beach tournament, came into the fourth round by taking the measure of B. H. Granas, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

Following are the results of the day's play:

Men's singles, second round: E. McCormick defeated P. E. Jones, 6-4, 6-4; C. B. Herd defeated J. H. Freese, 6-3, 6-3; F. Mielding defeated H. Weller by default; C. B. Kniemeyer defeated W. Jones, 9-7, 6-3; E. A. Warren defeated D. J. Witmer by default; P. R. Reed defeated A. Snodgrass, 6-4, 6-1; V. Dixon defeated C. Barker, 5-7, 8-6, 6-3; R. Sindorf defeated C. Wesley by default; W. L. Eddie Collins's Error Costs a Shutout.

White Sox Lose First Game Six to Nothing.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Ed Walsh made his second appearance of the season on the pitching mound today and defeated Cleveland, 4 to 2, in the second game of a double-header, the visitors blanking the locals in the initial contest, 6 to 0. Walsh allowed his opponents five scattered hits and undoubtedly would have shut them out had Eddie Collins handled Carter's grounder cleanly. He had a perfect double play in sight, but his fumble paved the way for two runs. Scores:

BREAK EVEN WITH SEALS IN DOUBLE-HEADER.

Morning Affair Close Call for Portland—Wolverton Hits into Double Play with Bases Full and Only One Man Out—Steen Appears in San Francisco Uniform and Wins.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Portland and San Francisco split even in today's double-header, the Beavers winning the morning game, 1 to 0, and the Seals taking the afternoon encounter, 3 to 2. There will be two more games tomorrow in the present series, of which the Seals have won six out of seven. The morning game today was a close call for the Beavers.

In the ninth, the Seals had three men on bases with one man out when Wolverton hit into a double play. In the afternoon Steen, the new pitcher from Detroit, pitched his first full game. The scores:

CLARKE KNOCKS OUT BAT ORTEGA.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—A swift left hook to the solar plexus, followed by a right cross to the jaw delivered by Jack Clarke of Los Angeles put Batting Ortega, also of the Angel city, down for the count in the tenth round of what was scheduled to be a twenty-round battle this afternoon at Tia Juana, Mex. Only a handful of fans saw the fight.

From the tap of the gong in the opening round until Referee Billy McMahon held up Clarke's hand, the fighting was fast and furious. Clarke was about seven pounds heavier than the Mexican boy, who tipped the scales at 146. The advantage in weight showed at all times. Ortega forced the battle, being the aggressor in every round but the last when his strength failed him.

Mexican Mike Galindo from the U.S.S. Colorado and "Wildcat" Leicke of the U. S. Marines, will mix in a 20-round go tomorrow afternoon in the Mexican town. The boys will weigh in at noon to fight at 133 pounds.

James Simpson of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club has entered his twenty-six-foot Peter Pan Seven in the power boat regatta of the Associated Yacht and Power Boat Clubs of America, to be held in Chicago August 28 to September 4. The entry by the Toronto sportsman will be the first time a Canadian speedboat has tried for the Wrigley trophy.

DES MOINES WINS FLAG.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SIOUX CITY (Iowa) Sept. 5.—Des Moines won the Western League championship by defeating Sioux City in the second game of a double-header here today, 3 to 0. Des Moines lost the first contest. The new champions have headed the league since the middle of last June with the exception of one day in August, when Denver held first place.

MAJOR LEAGUES REACH CRUCIAL BASEBALL WEE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. — Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn remain the chief factors in the National League race, with the Phillies still in the lead by approximately as many points as they were a week ago, while the Braves are coming strong and the Superbas failing to hold their own.

In the American League, Boston and Detroit are virtually the only contenders, the chances of the White Sox being almost at the vanishing point. By taking a double-header today from St. Louis, Detroit decreased Boston's lead.

The next week may witness a virtual decision of the struggle in both leagues.

Pat Moran's men were slightly outscored by their opponents during the week, and yet they managed to win more than half of their games and picked up a few percentage points. Boston and Brooklyn fought for second place and the Braves won the position by a single point. Wilbur Cooper's fighting clan won four of its games and despite the absence of Johnny Evers, is playing an active game.

American League honors, at some time past, fell to the Chicago Cerrigan's men did not lose a game, winning all five, Saturday, their eighth straight victory.

Detroit also is hitting the ball hard, but is not getting the breaks of pitching with which other teams are favored. Washington is pretty well disposed of in the race, chances by beating the White Sox three straight games in the Chicago series, and make the race more of a two-team affair. By their showing against St. Louis they have improved appreciably on the leaders.

Pittsburgh continues to hold a lead in the Federal League, but Newark is still close up, with St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago not far behind.

HARRY PATTEE IS WINNER OF CUP.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 5.—H. Gordon Pattee of Riverside, a guest of the Hotel Virginia, yesterday won the Gardner cup for the selected score of the season in golf over the Virginia Country Club course. Pattee chose the score of 53 before starting the rounds, and made it, thus winning the handsome cup set aside for the accomplishment. Practically all the members of the Virginia club have been striving for the prize the past couple of months.

Col. F. D. Gardner of St. Louis, who spends his summers in Long Beach each year, announced this season that he would award cups for the [illegible] of a selected score, best [illegible] both men and women, kicker's cup for men, best gross [illegible] best net score over a course of holes for women. The contest for these honors have been in progress for several weeks. Manager [illegible] of the Hotel Virginia announced that the cups had been awarded the following:

Selected score, H. Gordon Pattee, Riverside; kicker's handicap, I. H. Sample of Chicago; best gross score for men, Dr. Selby of Long Beach; best net score over course for women, Mrs. Arthur [illegible] Colorado Springs, Colo.; putting contest for men, A. M. Goodhue of Long Beach; putting contest for women, Miss Ruth Craig of Long Beach, after tieing four times with Mrs. M. Goodhue, also of Long Beach.

DILLON AND WHITE YANK PITCHERS WITH IMPUNITY.

Close Games Result in Prodigal Use of Pitchers. None of the Vernon Mound Artists Who Started Finished, While Ryan and Brant Alone Went the Route for Angels—Players Say Fans Disloyal.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

YANKING the gay and festive pitcher is becoming the favorite outdoor sport of our managers. The present crucial series has seen nine changes in the box, and it is not over yet. Doc made seventeen of those changes, and Pa fourteen. Figures go to show how keen the games are to win when it comes to a race between the two southern clubs. Aside from the morning game yesterday, the hitting has not been particularly severe, and yet two heavers in each side per game was about the average. Inability to get the pill over was responsible for several defeats. Both Dillon and White used their pitchers at the slightest sign of weakening. Neither staff was overly right. Some of the first-string men showed signs of overwork, while several of the others lacked the confidence and control that they would have possessed had they been used regularly. Each club is carrying eight experienced heavers, none of whom have not been started recently enough of late to have any confidence or control.

Ryan and Brant were the only Angel hurlers to go the full route. Dillon did not start a man who finished.

The frequent box changes were due in measure to the closeness of the games. The use of two or three pitchers in a single inning became such a common sight that the fans did not marvel. In some cases, one walk was deemed sufficient excuse to yank a good-meaning heaver, while two hits in a row was frequently fatal. Mere-by-time stuff applied to the Coast league.

Aside from yesterday's home-run festival, there was no riot of hitting, the run-getting was out of proportion to the swatting. The clubs averaged approximately one run on every a fraction hits. A lot of the scoring was done when hits meant nothing, and that was another thing that kept the pitchers so much mental wreck.

Furthermore, the fielding was hard-hitting stuff. Several of the athletes failed to crack under the strain of close contests, and at least three of the games were decided on misplays.

Vernon made twenty-seven runs on twenty-seven hits, while the Angels made twenty-seven hits stand for twenty runs. Here is the team batting for the week:

Interesting Percentage.

As predicted, the series between the Senators and Tigers, while intensely interesting from the standpoint of the fans, was a sour dose from a percentage standpoint. With the two southern clubs playing each other practically to a standstill, San Francisco made the most of the great opportunity and whaled the wadding out of the Bearers. In this way the Seals not only wrested the lead from the Tigers, but drew further away from Salt Lake. Salt Lake profited materially at the expense of the Tigers, and the Bees can no longer be counted as a first division impossibility. They and the Tigers will battle it out this week while the Angels and Seals are engaged in a life and death struggle here, starting tomorrow. The next seven days will be a most important, and possibly heart-breaking, on the pennant race.

Still Tilt.

Additionally, the players of both these clubs are in the slough of despond over the support accorded them in financial support, but the moral support. The attendance has been fine, but the loyalty has lagged. Several of the fans seem to have paid their way at the gate, mainly to watch the rookies from the north and let out the call for San Francisco. This is especially noticeable, or audible, at times. Every run chalked up for Frisco was cheered to a finish. There was not lost on the players of the Los Angeles and Vernon teams, and it was a heartsick lot at the end of the series.

Some of the southern clubs are putting up a wonderful fight — not for the fans, for their salaries go on the same, win or lose — but to cop a pennant south. Each game is a demonstration of gameness in another. That southern fandom should be divided in their affections between the Tigers and the Angels is not surprising, but that any of them should pull for San Francisco over the two, can only be explained on the theory that some of the fans are suffering from an excess of pile. Or, perchance, they have recently moved here from the north. Our athletes are deserving of better treatment. That is, maintain a stiff upper lip under the circumstances is surprising.

A lot of us will go out of our way to boost for San Francisco's exposition. But to live here and root for San Francisco's ball team is unfair, unjust, unpatriotic and not according to the rules of good citizenship. Sell your hammer and buy a horn. There's all kinds of room in the band wagon.

Billy.

Billy Purtell, while he didn't get into the home run column and was therefore a little out of style, made up for it in other directions. In four times at bat in the morning he hacked off three singles and a double.

Weakness.

Slug Garner played his second full game with the Angels in the morning, and was there a million against right-handers. He faced Johnson twice and on each occasion came through with a clean hit. With the switch to Decanniere he could do nothing, and in the eighth Dillon yanked him to let Meazer try his hand at pinch-hitting. Plainly, Garner's weakness is southpaws. In the fifth inning, the kid backed away from three called strikes by White, sitting down with some force on the last one in his haste to get away. Being a mere boy, there is plenty of time for him to learn how to spank southpaws. He certainly looks like a bear against right-handers.

Some Utility.

When speaking of utility men, don't overlook this Buemiller party. Al is neither flashy nor spectacular, but he is a mighty good ball player. He may not appear in the base hit column as often as some of our chronic sluggers, still when he does land, it is hard and clean. He also has a good happy faculty of getting on by other means. Yesterday he cracked out a home run and two singles, walked once, reached first on an error, managed to get hit by a pitched ball and stole two bases. When Buemiller's work is closely analyzed from day to day, he is found to be a much more valuable player than the casual observer would think. He has been handicapped because forced to play the utility role, which is something new for him. The more we see of Buemiller the more we esteem him as a player of genuine solid worth.

Not Alone.

Chief Bender is not alone in his sorrow. The Federal League is swinging the ax with vim and vigor, and Bender is but one of several to get it where the larnyx is located. Many figured that the Chief no longer backed by the heavy attack of the Athletics, would have a hard time getting by in his new surroundings. Such seems to have been the case. In addition to the Indian, Baltimore has canned Swacina and Jacklitsch, which, considering their names, considerably lightens the work of the score keeper. Jimmy Walsh also might have found himself out in the intense cold had not St. Louis taken over his Baltimore contract. Buffalo recently coupled the hardware to Russell Ford, Ed Lafitte, Charley McDonald and Arthur Watson. Ford asked for another chance, and re-signed at a salary said to be about half of the original. However, he couldn't cut the mustard, and was again thrown on his own resources. When the powers that be put the emery ball out of circulation they also put Ford out of business.

All Star Team.

Harry Cleveland has become infected with the all star bug, and submits the following as one of the strongest teams which could be selected from any of the fast minors:

Hellman, first base; McMullen, second base; Bates, third base; Terry, shortstop; Johnston, left field; Maggert, center field; Wolter, right field; Boles and Schmidt, catchers; Love, C. Williams, Ryan, Fanning and Prough, pitchers; Risberg and Corhan, utility.

Umpire Rigler of the National League staff explains some points regarding his work, which will no doubt surprise many baseball fans. One was that the fans were mostly mistaken about how the umpire judged balls and strikes. The general impression among those who have not tried their eyes at umpiring, and who have not been coached by competent instructors, is that the official watches the ball with infinite care from the time it leaves the pitcher's hand until it reaches the catcher's glove. Good umpires do no such thing. They are naturally in position to look at the shoot all the time, but they do not begin to "work" on a pitch until it is a comparatively short distance from the plate. When the ball starts from the pitcher's hand the umpire is not looking up but down. He is watching the feet of the pitcher to see that he does not violate the rule about stepping off the rubber.

MATRIMONIAL LEAP ON ROLLER SKATES.

TWENTY COUPLES RESPOND TO CALL FOR ROLLER WEDDING.

The thought of taking the matrimonial leap on roller skates is an attractive one to the youthful mind, for more than twenty couples have responded to the call issued by President W. F. Norton of the Roller Skaters' Association of Southern California for a pair of lovers to be wedded on the little wooden wheels.

Norton plans to stage the wedding at the Broadway Rink about the middle of this month, and will select from the number of applicants the most desirable couple.

He now seeks a minister or justice of the peace, who will perform the ceremony on the rollers, as well as a little flower girl to strew rose petals in the path of the contracting parties. It is Norton's intention to have the entire bridal party on skates. The association has offered the minister's fee, the license, the ring, and an nucleus on house furnishing to the couple to wed at the rink.

Suggestion is made that persons of means bequeath parts of their fortunes for road construction by T. F. Clavadatscher, Baraboo, Wis., who holds that money appropriated to good roads work is a lasting memorial.

Batting Averages.

BUNNY BRIEF IS STILL HITTING AT HIGH CLIP.

Continues to Bat Over .400 Mark Since Entering the League — Sick Man Heilman Still the Real Leader. Wolter Drops a Little—Wilhoit Only Tiger Among the Heavy Hitters.

BUNNY BRIEF has come mighty near to earning the right to be called the leading slugger of the Pacific Coast League. He is hitting .411 and has been going that way ever since he joined Salt Lake. He has been playing regular, too. The fact that he came to Salt Lake late in the season is the only mark against him.

Sick Man Heilman continues in his most enviable position of leading slugger. That other demon, Wolter, went to bat once this week with the result that he dropped a niche or two.

Wilhoit still enjoys the distinction of being the only Tiger pickling the pill over the .300 mark. His average is .320. The other Vernon batters run away down. In fact, their hitting is nothing to brag about at all.

DOVES PLENTIFUL NEAR BAKERSFIELD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 5.—Local sportsmen have taken full advantage of the opening of the dove season and have been out in all directions the past three days. They report doves more plentiful than for years and each hunter has brought in the limit of fifteen after a short time along the roads or in the fields.

Deer hunters continue to come down from their trips to the Sierras and all relate tales of good sport. A party of four returning this morning brought four bucks.

TROUT SHOW UP FROM HATCHERY.

SIXTY THOUSAND FISH WILL BE PLANTED IN STREAMS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 5.—Sixty thousand Loch Levin trout arrived here this morning from the State fish hatchery and were taken in charge by officials of the Porterville Fish and Game Protective Association and the Tule River Fishing and Hunting Association for distribution to the mountain streams. During the summer summer months the club representatives have mapped the streams where fry are needed and there will be no delay in planting out the fish.

PIRATES HAMMER CUB HURLERS, 13-2.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Pittsburgh hammered Chicago's pitchers for a 13 to 2 victory here today. Honus Wagner led the attack with a home run, double and two singles and every man on the team made at least one hit. Zabel replaced Adams in the sixth but was hit freely. Score:

OAKS SHUT OUT BY SALT LAKE.

SALT LAKE (Utah) Sept. 5.—Oakland was held scoreless today by Salt Lake because of the inability of the visitors to solve Pitcher Hall's delivery. The score was 6 to 0. A home run by Ryan, followed by another by Gedeon in the fifth were features of the game. Prough was hard hit at times and was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Score:

AT THE STAGE DOOR

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Just sixteen years ago last Friday, a boy manager, named Oliver Morosco, opened the Burbank Theater with "Madame Sans Gene," with T. Daniel Frawley as the stage director. The Burbank had suffered twelve failures when Morosco took it over. Billie Ervast, treasurer, and Harry S. Duffield of the present company, are officially the oldest inhabitants of the theater today.

Mad Hatter.

"Brer" Warnack reports having taken a joy ride with "Brer" Price, in the latter's new Buick, the other day. When he reached home he says he had a hard struggle deciding as to whether he'd buy a Buick or a new hat, but decided on the hat.

Sky the Limit.

De Wolf Hopper arrived in the city Saturday, and at once began work in pictures for the Triangle, under Griffith's direction. Hopper's first picture will be "Don Quixote."

Mr. Hopper claims he caught fire with enthusiasm for pictures after he beheld Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation." He will remain in California for a year, receiving $125,000 for his work.

Wrote It, D'Gosh.

Avery Hopwood, author of "Sadie Love," responded to eight curtain calls at the Burbank yesterday, with a clever little speech, which showed that he really was the author of all the epigrams in his play.

Anglin's New One.

Margaret Anglin has accepted a new play by Charles Phillips, a newspaper man of San Francisco. It is entitled, "The Divine Friend." The story is based on the Biblical story of Mary Magdalen. It is written in blank verse.

Hello, Jack.

J. Warren Kerrigan has been restored to health by his sojourn at Lake Tahoe, and will return to Universal within two weeks. He is at present working in the title role of a two-reel story by Neil Shipman, entitled, "The Troubadour of Eldorado."

Dancers "Film."

Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven have just finished a five-reel picture for the "U," entitled "At Watt College." William C. Dowlan directed.

Dusty Films Again.

Diamond Dust.

Baseball honors in and about Los Angeles are sought by the Ruth Roland Stars. This team is composed of the young admirers of the Balboa motion-picture favorite. When she heard of the boys' devotion, Miss Roland provided them with suits. Proudly they wear her name across their shirt fronts.

Whenever she has a day off at the studio Miss Roland motors to the diamond where her proteges are playing. That she's a mascot is proved by the fact that they have never lost a game in her presence.

As the Kentuckian knows good horse flesh, so Miss Roland can tell a real ball player. She predicts that some of the Ruth Roland Stars are destined to shine in the big leagues.

Just Like That.

Dorothy Wahl, appearing with Stewart Jackson at the Orpheum in songs, dances and pianalogues, and who plays ragtime so well, rattles the ivories entirely by ear. Miss Wahl also composes her own songs.

Likes the Chug-Chug.

Margaret Anglin, who will appear next week at the Mason in her big comedy success, "Beverly's Balance," will motor from San Francisco to this city.

Not Yet.

Margaret Anglin has had a score or more offers, 'tis said, to enter the moving picture realm, the biggest being a $50,000 one for three films. She has steadfastly refused.

Miss Anglin has a proposition to tour Australia next year, and is strongly considering accepting.

Charlie as a "Brow."

The picture "Shanghaied," which Charlie Chaplin is doing for the Essanay, promises to give the comedian a chance to display his real dramatic ability. The photoplay is said to be more "human" in quality that heretofore.

Petite Anecte.

Anita Loos, the smallest and youngest scenario writer in captivity, who is engaged in writing photoplays for the Griffith players, and who has several vaudeville acts to her credit, is entering into negotiations with Mary Louise Dyer, of Allen Dinehart's "Meanest Man in the World" company, to write a sketch for the actress. Miss Dyer contemplates putting it on in vaudeville next season.

At the Three-quarters.

Ah, Thank Heaven.

Muss Up Fight Record.

Forrest Stanley as "hero" has throttled Howard Davies as "villain" so often of late at the Oliver Morosco studio, that the latter felt he was losing prestige with Dressingroom Row. Having starred in his day for Cambridge against Oxford in many a cricket and football match, the young English actor determined to train back into trim and vindicate himself against Stanley, the next time a director had them meet.

Word of Davies's road work, however, reached Stanley, who immediately started training at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, with a professional wrestler as training partner. Naturally, then, they were as fit as two young lions on a raw-meat diet when they toed the scratch for the especially stiff set-to called for in "The Yankee Girl," Blanche Ring's picture.

The scene soon transcended mere acting, and before the two lion hearts were finally disengaged, Davies was growling something about "Forrest butting," and Stanley was appealing to Charlie Eyton, the noted referee, against "Howard getting strangleholds." The camera got a splendid picture, but Messrs. Stanley and Davies have since got together and decided not to try to put any crimps in Messrs. Freddie Welsh and Willie Ritchie.

Jane's Film Family.

Jane Grey, noted eastern actress, will appear in Lee McConville's "A Mother of Nine," for the Triangle, with Tully Marshall playing opposite her. The "nine" include the Kid Company.

Double Trouble.

Bobby and Mae.

Some Show.

A meeting of the General Committee on Moving Picture Day at the San Diego exposition September 11 has been called by H. F. McGarvie. It is to be held at the Hotel Alexandria on Friday evening, at 8:30, to discuss the general plans for the entertainment of the crowds which are expected to swarm to the Southern fair to see the stars of filmdom at close range.

As the committeemen are the representatives of all of the big producing firms of Southern California, and all are expected to have suggestions to offer, the result should be a programme that will startle the most blase amusement seeker. One organization, the Balboa Amusement Company, already has made its contribution in the form of the entire "Neal of the Navy" company, including Director Harvey, Lillian Lorraine, William Courtleigh, Jr., William Conklin, Charles Dudley, Henry Stanley, Edwin J. Brady, Ruth Lackaye, Bruce Randall, the Brotherton children and others.

This entire company, with the Marines stationed at San Diego to help, and the entire multitude as a background, will take one of the scenes of a big twenty-eight reel photoplay. And as this big photodrama will be featured all over the world, it will be like writing a letter home for all of those who happen to be within the focus of the camera.

Noted Guests.

Hon. John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American Union, was a guest at the "Mission Play" yesterday afternoon. Ex-Gov. Slaton of Georgia will attend this afternoon.

Peach Basket.

Attractive little ingenue.

Louise Grassler, who is appearing in "Omar the Tent-maker," famous success in which Guy Bates Post is starring this week at the Majestic.

Tigers Take Two.

This looked pretty good from Pa's standpoint, but there was a change for the worse. In the fifth, Jack Ryan, who was not feeling any too well to start with, began to crumble, and there wasn't much of the proud lead left at the end of the round. Two walks, a double by Risberg and a single by Wilhoit put one across with no one out. Thus did Poll Perritt become the unfortunate heir of a base-full proposition. Poll looked about as happy as a poor guy who suddenly finds himself with triplets on his hands. It was impossible for him to retire the side until two of the blokes on bases had scored, which left the Tigers on the short end of a 4-to-2 count.

Things dwindled along on this basis until the eighth, when Poll emitted a fatal pass to Gleichmann. Berger sacrificed, Mitze singled and the count was even up.

In the ninth, Risberg almost repeated his home run of Saturday, but could only stretch it into a triple. Two were out, and Bayless fanned.

AN EYEBROW.

Hari Maggert, mainly by his own unaided efforts, came within an eyebrow of ending the affair within the regulation time. He started the fag end of the ninth by chopping a single over second. McMullen sacrificed him to second. Maggert here moved boldly, making a clean steal of third. This put him in a position to score on a fly to the outfield. Ellis was not equal to the emergency, popping to Risberg between second and first. This made the second out, and Maggert, taking a dying chance, lit out for the plate. The Swede was not in a position to throw when he made the catch, and the ball barely beat Mag to the plate. It was the right play for Maggert to pull, even if it didn't go through.

Wilhoit whammed out a double by way of starting the tenth. Purtell sacrificed, and Gleichmann popped to Buemiller. Poll was just beginning to see his way clear when Berger blazed a single to center, sending Joe across with what proved to be the winning run.

At this point, Earl Houck, the singing undertaker, offered to furnish a bottle of embalming fluid for Poll's arm. Another guy accused Houck of playing favorites, and suggested that he furnish a couple of gallons so that there would be enough to go all around.

THAT CLOSE PLAY.

Beef Koerner threw a chill into the Tigers by opening the final assault with a single. Boles, batting for Garner, sacrificed him to second. Buemiller cut in with a sharp single to left. Koerner, rounding third, was lashed along to the plate by the coacher. Doane fielded cleanly. Back of the sweep of his arm there was every ounce of his strength, and a prayer on his lips. The ball came in as true as a bullet, and shot into Mitze's glove as Koerner crashed across the plate. Finney brushed away the last hope of the Angels with one sweep of his arm. He had called the runner out on a decision which was so close that the crowd was on its feet. No difference how he had called it the crowd would have made a noise like an interrogation mark. Dillon was quite wild. He believed that Finney had called the wrong turn, and made his decision before the play was actually completed. The fact that Pa was sent to the clubhouse did not serve to change his mind. Brooks walked, and Butler drove to Purtell, who toed third for a forceout. Several hundred gents who felt that they had been deeply wronged swarmed down from the right-field bleachers, after the game, but Ed, being a law-abiding citizen, went straight to the dressing room and donned his store clothes the same as if nothing had happened.

If any guy was squatting outside the Vernon fence peering through a knot hole, he probably beat it to cover about the fourth inning when baseballs began to splatter around him. Six homers, and all after the third inning made it unsafe to be outside the park. Those addicted to peering through knot holes should profit by yesterday's narrow escape.

In a combat that ran almost to homers, three on each side, Honus Mitze stood out as the man of the hour, and it takes some athlete to shine above his fellows in a game where circuit swats are as common as potatoes in a hill. A lot of guys are tickled to death if they get two home runs in a season. Not so with Mitze. He is satisfied with nothing less than two in one forenoon. Otherwise, he might not digest his breakfast, and would suffer from a sour stomach in the afternoon. The great Honus tied the score by knocking the ball out of the lot in the sixth, and won it with the same kind of a blow in the eighth, driving Berger in ahead of himself.

Ellis Johnson and Johnny Williams established themselves as the leading home run pitchers of the league. Not only did each make a homer himself, but Williams got hit for three and Johnson for two.

McMullen's juggle of Wilhoit's drive in the second paved the way for two runs. Purtell followed with a single, and the next two men were outs. Love passed Mitze purposely, filling the bases. Having got the habit, he walked Johnson because he couldn't help it, forcing in a run. Rader's single scored another. A brace of singles, a walk and Bassler's error produced another in the third. Williams took hold in the third, and Johnson put the ball over the fence with nobody out.

Blanked in the first three rounds, the Angels broke loose and tied the score with a couple of homers and a few other things in the fourth. Ellis walked with one out, and Koerner put the ball over the fence. Garner then singled, and Buemiller came through with another homer, driving the ball to the new clubhouse in deep center, tying the count. The next two batters remained dormant.

Decanniere took up the white man's burden in the fifth, and Williams whammed the first ball pitched outside of the corporation. Mitze tied the count with the same kind of a swat in the sixth, and then repeated with Berger on second in the eighth. Hits by Boles and Brooks and an error by Risberg gave the Angels one run in the ninth, which was not enough. The scores:

WHALES WALLOP PACKERS, 6 TO 1

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 6.—Chicago evened up the series with Kansas City by winning 6 to 1 victory today in their last appearance here this season. Four scoreless and one-third innings the locals had Brown's delivery before a hit was recorded and in the meantime each Chicago player took at least one crack off Johnson. Score:

Chicago	6
Kansas City	1

PREPARING FOR HEAVY TRAFFIC.

Railroad Rebuilding Northend Freight Shed

In Anticipation of a Large Increase in Business

To Follow Lowering of the Broadway Tunnel Floor.

Anticipating a great increase in north end traffic and business generally following the lowering of the floor of the Broadway tunnel and the creation of a traffic grade from Temple street to Sunset boulevard, the Pacific Electric Company is reconstructing the former freight depot at the northwest corner of Sunset boulevard and North Broadway and converting it into business rooms.

This structure, which was erected about thirteen years ago by the Los Angeles Pacific Company, when it was under the control of Clark and Sherman, is 200x80 feet. The portion that is now under reconstruction is the southerly half, 150x80 feet. The contractors are Houghton & Anderson.

Brick walls are to take the place of the frame and plaster walls on the Sunset boulevard and North Broadway frontages. The side walls are amply lighted with a series of windows, and display windows will be placed in the frontages at the corner. There will be entrances from both streets.

There will be no change in the southerly 150 feet of the building, that portion will be used by the company for carrying mails. The southerly portion probably will be used for an inexpensive garage and some smaller businesses.

WHERE ARTERIES MEET.

Because of the change in grade of North Broadway, due to the lowering of the tunnel floor, and changes in Sunset boulevard, brought about by the improvement of the thoroughfare from Main to Marion streets, the floor of the freight structure was several feet below the new street level. Earth from the tunnel has been used to raise this floor and the adjacent lot space, and a heavy concrete flooring will be laid in this filling.

The corner will be right at the intersection of two great arteries of travel, as soon as the tunnel is reopened, and it is anticipated that a new business section will open up there.

Work on the tunnel lowering is progressing well. It was estimated yesterday that the task is practically 50 per cent. completed and that the major portion of the heavy excavation is done. The underpinning of the tunnel walls was completed last week. Three hundred cubic yards of extra concrete work was required to make up the deficiencies in depth of the foundations where the original walls were put in. This will cost $2240 in addition to the contract price.

Lean S. Atkinson is the contractor. His contract is for $194,800. In addition to this the awards for damages amounted to $36,646.75. The work is being done under the 1913 Act. The contractor was allowed 330 days within which to complete the work. It is probable it will be done by the first of the coming year.

EARTH FOUND USEFUL.

A force of about fifty men is employed on the task and there are twelve teams and a steam shovel at work. Although more than 25,000 cubic yards of earth must be excavated. The city found excellent use for about 6000 cubic yards of this by using it to fill in sections of Sycamore Grove that were washed out during the floods two years ago. Much has been used to fill up lots in the immediate vicinity and now the earth is being hauled to the yards of the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company. It is said to be excellent brick material.

While the excavation is in progress in the tunnel floor, a force of men are also working on the lowering of the sewer in California street, so that all may be in readiness for grading this street to its new level. The change that will take place may be judged by the fact that the new sewer is being placed twenty-nine feet below the present street surface.

While the ensuing two weeks the steam shovel work in the tunnel will be completed, and immediately thereafter the shovel will begin work on Broadway, at Temple street, moving northward to the tunnel portal, and then working westerly on California street. The result of all this work will be an easy traffic grade that it is expected will turn a great volume of travel through the Broadway tunnel and have a highly stimulating effect upon business in that vicinity.

UP FOR PENSIONS.

Veterans to Get Paid Within Two Weeks—No Deaths so far This Month.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Sept. 5.—Nearly 2700 veterans lined up at their several quarters yesterday to answer "present" at muster for the quarterly pension due September 4. Payment of the same will not be made for at least a fortnight.

The total membership of this home today is 2822, of which number there are present 2478, absent.

Not a death has occurred thus far this month, and but three within the week just ended, and it is an unusual record at this branch. Following are the deaths referred to:

James Conroy, formerly of Co. A, Hundredth Illinois Infantry, a native of Pennsylvania, admitted from Los Angeles in 1907, died August 30, aged 70.

John J. Martin, formerly of Co. G, Third Kentucky Cavalry, a native of Kentucky, admitted from Orange, Cal., in 1907, died August 31, aged 73.

Josiah W. Fuller, formerly of Co. —, Twenty-eighth Wisconsin Infantry, a native of New York, admitted from Los Angeles in 1897, died August 31, aged 84.

Fifteen Injured.

The party was about ten miles from Santa Ana, when in turning out to avoid another car, their machine bumped the rear wheel of the larger automobile, precipitating the Rademacker car into the ditch and overturning it. Mr. Rademacker, Sr., and Mrs. Rademacker, Jr., were badly hurt. Mrs. Schultz, one of the passengers, received a strained back, and Miss Helfmann, the other passenger, was severely bruised. Mr. Rademacker, Jr., who was driving, escaped injury.

The injured were taken to the Santa Ana Hospital by the occupants of the car with which they collided. Mr. Rademacker, Sr., who is 53 years old, is in a serious condition because of his advanced age.

GIRL'S LEG BROKEN.

While coming home early yesterday morning from Balboa, a small roadster, in which were riding six young persons, collided with a Crown Stage Company bus on Central avenue, East Newport. Miss Florence Farmer, a stenographer, living at No. 4481 East Thirty-eighth street, was riding on the dashboard of the roadster. Caught between the stage and the roadster, her right leg was broken and badly crushed before she could be extricated. She was taken to the home of Mrs. A. W. Crandall, near by, and treated by Dr. MacCoy of South Pasadena. Later she was removed to the hospital in Santa Ana. The other occupants of the roadster escaped injury.

GOES OVER BANK.

William T. Beck, son of D. A. Beck, No. 1033 Overton street, started out at 10 o'clock yesterday morning with his father's big touring car. He told his parents he would probably go to the beach for the day and might take some friends. That was the last his parents heard from him until late last night when they were told their son was injured and held by the Long Beach police, suspected of driving a car while intoxicated.

According to the conflicting stories told by the four other persons riding with Mr. Beck when the accident occurred, he had turned out while driving on the Long Beach road to let another machine pass. Mr. Beck turned too far, and the heavy touring car plunged over an embankment at the bridge near East Wilmington, almost on the spot where the Holmes family met death a few days ago. The machine turned over, crushing the occupants beneath it. All were first hurried to the Long Beach Hospital. Mr. Beck was later taken to police headquarters for examination. According to the police, he had been drinking.

FALLS FROM CAR.

J. Kemp, a Long Beach man, fell out of his light car while driving at Grand and Vista streets yesterday afternoon, and in so doing, turned the buggy over on him.

DROPS FIFTY FEET.

Lewis Butman of Whittier was severely injured when his automobile plunged over a fifty-foot embankment on the Cajon grade near Devore. Fortunately, his brother was driving a short distance behind in another machine and saw the accident. The injured man was taken to the San Bernardino Hospital, where it was said last night he will live. There were no other persons in Mr. Butman's machine.

MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT.

Stanley Davis, 13 years old, was injured last night while trying to coast on roller skates by holding to the rear of a passing motorcycle. When his hold failed him, he was thrown headfirst into the stone curbing.

ALSO A JITNEY.

A jitney bus, driven by R. H. Kent and operated between Redondo Beach and Los Angeles Harbor, disputed the right of way with a Pacific Electric car at Pacific avenue and Seventh street, Los Angeles Harbor, yesterday afternoon, injuring one passenger of the jitney, Miss Beatrice McKeever. Miss McKeever, who lives at the harbor, was cut deeply by a piece of flying glass. She was taken home and treated by a family physician. The jitney was smashed in many places, changing its aspect entirely.

CHURCH NEWSPAPER.

New Weekly Sheet at South Pasadena is Devoted Exclusively to Matters of Religion.

A weekly paper edited by South Pasadena church people in the interest of South Pasadena church has been started there by the Committee of One Hundred—an organization composed of from ten to twenty representatives of every church in that city.

The "Federated News" is the name of the new enterprise. Its aim is "to increase church attendance and arouse added interest in the work of the young people's societies, the Ladies' Aid organizations and the Y.M.C.A."

It makes no pretensions at being a "news" paper insofar as news of a general nature is concerned. It is purely a church organ and will publish each week "every scrap of news obtainable which has to do with the church and its membership."

While there are many religious papers in existence covering the news of sect organizations in stated districts, it is believed that South Pasadena is the first city of its size to publish a purely local church organ.

The Committee of One Hundred, backers of the project, was originally organized as the central body in charge of a fortnight's series of revival services held last spring. It has remained intact since that time and acts in the capacity of a local federated union of all churches.

Odd.

FATALLY HURT, HE SURPRISES THEM.

DOUBLE-JOINTED AND LIMBER AT SEVENTY-FIVE.

Doctors Believe Aged Victim of Automobile has Every Bone in Body Broken Until They Find Him Only One of the Kind on the Hospital Records.

Edward Phillips, 75 years old, who was struck by an automobile yesterday, and probably fatally injured, astounded the surgeons of the Receiving Hospital when they examined him after the accident. He is double-jointed, and so far as the physiological records of the city show, he is the only man to attain that age and still have joints of such flexibility.

When he was laid on the table, Surgeon Hart grasped his right ankle, to feel if it was injured. It gave under pressure. "Right ankle broken," he informed the man taking the history.

Then he reached the right knee. That, too, yielded to pressure.

The first examination had been hasty. The situation was so alarming Surgeon Hart made the second survey. Then he learned that every joint was double, bending in any direction desired.

Mr. Phillips, who lives at No. 2019 South Main street, was struck down while crossing Washington street at Main, by an automobile driven by S. J. Ball, No. 411 East Forty-sixth street. Mr. Phillips is reported to have become confused in the heavy traffic and, in attempting to dodge, stepped directly in front of Ball's machine. His skull was fractured, and he received internal injuries. He was taken to the County Hospital, where his condition is reported most serious.

Shoes and Reason.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Are there not enough intelligent, sensible women in the world to force the manufacturers of shoes to place on the market an article that will be acceptable to women of good taste. Women who want an elegant, dressy piece of footwear—one that is neither freakish nor sporty looking.

My husband used to order his shoes over the telephone as easily and with as much assurance as I would order a dollar's worth of sugar or a pound of butter.

When I enter a shoe shop the polite salesman usually begins by trying to fit my foot to a piece of foppery that would doubtless delight the heart of a movie queen or a dance-hall girl, but something that no self-respecting woman could possibly wear on the street or to church, and when I ask for something a little more moderate they go to the other extreme and bring out for my inspection an old lady's comfort shoe.

Two years ago I bought in a small country town in the Middle West a shoe for $3.50 that possessed both quality and elegance—moreover it was absolutely comfortable. The next time I needed shoes I tried to get the very same thing and, although, I have visited every large store in Chicago, Los Angeles and Long Beach I can find nothing like it. I was at last convinced that the styles in shoes had changed so radically that it was impossible for me to ever again get the same shoe. I can understand why women wish to change styles in hats, dresses, cloaks and collars, but why in shoes and corsets—garments so vital to our comfort.

I took my training in a Chicago hospital, where I had the distinction of having the best foot and ankle of any of the 300 nurses, so it must not be supposed that I am too plain or too practical to appreciate beauty and style as well as comfort sense.

MRS. DR. J. M. HAMBLIN.

BEATEN AND ROBBED.

Brothers, Ranch Workers, are Roughly Handled When One Goes to Assistance of Other.

Ilaro Casto, a Mexican ranch hand living just outside the city limits, and his brother, Santos, were severely beaten by bandits early last night near Macy and Alameda streets, and then robbed of $30 in cash.

The brothers were riding on a Brooklyn Heights car and Ilaro left it at Macy and Alameda streets. Before he had gone 100 feet he was set upon by two highwaymen and his shouts for help were heard by his brother, who had remained on the street car.

Rushing to the help of his brother, Santos was also attacked and beaten. The highwaymen then took the $30. Both bandits, according to their victims, were white men. They were not masked.

SOUTHERN CROP REPORTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Sept. 5.—The Ventura Lima Bean Company has just been organized for the purpose of buying and selling lima beans. This company consists of a number of the larger growers in the county, and while the names of the growers backing the company have not been given out, it is stated that growers raising more than 50,000 bags of beans are already in the organization.

The members believe that present prices of beans are lower than conditions justify. The suspension for one year of the activities of the Lima Bean Growers' Association has left the field open for various experiments in marketing among the bean growers. The new organization is intended to operate among Ventura county growers only.

Bean growers who have investigated their fields since the recent hot days find that the heat has materially reduced the crop. The heat has affected the beans in spots. Part of a field will be untouched, while on another part the beans have been ripened prematurely.

The pods are dried and the beans will be light and withered in them. The first setting of beans is not hurt. The third setting where the beans have felt the heat will not amount to anything.

Because of the prospect of a shortage of beet seed on account of the war, which has cut off the German supply to this country, there is considerable activity among the growers in preparing to harvest seed on their fields this year. The seed may be seen on many ranches, piled in long winrows, to dry, when it will be threshed. The M. C. Solari ranch has a small thresher at work on the beet seed now.

SOUDAN GRASS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 5.—That Soudan grass, the new stock feed, is all that is claimed for it by government experts, is demonstrated today by a sample placed on display at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce by John H. Baker, a well-known local rancher, who is doing some experimenting with the new feed.

On August 7, last, Mr. Baker harvested his entire crop of Soudan grass, cutting it down to within three or four inches of the ground. The sample which he today placed on display stands five feet high and grew from this stubble in less than a month without irrigation, on his ranch to the south of the city. Mr. Baker declares that he will be able to harvest several more times and still gather good crops.

The local rancher states that the grass is sweet and makes a splendid stock feed, his stock liking it and thriving on it.

Mr. Baker is also displaying some Egyptian corn stalks standing over nine feet in height, gathered just ninety days after the seed was planted and having received no irrigation whatever.

PEAR BLIGHT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MENTONE, Sept. 5.—After a careful investigation of the pear blight, which played havoc with the crop on the trees of the valley, the horticultural experts of the county believe that the blight can be reduced at least 75 per cent. To do this it will be necessary to plant the right varieties of trees, several of them new, which have been found to be resistant to the blight.

It is said that the most difficulty in controlling the blight comes from the disease getting into the trunk and lower branches. One of the most promising methods of control with susceptible varieties like the Bartlett is to have the trunk and branches of the blight resistant varieties and the top of the kind of fruit wanted with the aid of grafting.

Several varieties have been found to make a good union and some that are not so good. The Keiffer and the Bartlett make a poor union. Many pear trees are to be planted here and at Yucaipa next winter and this method to control the blight will probably be adopted.

BIG PRUNE CROP.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Sept. 5.—Work is well under way on the harvest of the largest prune crop in the history of Tulare county. The fruit is not only abundant but of a high quality. Prices are the best ever offered, in some instances contracts signed early in the season being on a basis of $29 per ton for fruit delivered at packing-house. On the basis of $20 it is estimated that the output of prunes for the district will be worth nearly $300,000 gross to the orchardists.

After having paid $100,000 to the beet growers for their product, in addition to $25,000 in wages, the San Joaquin Valley Sugar Company's plant here closed one of the most successful runs in its history. The sugar percentage on the total tonnage of beets handled ran well over 16, considered a very good record. Of the 40,000 sacks of output for the year officials of the company say contracts have been closed for 30,000 sacks.

YUCAIPA APPLES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YUCAIPA, Sept. 5.—Plenty of water for the South Bench of the valley, which promises to be one of the best apple sections in the district, was assured when the pump on the new well of the Redlands and Yucaipa Land Company was started during the week. A few hours after the pump was put in operation a flow of 30 inches was secured, this was soon increased to 50 inches and when the pump was put at capacity the well developed 100 inches of water.

The work of planting on the South Bench has been carried along rapidly and the new pumping plant there will provide plenty of water for the ranchers. The apple crop is setting well on the trees in the valley and the crop this fall will be the largest ever handled. This district was not affected by the early frosts.

The late peach crop is being handled slowly as the prices are not very good. The Bartlett pear crop is ready for harvest.

BETTER PRICES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIMAS, Sept. 5.—With 100 cars of oranges to market in excess of the number of cars produced last year, the members of the San Dimas Orange Association realized a return of $112,000 more for this year's crop than they got for the preceding crop.

The report of C. M. Wheeler, who is manager of the association shows that 275,557 boxes of oranges were shipped and sold by the association this year, bringing the growers a return of $282,485.55. The report of Mr. Foster, who is manager of the San Dimas Orange Growers' Exchange, shows that the growers of that exchange netted several cents per box this year over the box average of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, on their orange crop.

PORTERVILLE NAVELS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 5.—In anticipation of a large output of navel oranges for the ensuing year, two new packing plants are now in course of construction in packing-house row. They are the new house of the Mid-California Citrus Association, and that of the Associated Orange Distributors of Redlands.

Officials of the Mid-California have started work on their new plant and state when it is completed it will house the most modern orange-handling machinery in use in this district. Contracts for the Associated house will be let, it is stated, some time this week.

At Huntington Beach.

SCORES DANCING AND BEACH GARB.

ALSO WEARING OF ORNAMENTS FOR THE PERSON.

Adventist Pastor Says the Place for a Bathing Suit is the Bedroom and the Devil Sets Traps in the Ballroom—Seaside Camp Meeting Series Closes.

The modern dance, the exposure of the person at the beach resorts and the wearing of gold ornaments were severely scored by Evangelist Luther Warren in a sermon at the Seventh Day Adventist camp-ground at Huntington Beach Saturday afternoon.

"A woman has no more moral right to expose her limbs at the beach where men are around than she has to wear a bathing suit in the parlor," emphatically declared the minister. "The place for that sort of clothing is in your bedroom.

"Furthermore, the modern dance is one of the devil's traps for souls. A man will allow another to take liberties with his wife at a dance which, if taken at any other time and place, he would shoot him for. But why is such conduct any better in the sight of heaven because it is done at a dance? It isn't.

"Oh, the bare arms and the outstretched necks—the thin clothing which shows everything beneath! Jesus is ashamed of his people. He is ashamed that they dress like the world. It doesn't matter that it has become the common thing in the world. That doesn't make such things right.

"Christians ought not to wear gold rings, and bracelets and gold chains. The place for ornament is in the soul. It is the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit which is in the sight of God of great price. Christians have no right to follow the fashions of the world. 'Come ye apart and be ye separate,' is the admonition of the Bible."

"Spiritualism is a rank delusion, and so are purgatory and limbo, for the Bible positively teaches that man is mortal, that Christ is the only life-giver, that man's thoughts perish the day he dies, that the dead know not anything, but that those who are accounted worthy to obtain eternal life will be resurrected at the coming of Jesus in the clouds of heaven," said Pastor R. S. Owen, of San Diego, in a sermon in the auditorium at the camp-ground Saturday night.

Thirty new converts were baptized there yesterday morning, Pastor F. M. Burg, of Loma Linda, officiating. Two revival meetings were held Saturday, one in the morning being conducted by Pastor E. E. Andross and one for the young people in the afternoon being conducted by M. E. Cady, of Oakland. Between 300 and 400 young men and women signified at the latter meeting that they are ready for missionary service at home or abroad.

Yesterday was the last day of the annual encampment and the leaders consider the meetings to have been very successful in every way.

Beach at 2 o'clock a.m., May 11, 1912, by Postoffice Inspector C. N. Moore of Chicago, after a hunt of a year. Although his wife had divorced him but a week previously, a feature of the arrest was Capt. Dudley's visit to her an hour after his being taken into custody. At the home of her sister in Hollywood, where she still resides, there was an affecting reconciliation, which, however, did not endure.

Capt. Dudley was held in $5000 bail, which he made no effort to secure. He was taken to Chicago and on May 25 entered a plea of guilty to the charge and was sent to the House of Correction for six months.

Since his return to this city the soldier has put the past behind him and, according to his friends, has effectually wiped the slate clean. He removed to San Francisco some months ago and re-entered the automobile business. On the occasion of Miss Stose's family's visit to the fair, it was decided to have the wedding at once. The couple left immediately for a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe and will make their home in Sausalito.

The Stose family are pioneers in Los Angeles and are of considerable social prominence. The present Mrs. Dudley has until recently been a teacher in the county schools.

MAYOR'S FATHER DEAD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Sept. 5.—Elwood A. Maulsby, for some years a resident of Whittier, father of Mayor O. W. Maulsby of this city, died at his home, Cudahy Ranch, late last evening, aged 86 years.

Born in Wayne county, Indiana, he emigrated to Iowa in 1853, three years ahead of the first railroad train in the Hawkeye State. He came to California in 1893, residing for a time in Santa Maria.

Mr. and Mrs. Maulsby celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary two years ago, and more quietly their sixty-second on March 1, this year.

Besides the widow and son, Mayor Maulsby, the deceased leaves another son, E. B. Maulsby, in Dexter, Iowa; a daughter, Mrs. Flora Brown, Fowler, Colo., and a son, Fred, of Cudahy Ranch.

Funeral services will be held in White's chapel Monday at 9 a.m., with Rev. G. W. Coultas in charge.

AFTER MIDDLE AGE.

Men Should Eat Less and Take More Exercise and be Temperate in All Things.

[Kansas City Star:] Why do so many men over 40 break down? Vital statistics show that an alarming percentage of men who have passed the age of 40 and who ought to live to ripe old age, begin to fail rapidly and die many before they reach 50, and after 50 the death rate increases out of proportion to the mere advance in years.

Leading physicians have found out from census reports and mortuary statistics that the chief causes of deaths after 40 are heart disease, arterio-sclerosis, Bright's disease and certain diseases of the nervous system. Now, these diseases are intimately related to one another, and have many causative factors in common, and, mark this, you men past 40, the two most common causes of these diseases are over-indulgence of the appetites and lack of outdoor exercise.

Too much alcohol, too much tobacco, too much fast living—we do not need a doctor to tell us what they will do to a man past 40. But listen to what Dr. George Cheyne, a great English physician, says:

"Every man who is nearing 50 ought to begin to lessen the quantity of his food, and if he would continue free of great and dangerous distempers and preserve his senses and faculties clear to the last, he ought every seven years to go on abating gradually and sensibly, and at last descend out of life as he ascended into it, even into the child's diet."

The Scientific American recently consulted a number of the leading American physicians about this very thing and all of them agreed that overeating, especially the overeating of meat, and lack of exercise were the prime causes in the rapid decline of men past 40.

Walking is recommended by those physicians interviewed as the best exercise, and a man should take at least two hours of it each day, either in the form of golf or just plain walking.

GERMANY'S RESOURCEFULNESS.

A Substitute is Found for Everything that Shows a Shortage Because of the War.

[Washington Post:] "Germany has astonished the world by its extraordinary resourcefulness," remarked A. J. Handford, an American traveler in Europe, who recently returned from abroad. "There appears to be no angle of the war that staggers the Germans; they have a substitute for everything. For instance, in recent months the Germans have been buying great quantities of turnip and rutabaga seed from Denmark, not for planting, but for the manufacture of oil. The Germans' supply of oil for machinery, particularly for use in their submarines, got very low some time ago. Then it was found that oil made from turnip and rutabaga seed was practically as good for oiling machinery as that made from petroleum, and it was then the Germans began purchasing the seed from Denmark. I presume if their supply of seed should become exhausted they would find another substitute."

Kill Brigands.

I am not able to say whether or not the shots fired by Mr. Avery and myself were responsible for the death of any of the Mexicans, but we do know that the volley was very effective.

"Orosco and his men had gone to the ranch-house that morning and forced the cook to furnish them a bountiful breakfast. Then they rode away and rounded up several head of horses. They were followed by two of our men and located in camp. It did not seem to occur to the Mexicans that they might be followed. In this particular they showed marked stupidity.

"The ranchers along the border have no hope for an improvement of conditions. The situation has gradually become worse in spite of the presence of the soldiers. We believe that intervention is the only solution to the problem.

"I wish that Texas could be given a free hand in dealing with Mexico. There are more than enough Texas cowboys to defeat the combined armies of the Mexican factions in any kind of battle."

NO PUNISHMENT FOR CRIMINALS.

Would Substitute Education and Prevent Wars.

Father of Mothers' Pension Law in Pasadena.

Christian Endeavorers Pray in Canyon Camp.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Sept. 6.—"We would have no more war if we abolished the idea of control by punishment," stated Judge Henry Neil, father of the mothers' pension law, speaking at the open air concert in a Pintoresca Park yesterday afternoon. Judge Neil had been invited to address the Washington Heights Club and the Pasadena Peace Society and was enthusiastically greeted by several thousand persons.

Speaking on the "Relation of Peace to the Mothers' Pension Law," Judge Neil said that to talk about peace he must first talk about the principles underlying war.

"It was only a few years ago in Illinois," he said, "that a man could beat his wife if he did not use a club larger than the judge's thumb. The idea, of course, was that you had to have a club to keep peace.

"In those days we did not have man-suffrage, let alone woman suffrage. We had property suffrage, instead. A man had to have so much property before he could vote.

"We are now getting over the idea of abolishing crome by punishment, and are now abolishing crime by education. When we get further along we will abolish war by the same method."

Judge Neil says that when we adopt the philosophy of the Nazarene and abide by the second commandment to "love thy neighbor as thyself" we will have nothing to go to war about. He states that the war was produced by overproduction of the manufactories and because the laboring man was not given sufficient wages to purchase the products of his labor, the manufacturer was obliged to find a foreign market. He than ran up against another manufacturer in exactly the same predicament and a fight ensued.

The judge is violently opposed to the administration of money by any form of organized charity. If a family needs help, he believes in helping them directly and not pay a horde of highly-paid executives and clerks to distribute it.

This is the principle he works on in the application of the mothers' pension law. He wants the money for the upkeep of the children given to the mothers, rather than to a State institution.

"We cannot hire anyone else to look after the children as well for as little money as can the mother," is the way he sums up the argument.

CANYON PRAYERS.

The Christian Endeavor Societies of the First Christian Church of Los Angeles and the Congregational Church of La Canada held an evening service at Switzer's camp last night. The young people gathered around a huge camp fire, where they carried out a programme of prayer and music. Dr. Scott, pastor of the La Canada Congregational Church, addressed the outdoor gathering of forty young people.

Just at midnight the Young People's Society of the Tremont Baptist Church of Pasadena arrived at the camp and were ready to make the trip to Strawberry Peak at 2 o'clock this morning for a sunrise service.

For the past two days the camp has entertained the largest crowds in its history, and the entertainment on both occasions has been unique and very much enjoyed. The programme Saturday night was of a miscellaneous nature.

The most interesting part, however, and on which occasion a good many thrills was had, was when some one announced an old lady who had come up the steep mountain trail on "burro" back. She was dressed in the garb that was out of date more than half a century ago.

After she had entertained the campers with camp stories for an hour, her identity was made known. She is Mrs. Caroline Tew, one of Pasadena's best-known musicians.

CITY BRIEFS.

Isadore Jacobs, president of the National Inland Waterways Association, will be a guest of the Pasadena Board of Trade at a luncheon given next Tuesday at the Maryland Hotel. Because Mr. Jacobs's visit here was unheralded and preparations were made for his entertainment so hurriedly, it is not expected that a large number will be present. Mr. Jacobs will give a speech, which will be replete with instructive entertainment.

J. H. Bandholt, a retired capitalist of Monrovia, who was rushed to the Pasadena Hospital Saturday night in a serious condition, suffering from valvular heart trouble, was said at the hospital last night to be very much improved. According to the nurses, Mr. Bandholt was resting and had undergone a decided change for the better.

GORED MAN RECOVERING.

Goes Lung Punctured in Fight With a Vicious Bull on Ranch Near Lancaster.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LANCASTER, Sept. 5.—O. Casson, manager of the Sierra Madre ranch, east of Lancaster, owned by Attorney Russ Avery of Los Angeles, was brought back home today from that city, where he was taken as the result of an encounter on the ranch with a vicious bull Saturday.

Casson, who was leading the animal to water, was attacked when the chain attached to the bull's nose broke. The victim, who carried an iron club, fought the beast till help arrived, when he dropped to the ground unconscious.

An X-ray examination in one of the city hospitals disclosed a hole through the right lung, where the animal gored Casson as he fought with his back against the barn. Surgeons in attendance expect the rancher to recover.

FINDS SNAKE ON AUTO SEAT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 4.—It was glistening on the back seat of R. L. Merigold's automobile at Ocean Beach when Mrs. Merigold started to climb in for the homeward drive to San Diego. Mrs. Merigold, being duly endowed with curiosity put out her hand to discover the unusual cause for glitter in a usually sober automobile, and touched a snake.

When things subsided an investigation showed the snake to be lifeless. The only explanation that could be given for its presence in the back seat is that it was run over on the way to Ocean Beach and the revolution of the wheels had thrown the snake into the air in such fashion it dropped into the tonneau of the machine.

Whether the snake was merely a garter or a genuine rattler was not determined, for he was hurriedly ejected and Mrs. Merigold hastened home for treatment for shock.

HAWAIIANS BITTER OVER TOURIST TAX.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 5.—That the Democratic administration practically killed the tourist business in Hawaii for this year by demanding $200 from each American citizen who travels from the States to Honolulu on a steamer flying a foreign flag is the assertion of Henry Fisher, the Redlands millionaire who has just returned from a trip to the islands. With him was Mrs. Fisher and two daughters and servants, a party of eight.

"The business men and hotel men of Hawaii are bitter about the placing of the $200 penalty on the American tourists," said Mr. Fisher. "It has certainly cut into the tourist business, it being smaller this year than it has ever been. The Pacific Mail line is out of business and that leaves but one American line making the run to Hawaii. The intention of the administration may have been good, but it has not worked out to the benefit of the resort men of the islands."

Mr. Fisher says that the big crop of the Hawaiian Islands will bring very unsatisfactory prices, according to growers. There is an overproduction of pineapples and this lowered the prices. The shippers are having no trouble in sending the fruit overseas, the European war having no effect in the North Pacific Ocean.

WILD FLIGHT IN AEROPLANE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Only a masterly exhibition of skill and nerve by Oscar A. Brindley, instructor at the military aviation school at North Island, saved him and Miss Tiny Broadwick, aviatrix, from death or serious injury at the Panama-California Exposition this afternoon during a flight in a military biplane.

Brindley and Miss Broadwick ascended in a Martin biplane equipped with a 75-horsepower motor. Brindley found that the wind was literally blowing a gale at a height of 250 feet. Rocking and pitching at an alarming rate, the machine, caught by a sudden puff of wind just as Brindley had completed a left turn, rose for a second like a bullet. Then a downward rush of air sent it spinning toward a clump of trees.

By leaning far to the left and banking at an angle of 45 degrees, the aviator escaped the trees by inches only. After a desperate fight Brindley prevented the aeroplane from dipping into the canyon and finally reached the aviation field in safety.

Miss Broadwick was to have made a double jump from a height of 3000 feet equipped with an aerial life preserver. She was disappointed at the outcome of the flight and tried to induce Brindley to ascend a second time. The aviator refused, declaring that it would mean disaster.

Another attempt will be made tomorrow afternoon. If weather conditions are the same as they were today, an other aeroplane with a more powerful motor will be used.

CUTS WIDE SWATH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 5.—Fred Newmann, a young German who occupied a princely suite at Hotel Schuyler for a week, and whose wardrobe was the envy of the youth of Ocean avenue, was taken into custody tonight by Police Detective Winters on suspicion of being a bad check writer. Winters says he has discovered from police records that the beach Beau Brummel spent eight months in the County Jail last year.

Newmann was cutting quite a swath socially when he was nabbed. He had entered into negotiations with Bert Ensminger to buy a Stutz car, and at the same time he ordered a Cole eight from Jack McSwain. He also told Charles Moist he wanted the best motorcycle he had. How he came by the dollars which he strewed liberally on the beach Rialto is a matter which now concerns the police.

LIGHTS OUT.

The red and green lights on the jetties at the entrance to the harbor have been out for two nights, according to a report made to the police by Capt. Wheelock, skipper of the good ship Viking, which came into the port with difficulty last night because of the lack of lights to show where the jetties were. Commissioner Hargis was notified of the lack of welcoming lights on the jetties and made haste to send a man to light them.

Pomona District Growers Get Excellent Prices.

Miner Loses Large Fortune, but Wins Another.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Sept. 5.—Towering high above the figures offered by any other exchange in the great co-operative citrus fruit marketing organization of Southern California, the San Antonio Fruit Exchange of this city comes to the front this year with a report which shows a total return of $1,441,789 to the growers for the 1914-1915 crop in this valley—an amount which exceeds the return of the previous season by more than a quarter of a million dollars.

The figures prove beyond a doubt that the San Antonio exchange has brought its members an f.o.b. price which is from 30 to 50 cents higher than the price secured by any other exchange in the association. The record of this exchange is little short of marvelous. For the past ten years it has averaged $1.59 per box, f.o.b. shipping point. The average this year was $1.58 on regular and off-bloom fruit, while $1.70 was realized for seedlings. The Valencia average up to July 21 was $2.39 per box.

Aside from the splendid management which is evident from the report of the year's work, the one thing which has brought the growers of this section a good figure for their oranges is the fact that there is a heavy Valencia acreage in this valley, and that the crop comes on late and hits the market at a time when Valencias bring a good, round price.

An interesting item in connection with the management during the past year is the fact that during that period the exchange has collected claims amounting to $149,209.58 for the growers, while the total cost of operating the exchange during that period was $106,267.50 — $43,000 less than total of claims collected.

The Pomona Fruit Growers' Association got $120,000 more for its oranges this year than it got for last year's crop, while the Claremont Citrus Association was $34,000 ahead of last year's receipts. The returns for the past season are listed as follows: Pomona Fruit Growers' Association, $408,784; La Verne Orange Growers' Association, $323,949; Indian Hill Citrus Association, $219,258; Claremont Citrus Association, $191,205; College Heights Orange Association, $166,161; El Camino Citrus Association, $2117; Walnut Fruit Growers' Association, $50,314. The expense of operating the exchange has been less than two-fifths of one per cent. of the gross receipts.

FORTUNE SMILES.

Fifteen years ago Ralph Elliott owned eleven of the finest placer gold mines in the Eldorado Creek district of the Yukon country. He amassed a big fortune. Then the tide turned and fortune frowned upon him, from all appearances, for he dropped into this city about six months ago and secured employment as salesman in a dry goods store.

Fortune again turned toward him as suddenly as it turned against him, however, for he has just left for Buffalo to claim an estate of more than $500,000, which was left by his wife, Mrs. Belle Elliott, who died there last Friday. The woman left several downtown business blocks, one of which is valued at $37,000 and another at $22,000. She left a great deal of other valuable real estate. It is said that her fortune was left to her by her mother, who conducted a hotel for captains who sailed the Great Lakes.

At one time Mr. Elliott was a haberdasher in New York City, but for thirty-five years he was a successful miner in the Klondike, in Arizona and New Mexico. It is said that in recent years he has been obliged to reside in Southern California for the benefit of his health.

There seems to be an impression at Buffalo that the Elliotts made wills in favor of each other many years ago and placed them in safe keeping, but it is said that a few days before her death Mrs. Elliott was seen in the act of burning a bundle of deeds and bank books.

Immediately upon receipt of news of the death of his wife Mr. Elliott started for Buffalo. There seems to be no doubt but that he will inherit the fortune, for there were no children in the family and Mrs. Elliott left no relatives.

INHERITS ESTATE.

From a girl of the candy shop to possessor of a $100,000 estate is the broad jump that was made by Miss Bettie Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hanson of this city, who is now the widow of the late Leon Holmes of Long Beach. Mr. Holmes was killed in an auto accident and his widow inherits the entire estate of her husband and his father, F. L. Holmes, who, with his wife, was also killed when the auto in which the couples were riding crashed into a bridge west of Long Beach. Mrs. Leon Holmes is the sole survivor, and the Holmes families had no other heir.

Four years ago, or thereabout, Betty Hanson began clerking in a candy shop on West Second street, in this city. Seven months ago Leon Holmes and his first wife were divorced at Yuma, Ariz. Then he and Betty were married. Seven months from that time F. L. Holmes and his wife and son Leon were killed and Mrs. Leon Holmes fell heir to their fortune, which is said to be valued at from $75,000 to $100,000, the chief feature of it being heavy holdings in an auto tire factory at Compton.

EGG FARM SOLD.

William Shamrick has purchased the fifteen-acre deciduous fruit ranch and egg farm of William and Walter Goldsworthy, at the corner of Ramona and Philadelphia streets, the consideration being $12,750.

The ranch is one of the finest equipped egg farms in the valley and was conducted by the Goldsworthys with much success for about ten years. Walter Goldsworthy has retired from ranching to take up electrical engineering in Los Angeles.

INDIAN BEATS HIM UP.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HIGHLAND, Sept. 5.—Another case of an Indian and too much of the white man's firewater was brought to light yesterday when D. Ermosillo swore out a complaint, charging Jose Chowell, a San Manuel reservation Indian, with assault and battery. The charge was made before Justice Kunzman. The Indian has not answered to the charge. Ermosillo says he was walking along the Highland avenue road near City Creek when the Indian rushed up and began to "beat him up." Ermosillo declared it was a good job. The officers will also make an investigation as to where the red man got the firewater, the government being very particular about this point.

VICTORVILLE BONDS.

[LY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VICTORVILLE, Sept. 5.—Thirty thousand dollars bonds for a new high school building carried here at yesterday's election—yes, 130; no, 9. Three precincts have not yet reported, but cannot affect the result. The vote was light. A former election was thrown out on account of illegal election hours.

PAVING AT LINDSAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LINDSAY, Sept. 5.—Specifications have been adopted by the City Council for additional street paving. The new streets to be improved will be Hermosa and Mt. Vernon avenues over which there is a heavy traffic during orange packing season. The new specifications call for a rock base of four inches in depth overlaid with a one and one-half inch cushion covering of asphalt. Bids for the work will be called shortly.

ESCONDIDO READY FOR ITS FESTIVAL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ESCONDIDO, Sept. 5.—Officers of the Escondido Grape Day Association announce that everything is in readiness for the 1915 Grape Day festival Thursday.

Ellen Beach Yaw will sing. Three of her numbers will be her own compositions, "California," "Spring's Invitation" and "The Sky Lark." Her accompanist will be Miss Mary Newman of Los Angeles.

A novelty, so far as Grape Day festivals is concerned, will be a parade over which a queen, being elected by popular vote, will preside. Half a dozen of the pretty girls of the valley are in the contest.

Judge Eugene Daney of San Diego, president of the State Bar Association, will be one of the umpires of the indoor baseball game between the San Diego County Chamber of Commerce and the Grape Day Association members.

Ten tons of muscat grapes will be given away during the day, half of them in clusters, upon arrival of the crowds, and half in souvenir two-pound boxes, upon the departure of the guests.

Free auto sight-seeing trips over the valley have been arranged. A big display of the products will be made, and 4000 souvenir buttons will be handed out. A continuous programme of entertainment, forenoon, afternoon and evening, has been provided. During the day a demonstration of the head of water developed by the wells of the new $100,000 municipal system will be made at the park through a four-inch water pipe.

"SOONERS" ON LAND.

Large Tract Near Visalia to be Opened Soon with Filings to Close Wednesday.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, Sept. 5.—Wednesday is expected to be one of the busiest days in the history of the Visalia Land Office. This is the date set for applicants to lay claim to filings on over 150,000 acres of government lands eliminated by the order of August 15 of the General Land Office in Washington from the forest reserves in Tulare county.

According to reports which reached here from Hot Springs, the resort settlement on the edge of the Sequoia Reserve, there are now some of 100 squatters already on the ground of the land and as many as a dozen claimants appear for the selections of land of particular

Although the executive order opening the land to entry covered a large area, much of the land was covered by prior filing and other of the property is of doubtful agricultural

Schools and Colleges.

The NEW MARLBOROUGH, West Third Street. 27th Year opens October 5th.

Several acres of land have been purchased in the Wilshire district and it is expected that the school will occupy its beautiful new buildings on Thanksgiving. Until then it will continue at 365 West 23rd street.

The Assembly Room, Gymnasium, Class Rooms and Dining Room are enlarged. There is ample room for tennis and other sports, and the swimming pool will be added.

There are arcades and patio for out-of-door study and sleeping porches and windows are so arranged that bedrooms and classrooms may be easily converted into "open-air rooms."

The West Sixth street car line passes within two short blocks of the new school. Paved streets through Windsor Square and sidewalks to the door.

M'Adoo Insists They Make Trade.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Secretary McAdoo today transmitted to President Wilson his report of the proceedings and conclusions of the Pan-American Financial Conference, held here last May, with representative bankers, business men and statesmen of the United States and eighteen Latin-American republics in attendance. Mr. McAdoo summarized his suggestions for carrying out the work of the conference and improving the financial and commercial relations between the participating nations as follows:

"First—That the twelve Federal reserve banks establish promptly joint agencies in the leading cities of all the countries of Central and South America for the purpose of providing enlarged credit facilities, as outlined in the first part of this report.

"Second—That the government of the United States provide promptly the necessary steamship facilities by subscribing the capital stock of a corporation organized for the purpose of owning and operating the necessary steamship lines.

"Third—That the International High Commission on Uniformity of CITY. The United National Association of Postoffice Clerks flung down the gauntlet of independence to the American Federation of Labor, whose threats have failed.

The city found itself in a quandary over the proposed Southern California Edison Company condemnation; shall it be or the annexation programme lose?

The tax rate for the county was fixed at seventy-four cents, exclusive of two special levies, and the common school fund was trimmed despite officials' protesting with two beloved little boys in police two destitute women found must pay if they get help from organized charity.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The Knights of Pythias held a picnic at Venice Park.
